N6. HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE

[The present Hydrographic Office was established in 1866, but the hydrographical as well as the astronomical work of the Navy Department had begun in the Depot of Charts and Instruments which was established at Washington in 1830 (see also historical note under N14.). When the Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography, now Ordnance Bureau (N18.), was organized under act of Aug. 31, 1842, the Secretary of the Navy, by an order dated Nov. 26, 1842, directed that the Depot of Charts and Instruments be attached to that bureau as its hydrographic branch. Under another act of reorganization approved July 5, 1862, the Depot, by that time known as the United States Naval Observatory and Hydrographical Office, was detached from the Bureau of Ordnance and transferred to the newly organized Bureau of Navigation (N17.).

The astronomical and hydrographical branches of the work were separated in 1866 when the present Hydrographic Office had its beginning in an act of June 21, 1866 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 69). This act established "A Hydrographic Office attached to the Bureau of Navigation in the Navy Department, for the improvement of the means for navigating safely the vessels of the Navy and of the mercantile marine, by providing, under the authority of the Secretary of the Navy, accurate and cheap nautical charts, sailing directions, navigators, and manuals of instructions for the use of all vessels of the United States and for the benefit and use of navigators generally."

† Issue for 1910 is 12°. Since the abolishment of the Bureau of Equipment, July 1, 1910, the Coal notice for foreign ports has been issued by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts; see footnote class N20.11:

N6. HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE—Continued

This act further authorized the Secretary of the Navy to "purchase the plates and copyrights of such existing charts, maps, sailing directions, etc., as he may consider necessary." Steps were at once taken to carry out this provision and purchases were made from the firm of E. & G. W. Blunt, nautical publishers of New York City, who were up to that time the only ones who had undertaken such work on anything like an adequate scale. These purchases included 24 copperplate charts, relating mainly to the coast of America, and the copyrights of Bowditch's American practical navigator (N6.8:9) and of a few volumes of coast pilots and sailing directions. These added to the few already in the possession of the Government formed the nucleus, and the work of collecting and publishing other information was promptly undertaken.

The Hydrographic Office remained under the Bureau of Navigation until 1898, when it was transferred to the Bureau of Equipment by act of May 4, 1898 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 374). †

N6.8: Hydrographic Office publications (numbered) various sizes

[The earliest list in the Public Documents Library of the pilots, sailing directions, light lists, etc., issued by the Hydrographic Office is that on p. 83 of the Catalogue of charts and books, 1871 (N6.5:871). In this catalogue, the publications are listed without numbers.

In 1872, the office adopted the plan which has since been followed of issuing these as a numbered series. The Hydrographic Office catalogue for 1876 (N6.5:876) contains the earliest numerical list of which the Public Documents Library has information.

Numbers 1 to 29 were assigned to publications already in circulation. Of these nos. 1 and 2 had been issued by the "Naval Observatory and Hydrographical Office" (N14.), and others had been issued by the Bureau of Navigation (N17.). Beginning with no. 30, the publications in this series, with a few exceptions, have all appeared with the H. O. publication number printed on them. Most of the early publications are out of print or have been superseded by later H. O. publications with new numbers.

The method used in the Public Documents Library for assigning book numbers for this series is exceptional. The series is peculiar in that it includes within itself several individual series. Examples of this are H. O. publication 9, which has been appearing annually for a number of years, and H. O. publication 86, of which there have been 6 editions with numerous supplements, etc. For those publications which appear annually or of which there have been so many editions as to constitute practically an individual series, use the H. O. publication number as the first part of the book number; indicate each edition and all supplements to that edition by means of the edition date used as a superior number, followed by a dash and figures 1, 2, 3, etc.; see, for examples, nos. 9, 86, etc. It should be remembered, however, that the above plan of book numbering is exceptional and is to be adopted only when necessary; wherever feasible, adopt the usual style and use as book number the H. O. publication number, followed by superior numbers 1, 2, 3, etc.; see, for examples, nos. 21, 28, 81, etc.

In the case of certain H. O. publications which are supplements to or extracts from other H. O. publications, the edition phrase which appears on the lower part of the title-page refers not to the edition of the supplement, but to the edition of the original publication.]

9 (note)

[The copyright of the New American practical navigator, which had appeared in numerous editions since 1802, was purchased by the Government in 1866 (see also note at head of N6). Subsequent issues have appeared as public documents.

The work was revised in 1880 under the Bureau of Navigation, and again in 1903 after the transfer of the Hydrographic Office to the Bureau of Equipment. In the revision of 1903, the work is, for convenience, divided into 2 parts, the first comprising the text and its appendixes, and the second, the tables.

These "Useful tables" are also issued separately. From 1868 to 1902, the separately issued portion was designated as H. O. publication 13 (N6.8:13), but since the revision of publication 9 in 1903, the separate has appeared as 9, pt. 2 (N6.8:9-2).]

[The Hydrographic Office has a copy of the 1868 edition which bears the date 1868 both on title-page and back. The copy in the Public Documents Library bears 1868 on title-page and 1871 on the back.

An 1870 edition is listed in Hydrographic Office catalogues for 1876 and later years, and also on p. 6 of 47th Congress, 1st session, Senate executive document 37, serial no. 1987. There is, however, no copy bearing date 1870 in the Public Documents Library, the Hydrographic Office, or the Naval Observatory Library.]

[This is List of lights, v. 1, formerly called no. 1. The first issue of which the Public Documents Library has information is that for 1871, which was probably issued without publication number. As the issues are said to have been yearly, there are undoubtedly many editions missing from this library, and it is uncertain when the number first appeared on the publication. It is printed on the issue for 1875, which is the earliest in this library.

Title for 1909 is List of lights: v. 1, Coasts of North and South America, excepting United States, and West India and Pacific islands. The lights of the United States are given in the various lists published by the Light-House Board (C9.).

Although the form of title has varied somewhat, the territory included has been practically the same, with exceptions in some of the earlier years as here noted. The issue for 1879 includes east and west coasts of United States. In 1881, the usual list for east and west coasts of North and South America, exclusive of United States, was called no. 1a, and was issued as H. O. publication "30a." No. "30" of 1881, as listed in Hydrographic Office catalogue 1881, p. 203, and also in list of publications in [1987–37], p. 11, is a new work including lights of Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts of United States only. The Public Documents Library has no copy of this no. 30, nor of any issues of 30 from 1882 to 1887, and no information as to whether the plan of issuing both "30" and "30a" was followed during those years. The next issue in this library is that for Sept. 1888, which is printed as no. "30." It does not include lights of the United States, but is similar in scope and title to the earlier and later issues of 30, and to the "30a" issue of 1881.

See, for other Lists of lights issued by Hydrographic Office, N6.8:31, 32, 33, 33a, 33b.]

[This is List of lights, v. 3, formerly called no. 3. The first issue of which the Public Documents Library has information is that for 1871, which probably appeared without publication number. As the issues are said to have been yearly, there are undoubtedly many editions missing from this library and it is uncertain when the number first appeared on the publication. It is printed on the issue for 1875, which is the earliest in this library.

From 1871, v. 3 included lights of the west coast of Africa and of the Mediterranean Sea. Beginning with issue for 1895, this list was enlarged to include the west coast of Europe, formerly given in v. 4, and the title of v. 3 was changed correspondingly. Title for 1909 is List of lights: v. 3, West coast of Africa and Europe, and Mediterranean Sea, including Adriatic and Black seas and Sea of Azof.

[This is List of lights, v. 4, earlier called no. 4. The first issue of which the Public Documents Library has information is that for 1871, which probably appeared without publication number. As the issues are said to have been yearly, there are undoubtedly many editions missing from this library, and it is uncertain when the number first appeared on the publication. It is printed on the issue for 1875, which is the earliest in this library.

The form of the title has varied to correspond with the territory included. The title from 1871 to 1874 is List of lights, no. 4, Atlantic Coast of Europe, North, Baltic, and White seas. Beginning with 1875, the lights of the North, Baltic, and White seas were issued as a separate list, no. 5 (see N6.8:33a), and the title of no. 4 was therefore changed to List of lights, Atlantic Coast of Europe, including Spain, Portugal, France, Belgium, and Holland.

44 [Not issued.]

[In Hydrographic Office catalogue, 1876 (N6.5:876), this number is assigned to a publication with title, Coast of Brazil, v. 2, Including Rio de la Plata, which was said to be in preparation. In catalogue 1881, the title for the publication still said to be in preparation is given as Coast of South America, pt. 2, Coasts of Argentine Republic and Patagonia, from Rio de la Plata around Cape Horn to Gulf of Peñas, including Falkland, South Georgia, South Orkney, and South Shetland islands, and Magellan Strait. This publication is not listed in later catalogues, and there is no evidence that it was ever issued. Several years later, in 1889, H. O. publication 88 was issued (see N6.8:88), covering the whole east coast of South America.

The publication which was printed in 1883 as "No. 44—Supplement" is listed in Hydrographic Office catalogues for 1886 and later years as no. 54; see N6.8.54.]

[The publications grouped by Hydrographic Office under the number 108, with various designations, are sailing directions for the Great Lakes. These were originally issued in 4 pts., for Lake Superior, Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, and Lakes Erie and Ontario, respectively, with their connecting waters. The second edition, 1896 (N6.8:108 6), included all this region in 1 volume. As issued the third time, the matter was again divided into 4 volumes, corresponding to the pts. 1, 2, 3, 4 of the original issue and designated 108a, 108b, 108c, 108d. These, with their later issues, are listed below under N6.8:108a–108d.]

N6.11: Notice to mariners (weekly)

[Contains information of newly discovered dangers to navigation and of establishment and changes of lights and other aids.
First issued in 1869. Beginning with 1884 the Hydrographic notices (N6.14:) were consolidated with this series. During the early years, issues appeared at irregular intervals as necessary, but beginning with Jan. 1886, they have been weekly. Beginning with Apr. 22, 1899, the monthly Notice to mariners for Great Lakes (N6.12:) was also merged into this series.
There has been an index for each year except 1873 and possibly a few others of the early years.]

† On June 7, 1910, the Marine Corps began a series of Circulars. Only 7 numbers were issued, the last being no. 7 for Mar. 27, 1911, after which the series was merged into a new series entitled Marine Corps orders; see footnote class N9.9:

‡ No. 1 not printed; superseded by no. 237 of Navy Department General orders, 1st series (N1.13[1]:237).

§ This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The Marine Corps has since discontinued the General orders 2d series, Special orders 2d series, and Circulars (N9.4:). The last issue in each series was as follows: General order 79, Mar. 25, 1911; Special order 75, Mar. 23, 1911; Circular 7, Mar. 27, 1911. For these 3 series the Marine Corps substituted a new series of publications, the first issue of which was for Apr. 20, 1911. This has necessitated a new class under N9., the series title of which is as follows:

N9.9: Marine Corps orders 12°

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The Marine Corps has since discontinued the General orders 2d series, Special orders 2d series, and Circulars (N9.4:). The last issue in each series was as follows: General order 79, Mar. 25, 1911; Special order 75, Mar. 23, 1911; Circular 7, Mar. 27, 1911. For these 3 series the Marine Corps substituted a new series of publications, the first issue of which was for Apr. 20, 1911. This has necessitated a new class under N9., the series title of which is as follows:

N9.9: Marine Corps orders 12°

N11.6: American nautical almanac

[This ephemeris, designed for the special use of navigators, is a part of a larger work, namely, the American ephemeris and nautical almanac (N11.5:), which includes also material for the use of astronomers. The first issue was for the year 1855. It was published in this form as being cheaper and more convenient for navigators. Though often regarded as a cheap edition of the American ephemeris and nautical almanac, it is really a series in itself.

Several editions have usually been issued for each year, the first edition being published as a rule three years in advance.

As the set in the Public Documents Library and the set in the library of the Naval Observatory are both incomplete, it is impossible to make an accurate statement of the numerous editions.]

1855 American ephemeris and nautical almanac for 1855. [1st edition.] Washington, 1852 [Cambridge, Metcalf and Company, printers]. [This 1st edition has same title-page as the Astronomical ephemeris and nautical almanac for 1855 (N11.5:855), of which only the first portion is included here.]

N12. NAVAL ACADEMY

[Prior to 1845, various efforts had been made by the Navy Department for the instruction of midshipmen in naval science, etc., and several small schools had been conducted in different places, the principal ones being at Boston, New York, Norfolk, and one in connection with the Naval Asylum at Philadelphia. These were finally consolidated to form the Naval School which was formally opened at Annapolis, Md., Oct. 10, 1845.

Under a reorganization which went into effect July 1, 1850, the name was changed to Naval Academy, and the institution was placed under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography, immediate supervision being exercised, as before, by a superintendent; provision was also made for a board of visitors to inspect the school annually and to report upon its condition to the Secretary of the Navy. The Academy was removed to Newport, R. I., in May, 1861, and returned to Annapolis in the summer of 1865 by act approved May 21, 1864. When the Bureau of Navigation was established, July 5, 1862, the Academy was placed under its jurisdiction. On Mar. 1, 1867, it was placed under the direct supervision of the Navy Department, the administrative routine and financial management being still conducted through the Bureau of Navigation. On Mar. 11, 1869, this official connection with the bureau ceased, but was renewed by a General order of the Navy Department issued June 25, 1889.

N14. NAVAL OBSERVATORY†

[In 1830, there was established in Washington a bureau known as the Depot of Charts and Instruments, for the care of the instruments, charts, etc., of the Navy. One of the duties of the officers connected with this depot was the careful rating by means of astronomical observations of all chronometers belonging to the Navy, and from 1838, regular series of observations were recorded. The first appropriation was made Aug. 31, 1842 (Stat. L. v. 5, p. 576). From 1844 to 1854 the names National Observatory and United States Naval Observatory were used interchangeably. In Dec. 1854, the Secretary of the Navy directed that the institution be styled United States Naval Observatory and Hydrographical Office, and it was known as such until the establishment in 1866 of the Hydrographic Office (N6.), after which the hydrographic and astronomical branches of the work were definitely separated. Since 1866, the official name has been United States Naval Observatory.

When the Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography, now Ordnance Bureau (N18.), was organized under act of Aug. 31, 1842, the Secretary of the Navy, by an order dated Nov. 26, 1842, directed that the Depot of Charts and Instruments be attached to that Bureau as its hydrographic branch. Under another act of reorganization passed July 5, 1862, the Depot and Observatory, by that time known as United States Naval Observatory and Hydrographical Office, was detached from the Bureau of Ordnance and transferred to the newly organized Bureau of Navigation (N17.). The Hydrographic Office was separated from the Observatory, as noted above, in 1866, and the latter, now known as Naval Observatory, was transferred to the Bureau of Equipment, July 1, 1889. ‡]

†A "List of publications issued by Naval Observatory, 1845–1908," appeared in 1911 as appendix 3 to v. 6 of Publications of Naval Observatory, 2d series, and was issued separately also. Volume 6 and its appendix are classed in the Public Documents Library under N14.6:6 and N14.6[a]:P96, respectively, but are omitted from this Checklist because it ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909.

‡Transferred to Bureau of Navigation, July 1, 1910, by Changes in Navy regulations, 1909, no. 11, issued by Secretary of Navy, June 27, 1910, in pursuance of naval appropriation act approved June 24, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 613), which abolished the Bureau of Equipment; see also footnote on p. 703.

[Although not certain, it is highly probable that the two editions of the Notice to mariners, entered immediately above, were considered by Maury to be the 1st and 2d editions of his Explanations and sailing directions to accompany Wind and current charts (N14.9:). His first publication of this nature was the Abstract log for use of American navigators, the 1st and 2d editions of which (N14.2: Ab8[1,2]) were issued in 1848. Following the distribution of these, he began to receive data from merchantmen which caused him to immediately begin his work anew, on the same plan that was continued down to the end of his connection with the Observatory in 1861.

The first of the sailing directions which he issued after the reorganization of his work was the first edition of the Notice to mariners (N14.2:N84[1]), the manuscript of which was submitted to the Navy Department in Dec. 1849, and published Jan. 1850. The 2d edition appeared in the summer of 1850, with the cover-title, "Maury's sailing directions."

In 1851 came the [3d edition] of the Explanations and sailing directions to accompany Wind and current charts (N14.9:); this includes on p. 215-315 all of the matter found in the 2d edition of the Notice to mariners (N14.2:N84[2]) with additions and some changes. [This set known as Washington observations, appearing with varying titles as indicated below, is the 1st series of Publications of Naval Observatory, ending with 1892.

The volume of Astronomical observations, 1838-42, was compiled at the Depot of Charts and Instruments by Lieutenant J. M. Gilliss, before the Naval Observatory as such had been established.

In assigning volume numbers to the set of Washington observations, the issue for 1838-42 seems to have been disregarded, v. 1 to v. 5 appearing on the title-pages, but not on the back-titles, for the 5 volumes covering the years from 1845 to the combined issue for 1849 and 1850, respectively. Volume numbers were omitted thereafter until 1875. From 1875 to 1882 the volumes are numbered on the backs only, as v. 22-29, respectively. No others of the first set carry volume numbers. When the practice of numbering was resumed in 1875, one number was skipped. This gap is explained by assuming that a volume number was assigned to the observations for the years 1853-60, which appeared as appendix 2 to the annual volume for 1871.

[See, for Magnetical and meteorological observations, 1838–42, [460–172].
Meteorological observations, 1842–Jan. 1, 1867, were published as appendix 1 of Washington observations, 1866 (N14.5:866), which was also issued separately. From 1861 to 1892, the observations for each year appeared in the corresponding volumes of Washington observations (except 1883–87, all in Washington observations, 1887, as appendix 3). The Meteorological observations were also printed separately for 1872–83 (each year separately), 1883–87 (in one publication), 1888–90 (each year separately), 1891 and 1892 (in one publication).

Magnetic observations for 1888–89 (in one report), and for each year 1890–92 were published in various volumes of Washington observations (N14.5:) as appendixes thereto, and were also issued separately. There were no magnetic observations made during 1893 owing to the removal of the instruments from the old to the new observatory site.
The Magnetic observations for 1894 were published separately as "Washington observations, 1894, appendix 1." There is no volume of "Washington observations, 1894," as the plan of publication was changed (see note at head of N14.6:), and the Magnetic observations for 1894 do not appear in any collected volume.

N14.10: Wind and current charts

[None of the Wind and current charts are in the Public Documents Library, and information concerning that part of the set which has not been examined has been obtained from v. 2 of 8th edition of Explanations and sailing directions to accompany Wind and current charts, p. 873 (N14.9:8[2]); from Catalogue of charts and books published by Hydrographic Office, 1871, p. 80 (N6.5:871); and from List of publications issued by Naval Observatory, 1845–1908, which appeared in 1911 as reprint of Publications of Naval Observatory, 2d series, v. 6, app. 3.

Of the 129 marginal numbers assigned to Wind and current charts, as indicated in the lists below (N14.10[1-7]:), nos. 26–30, 39–42, 44, 45, 49, 76, and 77 were not issued. Numbers 83–115, 121–124, 126–128 are still unaccounted for, the probabilities being that the missing numbers were originally assigned as follows: 83–115, to 11 Thermal sheets for the north Pacific Ocean, 11 Thermal sheets for the Indian Ocean, and 11 Thermal sheets for the south Pacific Ocean; 121–124, to 4 sheets for a Physical map of the ocean; 126 and 127, to the Trade wind charts for the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, of which the former actually appeared though without marginal number; and 128, to the Storm and rain chart for the south Pacific Ocean. There is printed information to the effect that work on the Thermal sheets for the north Pacific and the Indian oceans, the Physical map of the ocean, and the Storm and rain chart for the south Pacific Ocean had been actually begun; but no information is at hand about the Thermal sheets for the south Pacific Ocean and the Trade wind chart for the Pacific Ocean, the marginal numbers for these being only conjectured.]

N15. NAVAL WAR COLLEGE

[Established by Navy Department General order 325, Oct. 6, 1884, which placed the college under the Bureau of Navigation. The old Poor House on Coaster's Harbor Island, Newport, R. I., was assigned to its use. The first college term opened Sept. 3, 1885. By naval appropriation act approved Sept. 7, 1888 (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 459), the Secretary of the Navy was "authorized to consolidate and place under one command the Torpedo Station and the Naval War College at Newport, R. I., after said date [Jan. 1, 1889]." By Navy Department General order 365, Jan. 11, 1889, the consolidation was made, the wording of a portion of the order being as follows: "The institution on Coaster's Harbor Island, in the harbor of Newport, Rhode Island, known as the 'Naval War College,' is hereby consolidated with, and made a part of, the Torpedo Station on Goat Island, in said harbor, which station, as consolidated, will hereafter be known as the 'Naval Torpedo Station and War College,' and is placed under the command of the officer in charge of the torpedo station."

The college, by that order, was transferred from the Bureau of Navigation to the Bureau of Ordnance. The same order transferred the library and movable property belonging to the college to the Naval Torpedo Station and War College on Goat Island near by, while the building on Coaster's Harbor Island, formerly occupied by the college, passed to the control of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting for the use of the Naval Training Station.

By the naval appropriation act approved Mar. 2, 1889 (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 812), $100,000 became available for erecting and furnishing a new building for use by the Naval Torpedo Station and War College. As that act made no definite provision for its location, the Secretary of the Navy delayed undertaking the construction, and on p. 36 of his annual report for 1889 (N1.1:889[1]) opposed its erection on Goat Island, recommending instead Coaster's Harbor Island. He also recommended on p. 37 of the same report that the college should not be attached to the Bureau of Ordnance, but to the Bureau of Navigation. In accordance with these recommendations, the next appropriation act, that of June 30, 1890 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 190) included the "Naval War College and Torpedo School, on Coaster's Harbor Island," under the Bureau of Navigation, and authorized the Secretary of the Navy to erect the new building on Coaster's Harbor Island. The act became effective July 1, 1890, and this date marks the severance of the connection between the college and the Naval Torpedo Station, the latter remaining then, as now, on Goat Island. The two establishments should not be confused.

There was no session of the college in 1890, nor in 1891. On Sept. 1, 1892, the college was reopened in its new quarters on Coaster's Harbor Island. There was no session for 1893.

N15. NAVAL WAR COLLEGE—Continued

Another radical change in the administration of the college came with Navy Department General order 421, Mar. 14, 1894, which consolidated all three establishments at Newport, namely (1) the Naval Training Station, (2) the Naval War College and Torpedo School, and (3) the Naval Torpedo Station. The three establishments so consolidated formed one command, known as the Naval Station, Newport, R. I. The officer commanding the Naval Training Station was designated as the commandant of the Naval Station. General order 496, dated Aug. 16, 1898, effective Oct. 1, 1898, revoked the consolidation order of Mar. 14, 1894, and restored the establishments to the same footing which had existed prior to 1894. †

In 1898, the year of the War with Spain, there was no session of the college.

For some time prior to Dec. 16, 1901, the college was directly under the control of the assistant Secretary of the Navy; on Dec. 16, 1901, by Navy Department General order 74, dated Dec. 13, 1901, the college was placed again under the Bureau of Navigation. Beginning with Dec. 1, 1909, by order of the Secretary of the Navy (see p. 3 of Changes in Navy regulations, 1909, no. 6, N1.11 2:909 6), the Naval War College was detached from the Bureau of Navigation.

Several changes have been made in the name of the college. From its organization in 1884 to Jan. 11, 1889, the name was "Naval War College;" from Jan. 11, 1889 to July 1, 1890, it became by consolidation a part of the "Naval Torpedo Station and War College;" for several years after 1890 either the form "Naval War College and Torpedo School" or "Naval War College" was used, but of recent years the authorized form has been "Naval War College."]

This article and the concluding one by the same author in v. 36, no. 3, Sept. 1910, contain further historical information concerning the college. N16. LIBRARY AND NAVAL WAR RECORDS OFFICE

[The first appointment of an officer in charge of "Library and War Records" was made June 9, 1882. The library at that time consisted of 7,000 books of little value, a large part of the number being relics of old ships' libraries which had been turned in as no longer serviceable. The first appropriation "for professional books for Department Library" was carried in act approved Aug. 5, 1882. Soon after this, the compilation of naval war records (see N16.6:) was begun in the Library, and specific appropriation for carrying on the work was made by act approved July 7, 1884, and succeeding acts. While the clerical force of the Library and of the Naval War Records Office are appropriated for separately, the two have always been under one head and are practically one office under the name "Office of Library and Naval War Records." Although the word "Naval" has been used from the first to distinguish this office from the office in charge of army war records (see W45.), it was not regularly included in the name until about 1890.

This office was under the Bureau of Navigation from its establishment until Oct. 21, 1889, when it was transferred by order of the Secretary, to the Secretary's Office.]

N17.4: Circulars

[Prior to 1893, circulars were issued by this bureau as necessary in connection with its work. Since that date under article 1614 of Regulations for government of Navy, 1393, all such information and instructions are included in the various series issued by the Secretary of the Navy.

From Mar. 6, 1863 to Jan. 13, 1869, the circulars were unnumbered; from Oct. 19, 1871 to Oct. 8, 1881, nos. 1–42 were assigned by Bureau of Navigation; from Nov. 19, 1881 to Dec. 17, 1886, they again appeared without numbers.

The Public Documents Library has none of these circulars and no complete file could be consulted. The series as listed below is compiled from the list as found on p. 275–278 of General orders and circulars issued by Navy Department, 1863-87 (N1.2:G28), which see for subject matter of the circulars.]

† Issues for Dec. 1–3, 1909, and prior issues, are headed "Navy Department, Bureau of Navigation, Washington, D. C." and are signed by the chief of the Bureau of Navigation; issues for Dec. 4–13 are headed "Navy Department, Division of Operations of the Fleet, Washington, D. C." and are signed by the aid for operations; issues for Dec. 14–31, 1909, and later issues, are headed "Navy Department, Washington, D. C." and are signed by the aid for operations. Notwithstanding the changes in form, the Movements of vessels were all published and distributed by the Navigation Bureau and should therefore all be classed under N17.8:

[Prior to 1893, unnumbered circulars were issued by this bureau as necessary in connection with its work. Since that date, under article 1614 of Regulations for government of Navy, 1893, all such information and instructions are included in the various series issued by the Secretary of the Navy.

The Public Documents Library has very few of the early circulars and no complete file could be consulted. The entries for 1861–63 in the list below are taken from Compilation of circulars issued by Ordnance Bureau, May 4, 1861–Nov. 16, 1863 (N18.2:C49); that compilation omitted all obsolete circulars.]

N18.6: Specifications (unnumbered) various sizes

(CT)

[These unnumbered specifications, which are not of interest to the general public, are not listed here.

Some of the specifications, originally issued in 12 , have been reprinted in 4° as Ordnance pamphlets. These reprints and all other specifications which belong to the numbered series of Ordnance pamphlets, whether the number appears on the publication or not, are to be classed under N18.7: See also note under N18.7:

In cases where the same subject matter appears in more than one form, there being often no difference except in size, class under N18.6: the prints which are not Ordnance pamphlets, and under N18.7: those which properly belong to that series.]

N18.7: Ordnance pamphlets 4°

[Although this series was begun about 1896, the issues prior to 1905 appeared without numbers. In 1905, a system of consecutive numbers so arranged as to bring together the pamphlets on closely related subjects was adopted by the Ordnance Bureau. This plan included those pamphlets previously issued and made provision for future issues. Up to date (1911) there are still numbers which are unassigned. See, for lists of these numbers, Index to Ordnance pamphlets, which appeared in 1905 and 1907 as Ordnance pamphlet 0 (N18.7:0[1,3]).

The series of Ordnance pamphlets includes some, but not all, of the specifications issuing from the Ordnance Bureau; those which do not belong to this series being classed with other unnumbered specifications; see N18.6:]

NH. NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS

[The National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers was incorporated under act approved Mar. 21, 1866 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 10), which provided for a board of managers to be composed of the President of the United States, the Chief Justice, the Secretary of War, and 9 other members to be appointed by Congress. By act approved Jan. 23, 1873 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 417), it was provided that the name "Home" be substituted for "Asylum." The branches of the Home are located, in 1909, as follows: Central, Dayton, Ohio; Northwestern, Milwaukee, Wis.; Southern, Hampton, Va.; Eastern, Togus, Me.; Western, Leavenworth, Kans.; Marion, Marion, Ind.; Pacific, Santa Monica, Cal.; Danville, Danville, Ill.; Mountain, Johnson City, Tenn.; Battle Mountain Sanitarium, Hot Springs, S. Dak.

The Soldiers' Home, District of Columbia (W43.), which is for the regular Army, is not under the jurisdiction of the board of managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, nor are the various State homes, although under act approved Aug. 27, 1888 (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 450), the board is authorized to make inspections of the State homes and to report thereon to Congress; see, for reports of inspections, NH1.5:]

NH1.5: Inspection of State soldiers and sailors' homes

From 1889 to 1897, these reports included inspections of the branches of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and inspections of State homes, made by the inspector-general and the assistant inspectors-general of the National Home. Since 1898, the reports in this series have included only inspections of State homes. In 1906, the title of the officer making the report became inspector-general and chief surgeon. Since that date a separate report by him on the inspection of the branches of the National Home has been included in the annual report of the board of managers (NH1.1:).

The reports classed here, beginning with 1889, have been included also in the annual reports of the board of managers as submitted to Congress; but except for 1891–94 and 1896, they are omitted from the bureau edition of the annual reports. They have been issued separately also for each year except 1890 and 1898.

P. POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT

[The Post-Office was temporarily established by law under the Constitution, Sept. 22, 1789, and was continued by acts of Aug. 4, 1790 and Mar. 3, 1791.
The acts approved Feb. 20, 1792, May 8, 1794, Mar. 2, 1799, Apr. 30, 1810, and Mar. 3, 1825, established a General Post-Office, provided for the appointment of a Postmaster-General and other officers, set forth their duties, etc.
Although called Post-Office Department from a very early date, it was not until 1872 that it was established as an Executive Department by act approved June 8, 1872 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 283).
See, for papers relating to postal matters, Jan. 22, 1790–Feb. 21, 1833, American state papers, Post-Office Department, serial no. 027.]

[Contracts for this service in cities and towns are for 4-year periods; the United States is divided into 4 contract sections, one of which is advertised each year. The screen wagon service under these formal contracts was first put into operation under advertisement of Jan. 1892, for the term beginning July 1, 1892. "Bulletin advertisements" for screen wagon service, i. e. advertisements issued at other than the regular quadrennial periods, are classed under P1.8:]

P1.10: (date) later (date and nos.) United States official postal guide various sizes

[Various editions issued prior to 1874 are listed here without regard to their governmental or private character. Some of the editions were purchased and distributed by the Government, making them "official," while others were in general use, though not bearing the Post-Office Department's sanction.

Beginning Oct. 1874, it has been an official publication appearing at regular intervals. Issues of the 1st series were quarterly, Oct. 1874–July, 1879, numbered consecutively as 1–20.

The 2d series, comprising v. 1–30, Sept. 1879–June, 1908, was issued monthly for calendar years, no. 1, generally known as the Postal guide, being the large January issue, and nos. 2–12, monthly supplements containing additions and corrections.

The 3d series, beginning July, 1908, with v. 1, no. 1, is for fiscal years, the July number, instead of the January number, being the annual Postal guide. Nos. 2–12 are supplements to the July issue.

The Postal guide is one of the few public documents which is not printed at the Government Printing Office. It is compiled in the Post-Office Department, but the printing is done by an outside printer under contract with the Department.]

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The Railway Mail Service has since begun a new series of publications, necessitating an additional class under P10., the series title of which is as follows:

P10.10: Schemes of States (for use of publishers in distribution of 2d class mail)
(CT) [Gives names of post-offices arranged alphabetically, with indication of route separation for each.]

‡ Since Feb. 1908, the Topography Division has also prepared rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural-delivery is completely established. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. The maps are drawings on tracing linen, and copies are reproduced by the sun-print process, but only in response to special calls. Since there are no regular printed editions of these maps, they are not included in this Checklist. The rural-delivery maps of counties should not be confused with the post route maps which are regularly published by the Topography Division and are classed under P11.5:

P13. FREE DELIVERY DIVISION

[Free delivery of mail was authorized by act approved Mar. 3, 1863 (Stat. L. v. 12, p. 703). The first superintendent of free delivery was appointed Nov. 8, 1869, under the 1st assistant Postmaster-General. As the operations of the service were extended, the work of rural free delivery and special delivery were begun under this division.

By an order of the Postmaster-General dated May 9, 1903, the Free Delivery Division, which at that time included the general superintendent of free delivery and the superintendents of city free delivery and rural free delivery, was transferred to the office of the 4th assistant Postmaster-General. The office of general superintendent of free delivery lapsed May 27, 1903; and the two branches were gradually organized separately into the Division of City Free Delivery and the Division of Rural Free Delivery, their beginning as independent divisions having practically taken effect from Jan. 1, 1904, when a new superintendent of rural delivery was appointed.

Under the reorganization effected by order of the Postmaster-General, Dec. 1, 1905, the Division of City Free Delivery was transferred back to the office of the 1st assistant Postmaster-General as the Division of City Delivery, the Division of Rural Free Delivery remaining under the office of the 4th assistant Postmaster-General as the Division of Rural Delivery. See, for later publications on rural delivery, P16.]

In these issues of the Postal guide there are no separate lists of the rural free delivery offices, but there are indicated under the heading "Post offices by States," the names of all offices out of which rural delivery is established, and after the name of each rural delivery post-office there is indicated by a numeral the number of rural routes emanating therefrom.]

P14. POST-OFFICE INSPECTORS DIVISION

[The act approved June 8, 1872, authorized the appointment of a chief of division for office of mail depredations. The work was carried on much earlier than this, however.
The Division has been known by various names and has been placed from time to time under different control. 1891–1904, under supervision of 4th assistant Postmaster-General and known as Division of Post-Office Inspectors and Mail Depredations. Jan. 16, 1905, made an independent bureau under Post-Office Department. Since 1906, known as Post-Office Inspectors Division.]

P16. RURAL DELIVERY DIVISION†

[Under resolution of Congress approved Oct. 1, 1890 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 686), experiments in village free delivery were begun under the direction of the Postmaster-General, and the service was greatly extended during the fiscal year 1897–98. Under appropriation bill approved Apr. 28, 1902 (Stat. L. v. 32, p. 165), permanent organization of the Rural Free-Delivery Service was effected as a part of the Division of Free Delivery, under the 1st assistant Postmaster-General, July 1, 1902. The Division of Free Delivery, including the general superintendent, and the superintendents of city free delivery and rural free delivery, was transferred May 9, 1903, by order of the Postmaster-General, to the office of the 4th assistant. After the lapse of the office of general superintendent of free delivery, May 27, 1903, the two branches were gradually organized into separate divisions, the beginning of the Division of Rural Free Delivery as an independent division dating practically from the appointment of a new superintendent for that service, Jan. 1, 1904. Upon the reorganization by order of the Secretary, Dec. 1, 1905, the name became Division of Rural Delivery. See, for earlier publications, P13.†]

PR. PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES

(APR. 30, 1789–DEC. 31, 1909)

[As complete lists can not be made of all original prints of official papers of the Presidents, references are given below to such compilations of presidential papers as are public documents. The most complete collection is Richardson's Compilation of messages and papers of Presidents, 1789–1897, in 10 volumes (Y4.P93[1]:3[1-10]). This set also appears as a Congressional document of the 53d Congress, serial no. 3265[1-10]. It contains all the presidential papers through Cleveland's 2d administration, ending Mar. 4, 1897. For later administrations these papers are generally accessible in separate form. The 10th volume of Richardson's set includes, besides the index containing "a large number of encyclopedic articles," the papers of President McKinley relating to War with Spain, and many papers of the earlier Presidents which had been omitted from their proper places.

The separate issues of the Presidents' papers from Washington through Madison are listed under Early Congress papers (Z4.1:). The list of Early Congress papers will appear later in separate form.

Annual messages, besides being found in the publications as indicated under the name of each President (Pr1.1:–Pr27.1:), are also found in the Senate and House journals; 1848–92, in Messages and documents (Y8.); 1859–1909, in Abridgment of messages and documents (Y4.P93[1]:2); and in Congressional record and its predecessors as tabulated below, in every case being in that part which contains the proceedings at the opening of each regular session of Congress:

1824–1836, in Register of debates in Congress (X43.–X71.)
1833–1872, in Congressional globe (X72.–X180.)
1873–1909, in Congressional record (X181.–X439.)

It may be mentioned here that until the removal of the seat of Government to Washington, the annual messages are referred to as "speeches" because those of George Washington and John Adams were delivered orally before the two legislative branches in general assembly. Thomas Jefferson established the custom, which has ever since been followed, of sending his annual statement in the form of a message.

Executive orders prior to Oct. 1905, were sometimes printed as presidential papers, but were more frequently issued in printed form only by those Departments immediately concerned in their promulgation. Since Oct. 1905, it has been customary for the President to send all Executive orders to the Bureau of Rolls and Library, State Dept., to be printed on foolscap paper for limited distribution on demand.

Proclamations are accurately and promptly printed on foolscap paper, for limited distribution on demand, immediately upon receipt by the Bureau of Rolls and Library, State Dept., and are reprinted in the Session laws (S7.6:) and in the Statutes at large (S7.9:).

Special messages appear as separate documents in Congressional set, and sometimes in bureau edition also.

Veto messages appear as separate documents in Congressional set. A compilation of veto messages, Apr. 5, 1792–Aug. 4, 1886, was prepared by Ben: Perley Poore under direction of Senate Committee on Printing. This compilation, arranged in chronological order, with explanatory notes and an index, is entered under Y4.P93[3]:V64.

J49 Jesus of Nazareth. Life and morals of Jesus of Nazareth, extracted textually from Gospels in Greek, Latin, French, and English, by Thomas Jefferson; with introduction [by Cyrus Adler]. 1904. [4747–755]

[Printed in pursuance of the following concurrent resolution adopted by 57th Congress, 1st session: "That there be printed and bound, by photolithographic process, with an introduction of not to exceed 25 pages, to be prepared by Dr. Cyrus Adler, Librarian of the Smithsonian Institution, for the use of Congress, 9000 copies of Thomas Jefferson's Morals of Jesus of Nazareth, as the same appears in the National Museum; 3000 copies for the use of the Senate, and 6000 copies for the use of the House."

Known as "Jefferson's Bible." Being a facsimile reproduction of the original, both bureau and Congressional editions are bound in full red leather, back title reading only "Morals of Jesus." The back title of the Congressional edition adds also the serial number 4747, the Congressional notation being pasted, instead of printed, on the title-page.]

PS. POSTAL SAVINGS SYSTEM †

S. STATE DEPARTMENT

[This is the oldest of the Executive Departments. The act of Congress approved July 27, 1789, established a Department of Foreign Affairs and this act was followed by another, approved Sept. 15, 1789, which enlarged the duties of the Department and directed that it be called the Department of State. This law required the Secretary to receive and publish the laws of the United States; to be custodian of the seal of the United States; to authenticate copies of records and papers properly coming before him, and to receive all records and papers in the office of the late Secretary of Congress, except such as related to the Treasury and War Departments.

†This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. Since that time the Postal Savings System has been organized, necessitating additional classes, the heading and series titles of which are as follows:

PS. Postal Savings System

PS1.1: (date) Annual reports
PS1.2: (CT) General publications
PS1.3: (nos.) Bulletins
PS1.4: (nos.) Circulars
PS1.5[1]: (date) Regulations (general)
PS1.5[2]: (CT) Regulations (special)
PS1.6: (CT) Instructions

Under the laws of Apr. 10, 1790, and Feb. 21, 1793, this Department was given charge of the patent business, which remained under its control until the Department of the Interior was established in 1849 (see I 23.). The State Department also superintended the census enumeration until May 23, 1850, when Congress transferred this business to the Interior Department (see I 2.–I 14.). Territorial affairs were also under the State Department until transferred to the Interior Department by act of Mar. 1, 1873 (see, for reports of governors, etc., classes under I 1.).

The Secretary of State conjointly with the Attorney-General acted upon petitions for pardons until 1850, when that duty passed into the hands of the Attorney-General. Warrants for pardons continued to be issued by the State Department until 1893 when this duty was transferred to the Justice Department by Executive order.

Under the act approved May 31, 1790, the Secretary of State was charged with matters relating to copyrights. By act approved Feb. 5, 1859, this work was transferred from the Department of State to the Department of the Interior, and a later act approved July 8, 1870 provided that the librarian of Congress should have control of copyrights. The Public Documents Library has no copyright publications issued prior to the transfer to the Library of Congress. See, for publications of Copyright Office, LC3., and for Copyright enactments of United States, 1783–1906, Copyright Office Bulletin 3, 2d edition (LC3.3:3 [2]).

S1. SECRETARY

S1.1: Annual reports, Foreign relations

[The Secretary of State is the only cabinet officer who does not make a yearly report on the business of his Department, the only annual report of a Secretary of State being Secretary Olney's, 1896, which appeared in the volume of Foreign relations and was also issued separately (S1.1a:).

The reports here listed are the yearly collections of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and one or more foreign countries. From earliest times the President in his annual message gave a synopsis of our relations with foreign countries, and this was usually supplemented by certain State Department papers, sometimes a single treaty, but more often a number of diplomatic letters. From these accompanying papers grew up the publication now known as Foreign relations.

As the volumes of Foreign relations have for more than 45 years past been issued in permanent form with the President's annual message, and on account of the difficulty in marking their first appearance as an annual State Department document, this list of Foreign relations is made to include references to the earliest documents in the Congressional set where the State Department papers accompany the President's annual message, whether they immediately follow such message, or are intercepted by other Department reports bearing the same document number. For 1830, 1835, 1841, and 1860, references are given to such papers from the State Department which were transmitted somewhat later than the annual message. Since 1861, state papers which do not accompany the annual message, and are issued in a separate volume are not included here, being listed below under General publications (S1.2:).

From 1861 to 1909 (except 1869), this compilation of State Department correspondence besides appearing in the Congressional set, has been issued, sometimes with a different arrangement, in a regular volumed bureau form. For 1861 there are 2 bureau editions, one of which bears title "Papers relating to foreign affairs." From 1861 to 1868 the back-title reads: Diplomatic correspondence. From 1870 to 1909, back-title reads: Foreign relations of United States. It does not purport to be a complete record of diplomatic correspondence, however, as the Department of State exercises discretion in withholding from publication many diplomatic dispatches.

S1.3: Bulletins

†S1.4[1]: Circulars (unnumbered) f°

(date) [The State Department issues an important series of folio circulars without series title, but sometimes with and sometimes without individual title; these are known as "Consular instructions." They convey to the corps of American consuls in foreign countries the directions of the State Department as to their duties and conduct, and cover a great variety of subjects, from the use of pens and paper and the finding of runaways and refugees to momentous matters relating to the foreign commerce of the United States. They occasionally embody important opinions by the Attorney-General, rulings by the Treasury and other Departments, and Executive orders, which are not printed elsewhere. The instructions are distributed only to the consular service. In this country they are "printed but not published." The number issued averages something like 50 or 75 a year. Some of them are reprinted in Foreign relations.]

†S1.4[2]: Circulars: General instruction, consular, or Special instruction, consular (numbered) 8°

†This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. In Jan. 1911, the State Department discontinued the publication of circular instructions issued to consular officers on folio sheets printed in imitation of typewriting (S1.4[1]:). For that series the State Department has substituted a new octavo series in regular printed form, beginning with the issue of Jan. 3, 1911. This has necessitated an additional class under S1., the series title of which is as follows:

S1.4[2]: Circulars: General instruction, consular, or Special instruction, consular (nos.) (numbered) 8°

[These are printed instructions issued to consular service. They are designated either "General instruction, consular" when applicable to all principal consular officers, or "Special instruction, consular," when applicable to particular officers or groups of officers. The General instructions and Special instructions are all numbered in the same series.]

S3. ARBITRATIONS AND MIXED COMMISSIONS TO SETTLE INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES

[The full literature of an arbitration held to decide an important question usually consists of the case, counter case, and argument of each of the parties in controversy, with numerous appendixes containing testimony, important documents, etc.; also the proceedings, the award, and the report of the agent or counsel. The publications listed below represent in many cases only a portion of the work of the arbitration or commission in question. In some cases, the reports, etc., were printed only as Congressional documents and are therefore omitted here. Usually the United States prints only its own case, arguments, etc., similar documents on the opposing side being publications of the other Government. In some instances the files of the Public Documents Library are incomplete.

See, for historical information concerning these arbitrations and commissions to 1898, Moore's International arbitrations (S3.2:H62[1-6]), and the compilation of treaties, conventions, etc., 1776–1909, by William M. Malloy, printed as 61st Congress, 2d session, Senate document 357, serial nos. 5646 and 5647.

S3.5:	Commission Appointed to Examine French Spoliation Claims Presented under Treaty with France of July 4, 1831

[Appointed under act approved July 13, 1832 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 574), to carry into effect convention between United States and France concluded at Paris, July 4, 1831. The act provided that the first meeting should be held in Washington on the first Monday in Aug. 1832. The commission under date of Dec. 30, 1835, submitted to the Secretary of State its report with list of awards, and immediately adjourned.

A list of claims submitted to this commission was printed as 29th Congress, 1st session, Senate document 313, serial no. 476. An earlier list of claims of American citizens for spoliations by France and other European nations appeared as 19th Congress, 2d session, House document 68, serial no. 157. Other lists of French spoliation cases and documents and reports concerning them have appeared as Congressional documents. See, for report relative to papers on file in Department of State, S1.2:F88[1,2], and for Statement of Register of Treasury showing payments of awards of commissioners appointed under conventions between United States and France concluded Apr. 30, 1803, and July 4, 1831, etc., T32.2:Aw1.

The question of the settlement of French spoliation cases was urged before Congress for a long period of years, but nothing was done until by act approved Jan. 20, 1885 (Stat. L. v. 23, p. 283), provision was made that claimants might apply by petition to the Court of Claims (Ju3.), which was to examine the validity of such claims and report facts to Congress for final action. Congress has now appropriated under 4 acts for the payment of these claims as follows: Mar. 3, 1891 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 897), Mar. 3, 1899 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 1191), May 27, 1902 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 217), and Feb. 24, 1905 (Stat. L. v. 33, pt. 1, p. 780).

See, for French spoliation publications issued by Court of Claims, Ju3.7:F88[1-4], and Ju3.11[4]: 58[3]–61[2]. Papers in re containing matter concerning individual cases are entered in the Public Documents Library under Ju3.8:]

S3.13[3]: Berlin arbitration (Northwestern boundary)

[The treaty of 1846 with Great Britain which had to do with the boundary of the United States west of the Rocky Mountains was interpreted by Great Britain to mean that the boundary line between the United States and Canada should run through Rosario Channel; the United States understood Canal de Haro. The Northwestern Boundary Commission (S3.10[2]:) was created by act of Aug. 11, 1856, to make the survey and settle the dispute, but they were not able to bring the matter to a successful termination.
The Treaty of Washington took up the matter and referred it to Emperor William of Germany for arbitration on the proper interpretation of the treaty of 1846. George Bancroft represented the United States. The award was made at Berlin, Oct. 21, 1872, in favor of the United States, designating Haro Channel as the boundary.]

[Disputes concerning the right of Americans to fish on the coasts of Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, etc., were referred to this commission which met at Halifax, June 15–Nov. 23, 1877. The award was $5,500,000 in gold to be paid to Great Britain by United States, this representing the excess value, for 12 years, of our right to fish in Canadian waters as above the value of American waters to Canadian fishermen.
The papers concerning this arbitration are not included in the set of Papers relating to Treaty of Washington (S3.13[1]:P19[1-6]) which was published 1872-74, prior to the time of meeting of this commission, 1877.]

S3.19[1]: Mexican Boundary Survey, 1882-96

[An international boundary commission to relocate and mark the boundary between the United States and Mexico from the Rio Grande to the Pacific Ocean was provided for by convention signed July 29, 1882. The original convention lapsed by reason of delays in appointing the commission, but it was revived and the time allowed for the execution of the work extended by conventions of Feb. 18, 1889 and Aug. 24, 1894. The time finally expired Oct. 11, 1896.

The boundary line which the survey of 1882-96 re-marked was that established by the surveys under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, signed Feb. 2, 1848, and the Gadsden treaty, signed Dec. 30, 1853. In order to adjust difficulties arising from alterations in the channels due to natural causes, an international water boundary commission was provided for by convention concluded Mar. 1, 1889. The time designated for the performance of the work of the commission was extended for limited periods by conventions signed Oct. 1, 1895, Nov. 6, 1896, Oct. 29, 1897, Dec. 2, 1898, and Dec. 22, 1899; extended indefinitely by convention concluded Nov. 21, 1900.]

S4. FOREIGN COMMERCE BUREAU

[Notwithstanding the fact that the act of Aug. 16, 1842 (Stat. L. v. 5, p. 507) required the Secretary of State "to lay before Congress, annually, at the commencement of its session, * * * such changes and modifications in the commercial systems of other nations * * * as shall have come to the knowledge of the Department," Congress had made no adequate provision either for the furnishing of the requisite information to the State Department, or for the preparation in the State Department of such information as might be received. In order to prepare the general report on the commercial relations of the United States with foreign nations called for by House resolution of Dec. 14, 1853 (see S4.1:855[5]), a "Statistical Office" was organized in 1854 (see p. 3 of letter of transmittal in Commercial relations, 1856, S4.1:856, and p. 95 of Department of State, its history and functions, by Gaillard Hunt, S1.2:St2[1]). This office was placed on a permanent basis by the act of Aug. 18, 1856 (Stat. L. v. 11, p. 139), which required that consuls and commercial agents should transmit to the Department of State authentic commercial information, and that the Secretary of State should transmit such information to Congress in addition to that called for by act of Aug. 16, 1842. The act of 1856 also provided for the appointment of a Superintendent of Statistics. Although the office of "Superintendent" was abolished by a clause in the act of July 20, 1868 (Stat. L. v. 15, p. 96), the work continued, and a Bureau of Statistics was authorized by act of June 20, 1874 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 90). Name changed by order of Secretary to Bureau of Foreign Commerce, July 1, 1897 (see S4.2:F76), in order to avoid the confusion arising from the fact that there were in other Departments bureaus of the same name.

On July 1, 1903, this bureau and the Bureau of Statistics, Treasury Dept., were consolidated and transferred to the Department of Commerce and Labor as the Bureau of Statistics in that Department.

See, for later publications, C14.]

S4.1: Annual reports, Commercial relations 4° and 8°

[The series listed below is the result of the acts of Aug. 16, 1842, and Aug. 18, 1856 (see also note at head of S4.). The series proper begins with 1856, being a continuation of the exhaustive reports for 1855. Although the caption title from 1856 to 1868 was "Annual report on foreign commerce," the title-page and the back-title have from the beginning carried the words "Commercial relations." For certain of the earlier years there is no edition without Congressional document number.

Although prepared primarily with reference to the fiscal year of the United States Government, later information was usually included in order to bring the report more nearly down to date of publication; therefore the report for each year included statistics for parts of 2 calendar years, and usually extended over more than 12 months.

The volumes for 1879–81, 1894–1902 contain as an introduction a summary prepared from the annual reports of consular officers which make up the rest of the volume. These summaries were also issued as separate publications; see S4.12:]

S4. FOREIGN COMMERCE BUREAU—Continued

S4.7: Consular reports (monthly)

[First issued under authority of sundry civil act of June 16, 1880 (Stat. L. v. 21, p. 271), which provided "for printing and distributing more frequently the publications by the Department of State of the consular and other commercial reports." Information of this nature had previously been published in part in the annual volumes of Commercial relations (S4.1:).

The individual issues are numbered consecutively, and there is one number for each month with a few exceptions. There were no issues for Dec. 1880, June, 1883, May, 1885, May, 1886, or June, 1889, and the only issue for May, 1883, was a general index (S4.8:1–8). In a few cases, an extra or "half" number was issued for the same month as the corresponding regular number; these half numbers are 24½, 25½, 26½, 41½, 53½, 68½, 73½, 106½, and 107½. The issues for Nov. and Dec. 1888, nos. 99 and 100, were combined, as were also nos. 110 and 111, for Nov. and Dec. 1889.

Although no volume title-pages were furnished for nos. 1–62, their arrangement into v. 1–18 was indicated by the State Department in the Directions for binding consular reports, issued from time to time either separately (S4.2:B51[1,2]) or in the general indexes (S4.8:). Volume title-pages were furnished beginning with v. 19, but it was not until v. 43, beginning with no. 156, Sept. 1893, that the volume number appeared also on each monthly number.

The title used in the list below for v. 1–18 is taken from the individual numbers. Nos. 1–31 carried also at top of title-page the line "Commercial relations of United States," which was replaced on nos. 32–72 by "United States consular reports," and thereafter omitted except on occasional numbers. The titles given below for v. 19–71 are taken from the volume title-pages. The monthly title-pages have usually been the same, though there have been occasional differences, particularly when a whole number was devoted to reports on a special subject, usually made in pursuance of special instructions from the State Department. In such cases, the special title appeared on the title-page, as indicated in the list below. After 1890, all such special reports, except the statement of Exports declared for United States, usually appeared in the volumed series of Special consular reports; see S4.9:

At the beginning, each monthly number contained its own index. Volume indexes appeared beginning with v. 17, the monthly indexes being discontinued at some later period. The volume indexes were sometimes incorporated in the last number of the volume, and sometimes issued separately with the volume title-page.]

[Many of the reports included in the volumed series of Special consular reports have also been issued separately.]

S4.10: Consular reports (miscellaneous, unnumbered)

[In addition to the consular reports issued in monthly numbers (S4.7:), the State Department from time to time called upon consular officers for reports on special subjects. Up to 1890, these reports were unnumbered and were usually not included in any other series issued by the State Department, though sometimes issued also as Congressional documents. In 1890, the Department decided to issue a volumed series of Special consular reports, and from that date until 1903, when the Bureau of Foreign Commerce was transferred to the Department of Commerce and Labor, all such special reports, with a few exceptions, were issued in the volumed series; see S4.9: The list on p. 941 includes special consular reports issued prior to 1890, and unnumbered special reports issued between 1890 and 1903.]

[On p. xxii of the introduction to pt. 1, it was stated that this report on Industrial education in France would be followed by reports on technical education in Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Belgium, Holland, and Great Britain. Secretary of State Bayard submitted on Dec. 14, 1888, an estimate of appropriation for editing and publishing the concluding parts of this important work (see 50th Congress, 2d session, House executive document 35, serial no. 2651). The money apparently was not appropriated and on p. 189 and 190 of Consular reports, v. 43, no. 157, Oct. 1893 (S4.7:43) is the definite statement that the series was "unfortunately not completed."

Technical education in these countries was, however, treated of in the aforementioned Consular reports 157, and also in the 8th annual report of the commissioner of labor, 1892 (La1.1:892).]

S4.11: Exports declared for United States

[Various other Government publications contain summaries of information concerning exports from foreign countries to the United States. The reports listed below give statistics in detail for the individual districts within the several countries.

Statistics of this nature appeared in the monthly Consular reports (S4.7:) until 1883, when reports for 1st and 2d quarters and for 3d and 4th quarters were issued separately. After this the reports for each quarter (sometimes for the whole year) appeared either included in or as a supplement to the first number of the Consular reports available after the report was compiled. This practice was continued until Mar. 31, 1900. Beginning with the quarterly report for June 30, 1900, a separate series was issued as here listed, to Mar. 31, 1903. After July 1, 1903, when the publication was assumed by the Statistics Bureau, Commerce and Labor Dept., only two publications appeared. These were for the fiscal years 1903 and 1904 and were issued as separates from the Monthly summary of commerce and finance, under the title, Merchandise declared for export; they are classed in the Public Documents Library under C14.14*a*:Ex7. Since July 1, 1905, when the handling of the consular reports was turned over to the Manufactures Bureau, this publication has not been issued, but similar information for 1905–09 appears in the annual volumes of Commercial relations for 1906–09 (C10.8:906–909).]

S7. LAWS OF UNITED STATES

[There have been many compilers, many printers, many publishers, many editors, many editions, of the laws of the United States. Only 4 series have been compiled, printed, and distributed at Government charge, have been legally recognized as authoritative, and may rightfully be considered public documents within the accepted definitions. These are the Folwell edition, 1795–1815 (S7.7:); the Bioren and Duane edition, 1815–45 (S7.8:); the Little, Brown and Company edition, 1845–73 (S7.13:); the State Department edition, from 1873 (S7.9:). Besides these four, the only important edition of the text of the public and general laws beginning with the foundation of the Government is the "Story edition," published at Boston, 1827, by Wells and Lilly, "under the inspection of Joseph Story, Justice of the Supreme Court." It was in 3 v., and 2 volumes in continuation were issued at Philadelphia, 1837 and 1848, edited by George Sharswood. No evidence can be found to warrant considering this an official edition, and it is therefore not entered in this Checklist.

Before 1795 the only statutory provisions as to printing the laws were those of Sept. 15, 1789, giving the Secretary of State custody of the originals and directing him to supply one printed copy to each Senator and Representative; of June 14, 1790, directing the Secretary to publish the treaties; and of Feb. 18, 1791, which permitted "Andrew Brown or any other printer" intending to publish the laws to compare his prints with the original rolls in the office of the Secretary of State. Pamphlet editions of the laws of each session were, however, issued by several printers, and for many years also by the Secretary of State under authority of Congress.

One of the provisions of the first statute in relation to publishing the laws directed the Secretary of State to have them printed in 3 newspapers. With various changes in the number of papers, this kind of publication was continued till Mar. 4, 1875, when it was prohibited by law.

With the exception of the session or pamphlet laws of the 37th Congress, 1st session (S7.6:37 [1]), the laws have never been published in the Congressional series of numbered documents.

See, for information concerning the method of publication and promulgation of the laws, not given in this Checklist, certain histories of the State Department (S1.2:St2 [1-3]).

See, for Consolidated index to Statutes at large, Mar. 1789–Mar. 1903, prepared under direction of Judiciary Committee, Senate, under resolution of June 19, 1902, Y4.J89 [2]:St2 [1-4].

See, for indexes to v. 1–17 and 18–34 of Statutes at large, Mar. 1789–Mar. 1907, issued by Law Library, Library of Congress, Index analysis of Federal statutes (LC10.5:0, 1).

S7.5: Slip laws, acts and resolutions

[From the very beginning there have been authorized prints of the individual laws. The first action in reference to the separate prints of the individual laws of which record has been found in the published documents is a joint resolution adopted by the Senate June 4, 1789, and by the House next day. It provides that within 10 days after the passage of any law 22 printed copies of it shall be lodged with the President, 2 copies to be by him sent to the chief officer of each State (there were then but 11 States, Rhode Island and North Carolina having not yet ratified the Constitution). This is a very early resolution, but its terms imply that "slip laws" were already being printed at the time of its adoption. While files of them have not been preserved, and the history of their publication can not be clearly made out, there is little doubt that they have been regularly printed from the beginning of the Government.

Under the present practice, the slip laws are carefully edited and proof-read in the Rolls and Library Bureau, State Dept., and printed as promptly as possible after their passage. Each law, no matter what its length, is a separate publication. Under "slip laws" are included the first prints of public and private laws and public and private joint resolutions. These are arranged in 4 numerical series, each series being separately numbered in chronological order. The edition printed is 2,110 copies of public laws and 760 copies of private laws, of which 500 copies of each kind go for distribution to the Rolls and Library Bureau, State Dept., 60 copies to the Treasury Department, and the remainder to Congress. The "slip laws" are accepted as authoritative by the courts until the Statutes are published. As the "slip laws" are not collected in volumes, no title-pages or indexes are issued for them. They do not even show the Congress or session at which they were enacted, though that may be determined by the date of approval which appears at the end of each act. The number of a law as it appears in slip form differs from the chapter-number of the same law as it appears in the session or pamphlet laws (S7.6:) and in the Statutes at large (S7.9:); hence reference from one to the other was difficult up to and including the 56th Congress. Beginning with the 57th Congress, the pamphlet laws and the Statutes at large carry side notes giving the slip law number opposite the chapter-number.

†The series symbols 1, 3, and 4 before the colon, which in other classes are used for Annual reports, Bulletins, and Circulars, respectively, are not used under S7.

S7.6: Session laws or Pamphlet laws (State Department edition)

See, for Little, Brown and Company edition, S7.13:

[Under these names are known the editions of the laws of each session of Congress which are issued in paper covers as soon as practicable after the close of the session. The "Public" and "Private" laws, and the "Treaties" are grouped under separate title-pages with continuous paging through a Congress for each of the 3 classes, and are subsequently, and practically without change of form, incorporated in the Statutes at large (S7.9:). They have been so issued and distributed by the Government since its inception, first by various printers, then by Little, Brown and Company, during the period of their contract for furnishing the Statutes at large, which terminated in 1874, since which time they have been printed at the Government Printing Office under the direction of the State Department.

In the 37th Congress, 1st session (1861), the laws of that session were printed as a numbered Congressional document, House miscellaneous document 23. This is the only instance of the publication of the pamphlet laws in a numbered series of Congressional documents.

The session or pamphlet laws from the 1st Congress, 1st session, to the 13th Congress, 2d session, were reprinted in the Folwell edition (S7.7:), and from the 1st Congress, 1st session, to the 28th Congress, 2d session, in the Bioren edition (S7.8:). When the originals of such session or pamphlet laws are not in the Public Documents Library, references have been given to the Folwell edition.]

S7.7: Folwell edition

[Mar. 3, 1795, President Washington approved the act which led to the issue of the so-called Folwell edition, the first collected edition of the laws. It was entitled "An act for the more general promulgation of the laws," and provided that the Secretary of State should cause to be printed, at public expense, an edition of the Constitution, treaties, and laws then in force, with index, 4,500 copies to be printed, 500 for Congress and 4,000 to be apportioned among the States and Territories on the basis of their representation in Congress, and that future laws and treaties should be printed and distributed in like manner. Under this sanction a three-volume edition was printed at Philadelphia by Richard Folwell. All of the volumes bear the imprint date 1796, though v. 3 contains the legislation of the 4th Congress, which continued until Mar. 3, 1797. In this edition each law is numbered as a chapter and in v. 1 and 2 a new set of numbers begins with each session. In the later volumes one set of numbers runs through a whole Congress. Each private act has a number, but the text of private acts is not given. This is true also of acts which have been repealed or which have expired by the payment of appropriations or the expiration of dates. Folwell's volumes have no prefaces, introductions, notes, or other "apparatus," but the words "Published by authority" appear on the title-pages. Folwell issued in 1799 his v. 4, containing the legislation of the 5th Congress. This volume was issued also by two other Philadelphia publishers, Mathew Carey and William Ross, and the latter's book appears to have been printed from Folwell's type, though it has not the same title-page. By act of Mar. 2, 1799, the edition was increased to 9,500 copies. In v. 5 and the succeeding volumes the text of the private acts is given. Beginning with v. 11 (12th Congress) the joint resolutions are numbered as chapters in the same series with the acts. Volume 5 was printed at Philadelphia by Folwell, and Samuel Harrison Smith of Washington made an edition in which his title-page is pasted in before Folwell's. All the later volumes were issued at Washington. Volume 6 was printed by William Duane and v. 7 by Duane & Son. Volumes 8–12 have the imprint of Roger C. Weightman. Volumes 9–11 were also "Printed for the Department of State." Volume 12 gives the legislation of the 1st and 2d sessions of the 13th Congress, but the laws of the 3d session of that Congress, though included in v. 4 of the Bioren and Duane edition (S7.8:4), are not found in this Folwell edition. All, except the State Department print of v. 9, have on their title-pages the words "Published by authority."]

S7. LAWS OF UNITED STATES—Continued

S7.8: Bioren and Duane edition

[Apr. 18, 1814, President Madison approved an act looking to the issue of a more complete and satisfactory edition of the laws. It provided for a Government subscription to 1,000 sets of a new edition to be edited and compiled upon a plan presented by the Secretary of State and the Attorney-General, the editor to be selected by the Secretary; also that the succeeding laws be published in the same form and distributed in the same manner. Richard Rush, Attorney-General, under date of June 10, 1814, sent to James Monroe, Secretary of State, a long statement of his plan of publication, which the Secretary at once concurred in. In this statement it was said that "the want of a full and complete edition of the laws of Congress has long been felt." The new plan required that all laws, though obsolete, repealed, or private, be printed; but laws relating solely to the District of Columbia were necessarily excluded, because that requirement had been embodied in the law authorizing the publication. By this plan it was also required that every act published should be compared with the originals; that all important acts, ordinances, or resolutions of the "old Congress" (Continental Congress) be included; full marginal notes to be given; the "common figure" (Arabic) to be used for all numbers and dates; each volume to have an index; the last volume to have a very full general index to the whole; treaties, Constitution, and historical documents to be indexed as well as the laws; "it would be better to put the same thing down more than once in the index," said Mr. Rush, "than indulge too freely the practice of referring from one head to another." Secretary Monroe appointed John B. Colvin as editor. Under his editorship the "Bioren edition," 5 v., was published, 1815, by John Bioren and W. John Duane, Philadelphia, and R. C. Weightman, Washington City. Volume 1 contains the great historical documents, treaties, and reprints from the journals of the "old Congress." In this edition the chapter numbers run by volumes, not by Congresses nor by sessions. A new set of numbers begins with each volume. The joint resolutions are numbered in a separate series, beginning a new set of numbers with each session. In v. 1 chapter number 102 is duplicated, that number being given to the last act of the 1st Congress and also to the first act of the 2d Congress. In his first volume Mr. Colvin made a somewhat serious error by adding to his print of the Constitution a 13th amendment which was then pending, but had not been ratified by a sufficient number of States, and has not been so ratified to this day. Mr. Colvin admitted in his preface that he did not know that the amendment had been ratified, but he knew that it had been ratified by 12 States, and evidently he thought that at least one of the five yet unheard from would also ratify the amendment. The proposed 13th amendment was submitted to the States by the 11th Congress at its 2d session (May 1, 1810), and it was not until 1818 that it was ascertained that it had not been ratified. There were then 17 States, and the affirmative action of 13 was required. Twelve ratified promptly, four rejected, and Virginia was never heard from. In South Carolina the senate approved, and if the house had concurred the amendment would have been ratified. It was in fact for many years the popular belief that it had been ratified. As lately as 1843 it so appeared in various histories. This popular misconception is no doubt largely due to the error in the first volume of the accepted and official edition of the laws. The proposed amendment was to deprive of citizenship any citizen who should accept a title or any form of emolument from a foreign power without the consent of Congress. Volume 2 contains the laws, 1789–97 (1st–4th Congress), as in "old volumes" (Folwell edition) 1–3; v. 3, laws, 1797–1805 (5th–8th Congress), as in "old volumes" 4–7; v. 4, laws, 1805–15 (9th–13th Congress), as in "old volumes" 9–12, excepting the 3d session of the 13th Congress, which, though given in the Bioren and Duane edition, is not included in the Folwell edition. Volume 5 is the general index. The volumes in continuation of the Bioren and Duane edition, which were contemplated and provided for by sec. 4 of the act of Apr. 18, 1814, and by a later act of Apr. 20, 1818, were issued as follows: v. 6, edited by John B. Colvin, published by Davis & Force, Washington, 1822; v. 7, published by W. A. Davis, 1827, including a general index, 1789–1827, compiled by Samuel Burch, which was published separately; v. 8, by W. A. Davis, 1835; v. 9, printed by order of Congress, 1839; v. 10, printed by J. & G. S. Gideon, 1845. All of these volumes after the 5th have on their title-pages this sentence: "Corresponding with, and intended as a continuation of, the edition of Bioren & Co."]

S7.8: Bioren and Duane edition—Continued

6 Laws of United States, Mar. 4, 1815–Mar. 4, 1821, including all European, Barbary, and Indian treaties negotiated and ratified within that period and several other valuable documents which have resulted from or are connected with acts of Congress and treaties, with references to decisions of Supreme Court under laws contained in volume, and copious notes and references; by John B. Colvin. Washington City, printed and published by Davis & Force, 1822. v. 6.

7[1] Same, Mar. 4, 1821–Mar. 4, 1827, including all European, Barbary, and Indian treaties negotiated and ratified within that period and several other valuable documents which have resulted from or are connected with acts of Congress and treaties, the whole carefully compared with originals in Department of State, with references to decisions of Supreme Court under laws contained in volume, and copious notes and references, to which is added a general index to all laws, treaties, and resolutions passed and ratified since adoption of Federal Constitution to close of 19th Congress; prepared under resolution of House of Representatives. Washington City, published by William A. Davis, P. Force, print, 1827. v. 7 [pt. 1]. [The index was published as a separate volume; see S7.8:7[2].]

7[2] General index to laws of United States, Mar. 4, 1789–Mar. 3, 1827, including all treaties entered into between those periods in which principles involved in acts for relief of individuals or of private or local nature are arranged under general heads to which such principles appropriately belong; compiled by Samuel Burch. Washington City, published by William A. Davis, P. Force, print, 1828. v. 7 [pt. 2].

8 Laws of United States, Mar. 4, 1827–Mar. 3, 1833, including all European, Barbary, and Indian treaties negotiated and ratified within that period and several other valuable documents which have resulted from or are connected with acts of Congress and treaties, with copious notes and references. Washington City, printed by W. A. Davis, 1835. v. 8.

9 Same, Mar. 4, 1833–Mar. 3, 1839, including all treaties negotiated and ratified within that period and several other valuable documents which have resulted from or are connected with acts of Congress and treaties, with copious notes and references. City of Washington, printed by order of Congress [by Langtree and O'Sullivan], 1839. v. 9.

10 Same, Mar. 4, 1839–Mar. 3, 1845, including all treaties negotiated and ratified within that period and several other valuable documents which have resulted from or are connected with acts of Congress and treaties, with copious notes and references; compiled by Benjamin B. French. Washington, printed by J. & G. S. Gideon, 1845. v. 10.

S7.9: Statutes at large

[Mar. 3, 1845 (28th Congress, 2d session), a joint resolution was adopted and approved by which the Attorney-General was authorized to contract with Little & Brown, of Boston, for 1,000 copies (sets) of a new edition of the general laws in 4 v., with the private laws and the treaties in 2 additional volumes, all to be arranged in strict chronological order. The requirement of chronological arrangement, while the private laws were printed in a separate volume, forced upon the unwilling editor, Richard Peters, the "hippity-skippity" scheme of numbering the chapters which still obtains and makes the Statutes at large peculiar. The scheme thus begun in 1845 is that of arranging all the laws, both public and private, in chronological order and numbering them in that order, then separating the private from the public laws and printing them in separate places, the chapter-numbers necessarily being irregular and non-consecutive in both places. Little & Brown were required to print from stereotype plates and to secure to the Government such an interest in these plates that it might be sure of having future editions free from hindrance or extortion. The new series of laws, like both its predecessors, went back to the beginning and reprinted the Declaration of Independence and all succeeding enactments. The series was called Statutes at large. The collective laws of a session were called a "Statute" and designated by the number of the session, while each law was numbered as a chapter, a new set of chapter-numbers beginning with each session. This method of numbering the chapters has been continued to the present time.

The Statute headings were dropped out of the text after the 28th Congress, but are even now continued in the table of contents. Though the first contract with Little & Brown in 1845 was for but 6 v., successive contracts extended the work till 17 v. of the Statutes at large had been issued.

June 24, 1874, Congress discontinued the contract with Little, Brown and Company and directed the Secretary of State to publish the Revised statutes (S7.10:), the pamphlet laws (S7.6:), and the Statutes at large (S7.9:). The Secretary wisely made his series a continuation of that of Little, Brown and Company, instead of reprinting everything from the foundation as had been previously done when a new series was begun. The first volume of Statutes at large issued by the State Department was v. 18, pt. 3, containing the legislation of the 43d Congress and the treaties negotiated and proclamations promulgated during the term of that Congress, Mar. 4, 1873–Mar. 3, 1875. The "pt. 3" attached to v. 18 has been a stumbling block, because pts. 1 and 2 have no part numbers, nor even volume numbers, nor even the title "Statutes at large," on their title-pages. There is nothing whatever in the books themselves to connect them with v. 18, pt. 3, of the Statutes at large. This very defective method of publishing has been a continual source of embarrassment since the volumes were issued in 1875. Part 1 is the 1st edition of the 1st volume of the Revised statutes. Part 2 contains 3 distinct collections, separately titled, paged, and indexed, namely: Revised statutes relating to the District of Columbia, Revised statutes relating to post roads, and Public treaties of United States in force Dec. 1, 1873. From the 43d Congress to the 56th, the State Department issued a new volume of Statutes at large for each Congress, the volume numbers being consecutive, 18 to 31. When the legislation of the 57th Congress, with the treaties and proclamations of its period, 1901–03, was collected, it was found too extensive for a single volume, and v. 32 was published in 2 pts., pt. 1 containing the public laws and pt. 2 containing the private laws, concurrent resolutions, treaties, and proclamations. Concurrent resolutions were first printed with the laws of the 53d Congress, in v. 28, Statutes at large, and their publication has been continued, as directed by the law of Jan. 12, 1895 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 615). The State Department series follows closely the methods of the Little, Brown and Company series. The Department issues also after each session a pamphlet print of the laws, treaties, and proclamations of the session (S7.6:). The pamphlets are identical in size of page, method of numbering, annotation, etc., with the volumes of the Statutes at large.

S7.10: Revised statutes

See, for Revision of Statutes Commission, Y3.R32:, and for Commission to Revise Laws of United States, appointed under act approved June 4, 1897, Y3.L44:

[As early as 1848 the bulk of the Statutes at large, then filling 9 volumes, led to a desire for a revision, excluding private and obsolete enactments and including the whole body of permanent general laws of the United States in one volume. In 1848 there was a strong report from the House Judiciary Committee in favor of such a revision, and other similar reports followed, with the result that an act approved June 27, 1866 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 74), was passed by Congress. The commissioners appointed under this act were Caleb Cushing, Charles P. James, and William Johnson. The first appropriation to carry out this law was in an act approved Mar. 2, 1867 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 455, 456), and it is not probable that the commissioners began work before the appropriation became available. Cushing was sent to Bogota in 1868 to adjust a diplomatic dispute, and it does not appear that he acted further with the commission. The Official register of 1869 contains only the names of James and Johnson as commissioners. By act approved May 4, 1870 (Stat. L. v. 16, p. 96), the law of June 27, 1866, was extended three years longer, and the names of the commissioners as given in the Official register were Charles P. James, Benj. Vaughan Abbott, and Victor C. Barringer. Several reports were made by the commissioners in which it appeared that they had made many minor changes in the wording of the statutes, though such changes were noted in the margins. Their work was not acceptable for the reason that it was regarded as impossible to enact a revision of the statutes proposing so many changes. An act approved Mar. 3, 1873 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 579), was passed putting the work under the control of a joint committee of the House and Senate, composed of Members and Senators appointed from the Committees on the Revision of the Laws of the Senate and House respectively, which was authorized to receive from the commissioners whatever reports they should make, and discharge them when their term of service expired, which was May 4, 1873. The joint committee was also authorized to contract with some person or persons, learned in the law, to complete the work of revising the statutes of the United States, and Thomas Jefferson Durant was selected to continue and finish the work. Durant revised the commissioners' work, and his revision was introduced in the House as a bill of the 43d Congress, 1st session, Dec. 10, 1873, by Benjamin F. Butler, being given the number H. 1215. The copy of this bill in the Public Documents Library is without title-page, bill number, or heading, the lines being numbered by sections as bills usually are, bound in leather, with back title: Proposed revision of laws, 1873 (see Y3.R32: P94). This bill was referred to the Committee on Revision of the Laws, and copies sent to many distinguished lawyers throughout the United States, that it might be examined and made as perfect as possible when reported to the House. The title given to the bill on its 2d reading in the House was Bill to revise and consolidate statutes of United States in force on 1st day of December, 1873. It passed the House, was engrossed, and sent to the Senate, where it also passed. The copy of the act in the Public Documents Library (Y3.R32:Ac8) bears the autograph signatures of James G. Blaine, Speaker of the House, Matthew H. Carpenter, President of the Senate, and the approval of the act signed by U. S. Grant, President of the United States. This copy was presented by Luke P. Poland to Dr. Wm. K. Mehaffey, at that time a reading clerk of the House. The act was approved June 22, 1874, and published in 1875, the volume containing also, as an appendix, an act to correct errors and supply omissions, approved Feb. 18, 1875 (S7.9:18[1]).

A report by Durant, made to the joint committee and embodying a statement of the changes he had made in the work of the commissioners, is referred to by Mr. Poland in the debates on the bill before the House of Representatives, for which see Congressional record, Jan. 21, 1874 (X182, p. 819). This report is supposed to have been published, though diligent inquiry has failed to locate a copy.

Durant also revised the laws relating to the District of Columbia, and compiled the Indian treaties, the post-road bill, and the bill regulating the punishment for military offenses.

In 1877, George S. Boutwell was appointed a commissioner for the purpose of preparing and publishing a new edition of the 1st volume of the Revised statutes. This edition was published in 1878, and is the legal standard; see S7.10:1.

S7.11: Indexes

[The first general index to the laws was that made in accordance with the plan of Attorney-General Richard Rush. It is v. 5 of the Bioren and Duane edition of the laws (S7.8:5) and was compiled by J. B. Colvin and published in 1815. The period covered is Mar. 4, 1789–Mar. 4, 1815. It is not properly an index, but a digest. Its entries undertake to show not only where a law is but also all that is in it. Some of its entries are 2 pages long and many a page or half-page. It was found cumbersome and no other like it has been made. Mr. Colvin himself, in the preface to v. 6, Bioren and Duane edition, condemns the too voluminous index in v. 5 and follows quite a different method in making the volume index to v. 6.

The next general index was compiled by Samuel Burch under authority of a House resolution of May 15, 1824, and printed in 1828 as a second part of v. 7 of the Bioren and Duane edition; see S7.8:7[2]. It covers the period Mar. 4, 1789–Mar. 3, 1827. It is full, but not unduly full, and was highly esteemed in its day.

Jan. 11, 1849, the Senate adopted a resolution directing the Secretary of the Senate to "contract with a suitable person to compile a synoptical index to the laws and treaties in continuation of" Burch's index of 1828. Mar. 11, 1850, the Secretary reported to the Senate that the new index was complete. A contract was made with Little and Brown to publish it, and it appeared in 1852. Instead of being a continuation of Burch, it incorporates his index and thus covers the whole period, Mar. 4, 1789–Mar. 3, 1851. It is similar in plan to Burch's index, and its references are to both the Bioren and Duane and the Little and Brown editions. There were reprints 1853, 1854, 1856, and 1860.

With the 8th volume of the Statutes at large, 1867, was printed a general index to vols. 1–8 of that series, in which are contained the laws, treaties, and proclamations, 1789–1845; see S7.9:8[1-3].

S7.12: Digests

[General digests, not strictly public documents, have been published, the earliest being that by Ingersoll, 1821; Brightley's Analytical digest was printed in successive editions, 1858, 1863, 1865, and 1869. The Government also purchased and used certain collections and digests of laws relating to particular subjects, such as Heyl's Revenue laws, 1868 (T1.7:868), and Mayo's Pension laws, 1833 (W1.2:P38).]

827 Digest of laws of United States, including abstract of judicial decisions relating to constitutional and statutory law, with notes; by Thomas F. Gordon. [1st edition.] Philadelphia, printed for author, 1827. [By act approved Feb. 24, 1829 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 335), the Secretary of State was authorized to purchase 500 copies of this work for distribution.]

[Wharton's Digest was first printed by authority of a resolution approved July 28, 1886, during the 1st session of the 49th Congress, the edition thus ordered being the "usual number" (1,900) and 4,000 additional copies. The additional copies were issued without document number, but how the copies of the "usual number" were issued, if at all, is not clear. The volumes of the work bound for the Congressional set (serial nos. 2350–52) should be part of this "usual number," but really they are identical with the 2d edition except that the title-pages agree with those of the 1st edition. The 2d edition was not ordered until Mar. 3, 1887, when Congress ordered 4,000 additional copies printed. Dr. Wharton improved the opportunity of this 2d printing to make a 2d edition by correcting errors and adding an appendix containing new and important matter. This 2d edition, ordered at the end of the 2d session, 49th Congress, appears in the Congressional set as 49th Congress, 1st session, Senate miscellaneous document 162.]

S7.13: Session laws or Pamphlet laws (Little, Brown and Company edition)

(Cong. sess.)

[During all the term of their contract for the publication of the Statutes at large, Little, Brown and Company published, in identical form except for binding, the acts of each session separately (session or pamphlet laws). For these session laws the publishers adopted the same plan that was prescribed in the joint resolution approved Mar. 3, 1845 (Stat. L. v. 5, p. 798), authorizing a subscription to their edition of the laws. By the joint resolution approved Sept. 26, 1850 (Stat. L. v. 9, p. 564), the Little, Brown and Company edition of the annual session or pamphlet laws was authorized instead of the State Department edition, which was temporarily discontinued, the last State Department print being the session or pamphlet laws for the 1st session of the 31st Congress (S7.6:31[1]). With the 1st session of the 37th Congress the State Department edition (S7.6:37[1]) was resumed, and from that session up to and including the last session of the 42d Congress, there were both State Department and Little, Brown and Company prints. It will be noted, however, that for several Congresses the Little, Brown and Company edition was the only authorized edition of the session or pamphlet laws. June 24, 1874, Congress discontinued the contract with Little, Brown and Company and directed the Secretary of State to publish the pamphlet laws; see note preceding S7.6:43[1-2], and entries thereafter.

S7. LAWS OF UNITED STATES—Continued

Little, Brown and Company published the session or pamphlet laws for each session of Congress from the 29th to the 42d, inclusive. From the 29th to the 34th Congresses they were edited by George Minot, and from the 35th to the 42d, by George P. Sanger. The "Public" and "Private" laws, and the "Treaties" were grouped under separate title-pages with continuous paging for each of the 3 classes, and were subsequently (and practically without change in form, though with rearranged pagination) incorporated in the Little, Brown and Company edition of the Statutes at large for the corresponding period (S7.9:9–17).

In the Little, Brown and Company edition of the session laws the cover-title read: Statutes at large and treaties of United States, which differed radically from the title given on the title-page. In the Government series which superseded it (S7.6:43[1-3], et seq.) the cover-title and the title-page are the same, namely, Statutes of United States.]

S8. ROLLS AND LIBRARY BUREAU

[The library of the State Department has been in existence since 1789, being in charge of a clerk acting as librarian, up to the act of June 20, 1874 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 90), which provided for the Bureau of Rolls and Library. This bureau is charged with the custody of the rolls, treaties, papers relating to international commissions, etc.; also the promulgation of the laws, treaties, Executive orders and proclamations.]

Documentary history of Constitution (note).

[The successive portions for v. 1–3 appeared originally as appendixes to Bulletins 1, 3, 5, 7, and 9, the dates on the title-pages furnished therewith reading 1787–1870; see S8.3: The State Department also issued the completed volumes with same title-page in bound form, v. 1 and v. 2 bearing date 1894, and v. 3 bearing date 1900; see below S8.2:D65[1-3].

In 1902, these 3 v. were reprinted by order of Congress. The original imprint dates were retained, but the dates in the title were changed to read 1786–1870. These appeared in the sheep-bound Congressional set, also in half leather with the seal of the Department of State on the cover, and also in plain blue cloth; see below S8.2:D65[4-6]. These reprints are almost identical with the originals except for the difference in binding, wider margins, and the dates 1786–1870 on title-pages and on back. There is also one difference in the text, namely, a change in v. 1 as noted below under S8.2:D65[4].

v. 4 and v. 5, containing additional documents, appeared in 1905 as Bulletin 11, pt. 1 and pt. 2. They were also issued by the State Department bound in half leather with the seal of the Department, in style uniform with its 1902 prints of v. 1–3; see below S8.2:D65[7,8].]

The compilations in this class are arranged chronologically by date of publication, the book number being the imprint date or date when publication was known to have been printed. In some cases this date is somewhat later than the date of the latest treaty contained in the compilation.

See, for compilations of treaties and conventions issued by Navy Department, N1.2:T71 and N5.2:T71[1–6].]

See, for first compilation of treaties, 1778–1815, Bioren edition of the laws, v. 1 (S7.8:1).

827 Diplomatic code of United States, embracing collection of treaties and conventions between United States and foreign Powers, 1778–1827, with index to principal cases decided in courts of United States upon points connected with their foreign relations, and official acts, papers, and useful information, for public ministers and consuls; by Jonathan Elliot. Washington, printed by Jonathan Elliot, junior, 1827.

834[1] American diplomatic code, embracing collection of treaties and conventions between United States and foreign Powers, 1778–1834, with abstract of important judicial decisions on points connected with our foreign relations, also diplomatic manual, containing summary of law of nations from works of Wicquefort, Vattel, Martens, Ward, Kent, Story, etc., and other diplomatic writings on questions of international law; by Jonathan Elliot. Washington, printed by Jonathan Elliot, junior, 1834. v. 1.

866[1] Treaties concluded by United States with foreign nations [1778–1845; edited by Richard Peters]. Boston, Little, Brown, and Company, 1866. large 8° [Also in Statutes at large, v. 8 (S7.9:8[1,2]).]

866[2] Same [1841–64]. Boston, Little, Brown, and Company, 1866. large 8°

869 Treaties of United States with foreign nations, and proclamations, 1864–68. Boston, Little, Brown, and Company, 1869. large 8°

Treaties and conventions concluded between United States and other Powers since July 4, 1776. 1871. See [1441–36].

873[1] Same, containing notes with references to negotiations preceding treaties, to executive, legislative, or judicial construction of them, and to causes of abrogation of some of them, appendix showing treaties concluded subsequently to those in text, and correction of errors and omissions, chronological list of treaties, analytical index, and synoptical index; [by J. C. Bancroft Davis]. Revised edition. 1873. [Although this is a revised edition of the 1871 compilation mentioned above and issued as a Congressional document only, the preface states that the words are used on the title-page to distinguish this edition from some incomplete copies which were issued.]

See, for supplement issued by Navy Department, N1.2:T71.

873[2] Notes upon treaties of United States with other Powers, with references to negotiations preceding them, to their executive, legislative, or judicial construction, and to causes of abrogation of some of them, preceded by list of treaties and conventions with foreign Powers, chronologically arranged, and followed by analytical index and synoptical index of treaties. 1873. large 8° [Also in Treaties and conventions concluded since July 4, 1776, containing notes, etc. (S9.5[1]:873[1]).]

876 Treaties and conventions concluded between United States and other Powers since May 1, 1870, not contained in Senate executive document 36, 41st Congress, 3d session, with some notes in reference thereto; [by John L. Cadwalader]. 1876. [This publication was compiled and paged to be used in connection with the compilation of 1873 (S9.5[1]:873[1]).]

889 Treaties and conventions concluded between United States and other Powers since July 4, 1776, containing notes, with references to negotiations preceding treaties, to executive, legislative, or judicial construction of them, and to causes of abrogation of some of them, chronological list of treaties, and analytical index; [by John H. Haswell]. 1889. [2262–47]

S9.5[2]: Treaties and conventions (single issues)

(CT) [As the Public Documents Library has no complete file of these treaties and conventions, they are not listed here. At the Bureau of Rolls and Library there is kept a register of the treaties and conventions issued separately. Treaty series numbers have been assigned to the set from 1 to 488, and beginning with 489 these numbers appear on the pamphlets.

These treaties and conventions are published in the Session laws (S7.6:) and also in the Statutes at large (S7.9:), most of them appearing also in the compilations listed above (S9.5[1]:), or under Y4.F76[2]:T71[1-3].]

S10. PORTO RICO

[The organic act temporarily to provide revenues and civil government for Porto Rico was approved Apr. 12, 1900, and became effective May 1 1900. From that date to June 30, 1908, annual reports were made by the governor of Porto Rico to the State Department (S10.1:). Beginning with the fiscal year 1909, the governor reports to the War Department, in accordance with the act of July 15, 1909, promulgated by Executive order of same date. See, for text of Executive order and act, and for historical information, note under W75.]

SI. SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

[Founded upon the bequest of James Smithson, of London, England, who gave his entire property to the United States to establish an institution for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men.

Incorporated by act of Congress approved Aug. 10, 1846 (Stat. L. v. 9, p. 102).

The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution. All publications of the Ethnology Bureau (SI 2.) and the National Museum (SI 3.) are, however, public documents, as are also the annual reports submitted to the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution by the American Historical Association (SI 4.) and the National Society of Daughters of American Revolution (SI 5.).

† Includes index to v. 1–10.

‡ This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. July, 1910, the Smithsonian Institution acquired the series of publications on the Harriman Alaska Expedition of 1899, of which v. 1–13 (except v. 6 and 7) were first privately printed by Doubleday, Page & Company, New York, 1902–05. The series has been transferred to the Smithsonian Institution by Mrs. Edward H. Harriman and the work will hereafter be known as the Harriman Alaska series of the Smithsonian Institution. Volumes 1–5 and 8–13 were rebound in 1910 by the Smithsonian Institution, with added Smithsonian title-pages. These special title-pages will also be used for v. 6 and 7, at this date (1911) in preparation, and for any additional volumes that may appear hereafter. This new Smithsonian series necessitates an additional class under SI 1., the series title of which is as follows:

SI 2. ETHNOLOGY BUREAU

[Ethnological research was formerly part of the work of the Geographical and Geological Survey of Rocky Mountain Region (I 17.), which was merged in the Geological Survey (I 19.) by act approved Mar. 3, 1879 (Stat. L. v. 20, p. 394). In that act Congress provided that the ethnological work should be carried on under the Smithsonian Institution. Thus the Ethnology Bureau was established.

Besides publishing the annual reports and bulletins authorized by Congress, the Ethnology Bureau has completed the publication of Contributions to North American ethnology (I 17.5:), a series which was begun by the former Geographical and Geological Survey of Rocky Mountain Region under the direction of the Interior Department.

The name "Bureau of Ethnology" appears on the title-pages of annual reports up to and including the 15th report, 1894, since which the form "Bureau of American Ethnology" has been used. The latter is the official name of the bureau.]

SI 4. AMERICAN HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

[The American Historical Association was formed at Saratoga, Sept. 9, 1884. The "Papers" of the association, consisting of reports of the proceedings of the annual meetings and some of the historical monographs that had been read, were published by Putnam, 1885–91, and have been collected in 5 substantial volumes, the copyright being held by the association. These volumes, giving the proceedings and papers of the first 7 annual meetings, are not public documents, but because of their historic interest and also on account of the fact that they were the forerunners of the annual reports of the association, a class for them has been assigned in this Checklist; see SI 4.5:

By act of Congress approved Jan. 4, 1889, the association was incorporated, the act providing, that "said association shall report annually to the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution concerning its proceedings and the condition of historical study in America; said secretary shall communicate to Congress the whole of such reports or such portions thereof as he shall see fit." From that time the proceedings and historical monographs of the association have been issued by the Government in 1 or 2 volumes yearly, under the title, Annual reports of American Historical Association (SI 4.1:). The first 2 issues in this form, those for 1889 and 1890, duplicate the proceedings of the 6th and 7th meetings, already published n the Papers, and also partially duplicate the monographs in v. 4 and 5 of the Papers. The issue of the Papers was discontinued after the 7th meeting.]

T. TREASURY DEPARTMENT

[The Treasury Department was the third Executive Department, having been created by act approved Sept. 2, 1789 (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 65).]

T1. SECRETARY

T1.1: Annual reports on state of finances [or Finance reports]

[By the act organizing the Treasury Department approved Sept. 2, 1789 (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 65), it was made the duty of the Secretary to prepare and report estimates of public revenue and public expenditures, and to make report and give information to Congress or either branch thereof in person or in writing, as required, respecting all matters referred to him by the Senate or House or which appertain to his office. Alexander Hamilton, the first Secretary of the Treasury, made no annual reports, but submitted papers on the public credit, a national bank, manufactures, and the establishment of a mint. Oliver Wolcott, who succeeded Hamilton as Secretary of the Treasury, made two reports on the receipts and expenditures of the Government, one to the Committee of Ways and Means, Apr. 27, 1798, and the other to the House of Representatives Feb. 21, 1800.

By act approved May 10, 1800 (Stat. L. v. 2, p. 79), it was made the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to prepare and lay before Congress at the commencement of every session a report on the subject of finance containing estimates of public revenue and public expenditures. The first regular annual report is that of Albert Gallatin, 1801, and thereafter there is a consecutive series.

Beginning with 1817, the annual reports have appeared regularly in the Congressional set.

The Public Documents Library has an original print of the 1808 report, 7 p. f°, and a print of the Sept. 5, 1837, report, 16 p. 8°. Both are without the accompanying papers, which are included in the document editions thereof.

Reprints of the reports on the finances, Apr. 11, 1789–May 16, 1828, appear in American State papers, finance, v. 1–5; see serial nos. 09–013.

Another series of reprints was issued by order of the Senate. This series consists of 7 v., printed at different times from 1828 to 1851 and including reports 1790–1849. These volumes are listed below preceding the listing of the individual annual issues.

T1.1: Annual reports on state of finances [or Finance reports]—Continued

Of the individual reports from 1817, the Public Documents Library has no edition without Congressional document number prior to 1871, except 1866, 1867, and 1869. Beginning 1871, there have been both Congressional and Department editions for each year.]

(v. nos.) Reports on finances, 1790–1849 (reprints of annual reports)

[The Senate, by resolution of Feb. 7, 1828 (Senate journal, serial no. 162, p. 140) provided that there be printed and bound 600 copies of the annual reports of the Secretary of the Treasury, including the reports of Alexander Hamilton. The reprinting of the annual reports continued until 1849. The first print, issued by Duff Green, consisted of 2 v. including the reports through 1828; the second print, by Blair & Rives, reprinted the first 2 v. and included a third, bringing the work down to 1836; later volumes continued the work to 1849.
This set includes, besides the annual reports, reprints of a few other papers on finance. These volumes are not in the numbered series of Congressional documents.]

T1.11[1]: Treasury decisions

[From 1868 to 1897, the decisions were published monthly, though not infrequently decisions made during two and even three months were published in one pamphlet. These monthly numbers were bound up at the end of the calendar year into annual volumes. Beginning Jan. 1898, the decisions have been published weekly; see T1.11[2]:

The Public Documents Library has only annual volumes which have been bound in such wise that the identity of the individual numbers is lost. For this reason it is not practicable to list them here in detail.

The internal revenue decisions are published at the end of the year in a separate volume. For 1900-03, the volumes of collected internal revenue decisions were issued from the office of the Secretary and also, in slightly different form, from the office of the commissioner of internal revenue. For 1904-09, they have been issued by the latter office only; see T22.8[1]:

Beginning 1890, the decisions of the Board of General Appraisers (T20.) are also included in these volumes. Their decisions bear both a Treasury decisions number and a general appraisers' number. †

1899-1909, the volumes have been numbered consecutively, appearing semiannually since 1904-09.]

1868 4° [Department decisions 1-319.]

1869 4° [Department decisions 320-524 (except 344).]

† Beginning in 1910, the decisions of the Court of Customs Appeals (Ju7.) are also published among the Treasury decisions, in accordance with the act establishing the court. See, for bound volumes of the Court of Customs Appeals Reports, footnote for Ju7.5:

T11. COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

[Systematic survey of coasts of the United States was provided for in 1807 in response to recommendation of President Jefferson and Congress passed an act, approved Feb. 10, 1807, which "authorized and requested" the President "to cause a survey to be taken of coasts of the United States" and "to cause proper and intelligent persons to be employed" on the work. $50,000 was appropriated to carry the act into effect. Direction of the work was intrusted to the Treasury Department by the President, and the Secretary of the Treasury, with approval of the President, requested plans for the work from a number of men who were supposed to be qualified to undertake it. The plan submitted by Ferdinand Rudolph Hassler was adopted but nothing else was done until July 27, 1811, when he was engaged to proceed to Europe to have necessary instruments constructed and to purchase others. He was detained there by the War of 1812, and by other causes until Aug. 8, 1815, when he started on his return and arrived at Philadelphia Oct. 22. He continued preparations for the work, and Aug. 3, 1816, was employed as superintendent of Survey of the Coast with approval of President Madison.

Apr. 14, 1818, Congress repealed the provisions of the act of 1807, which authorized employment of other persons than those belonging to the Army and Navy, and the instruments, records, and funds were turned over to the War Department by Mr. Hassler.

Systematic survey of the coast was suspended until July 10, 1832, when Congress again authorized employment of civilians on the work. During this period (1818–32) some detached surveys were made of harbors along the coast by officers of the Navy, for naval purposes, under special acts of Congress for specified localities, but the Secretary of the Navy in his annual reports for 1825 and 1828 reported the existing condition as unsatisfactory and recommended the establishment of an organization to make systematic and scientific survey of the whole coast as urgently needed by commercial and naval interests of the country.

In his report dated Nov. 27, 1828, the Secretary of the Navy makes the following statement concerning the detached surveys mentioned above: "These surveys, although executed as well as the circumstances in which the officers were placed would allow, and have probably been sufficient to answer the object of the resolution, yet they do not afford materials for an accurate chart of the harbors and the approaches to them, and assist but little towards a perfect knowledge of our coasts, which can only be acquired by that scientific survey of the whole, the importance of which I have heretofore ventured to urge, and would again respectfully suggest." His recommendation was finally approved by Congress when on July 10, 1832, as noted above, it again authorized employment of civilians.

By this act of July 10, 1832, Congress revived the original act of Feb. 10, 1807, and the President was authorized to proceed with the work. The Survey was again placed under the Treasury Department, Mr. Hassler was again appointed superintendent, Aug. 9, 1832, and the work proceeded under the Treasury Department until Mar. 11, 1834, when it was transferred to the Navy Department by order of President Jackson. The direction of the work was kept in the Navy Department until Mar. 26, 1836, when it was again transferred to the Treasury Department by President Jackson.

The direction of the Survey then remained in the Treasury Department until July 1, 1903, when it was transferred to the Department of Commerce and Labor by act creating that Department, approved Feb. 14, 1903.

Mr. Hassler made his report, as superintendent of the Survey of the Coast until 1836, when the report was first made by him as superintendent of Coast Survey.

On July 1, 1871, by act approved Mar. 3, 1871, the work of Coast Survey was extended to include a primary triangulation across the continent to form a geodetic connection between the work on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The name was not changed, however, until in the sundry civil appropriation act, approved June 20, 1878, the subhead "Coast and Geodetic Survey" was used. Since that date "Coast and Geodetic Survey" is given as the title of the Survey in all its publications.

At the time of Prof. Hassler's reappointment as superintendent of Coast Survey, he was engaged in the Treasury Department "in comparing the weights and measures used at the custom-houses of the United States, and ascertaining by experiment the proper hydrometer proofs of liquor," and this work was continued in his charge as part of the work of the Coast Survey. The Office of Standard Weights and Measures remained under the superintendent of the Survey until July 1, 1901, when, by act approved Mar. 3, 1901, it became the National Bureau of Standards.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey was transferred to Commerce and Labor Department, July 1, 1903; see C4. See, for histories of Coast and Geodetic Survey, T11.2:H62 1-3, P93 1-3, and for Organization and law of Department of Commerce and Labor, C1.2:Or3.]

(date) later (nos.) [Prior to 1869, information similar to that appearing in Notice to mariners was published in annual reports of Coast and Geodetic Survey (T11.1:), with requests that authority be given to publish the information separately. The Notices to mariners issued previous to Jan. 14, 1875, were unnumbered.

The first index to the series was issued as a separate pamphlet covering nos. 1–96, and a similar index covering nos. 97–109 was included in no. 109. These indexes were only numerical schedules.

Beginning with 1888, a yearly subject "Index to chart corrections" was published; to the first two indexes of this kind no number was assigned, but beginning with 1890 the annual "Index to chart corrections" for each year, except 1896, has been assigned a number in the series.]

T12. COMPTROLLER OF CURRENCY

T12.1: Annual reports

[1863 and 1864, included in full in annual reports of Treasury Department (Finance reports, T1.1:). From 1865 to 1909, the Finance reports include the text of the report of the Comptroller of the Currency and sometimes certain summaries, but the reports of national banks and most of the statistical tables are omitted.
For the years 1887–1904, during which time the report consisted of more than one volume, the reports on the condition of national banks are given in v. 2.
In addition to the full reports listed below, certain portions have been issued separately; see notes under T12.1*a*: and T12.7:]

[The Treasury Department document numbers are included in the entries for 1887–94, because for those years different edition numbers have been assigned by Treasury Department as a part of that phrase, presumably for the purpose of distinguishing between the various issues of one year. The edition number, therefore, does not have its usual meaning here. In several cases the text of the Comptroller's report issued in pamphlet form (T12.1a:) bears on verso of the title-page a Treasury Department document number followed by "1st edition," which arrangement makes v. 1 of the full report (T12.1:), 2d edition, and v. 2, 3d edition. The following entries show these peculiarities as far as can be ascertained from the set in the Public Documents Library.]

T12.1[a]: Annual reports (separates; text of report)

[From about 1868 to 1909, the report of the Comptroller, without the reports of national banks, has usually been issued separately, in the earlier years with same title-page as the full report, but beginning 1895 with title "Text of annual report of Comptroller of Currency."
In the earliest years, the separate included practically everything except the reports of national banks. From 1876 to 1884, two separates were issued each year, one in paper, containing the text of the report and the digest of decisions, the other bound in cloth, containing also the most important tables. Since about 1890, the separate has omitted all of the appended tables.
Such digests of decisions as have been issued separately are classed under T12.7: with later digests which were not included in the annual report.]

T12.2: General publications

B64 Bonds, etc., owned by national banks. Sept. 14, 1908. 4°

B65 Boston, Mass. Reply of Comptroller of Currency in matter of investigation of suspension and failure of Pacific National Bank of Boston, Mass. 1884. (Treas. Dept. doc. 567.)

C41 Checks and balances. Report of Currency Division, office of Secretary of Treasury, on checks and balances, U. S. distinctive paper accounts, for 1871. 1871.

[The matter contained on p. 3–11, 19–38, of this publication appeared as 41st Congress, 2d session, Senate miscellaneous document 132, serial no. 1408; that on p. 39–94 appeared in 41st Congress, 2d session, House executive document 307, serial no. 1426; that on p. 95–106 was printed as 53d Congress, 1st session, Senate miscellaneous document 29, serial no. 3145. All of the above, slightly rearranged and accompanied by the legislative proceedings concerning the act, appeared again in 1900; see Y4.C66:C66.]

[Circulars relating to the work of this office are issued in the series of Treasury Department circulars; see certain issues under T1.4:]

[These abstracts are prepared from the reports submitted by national banks in response to calls from the Comptroller of the Currency (see also T12.11 1:). Prior to 1869, reports were made quarterly, but the act of Mar. 3, 1869, required that they be made 5 times a year.

The abstracts are issued separately as shown below, and a similar abstract, though not always in the same form, has been included in the annual report. The first abstract of this nature appeared in the annual report for 1863. With his report for 1864, the Comptroller submitted the reports of banks and an abstract thereof for that year, but so far as is known, the latter were not printed. The abstracts included in the annual reports 1865–70 are for quarterly periods; the annual reports for 1871–1909 exhibit the statistics as compiled 5 times a year.

The Public Documents Library has none of the separately issued abstracts prior to 1893. From Mar. 5, 1895, to Oct. 6, 1896, each issue included not only a summary for the whole United States, but also a sheet for each State and Territory, one for each reserve city, and one for trust companies in Washington, D. C. For Dec. 17, 1896, the sheets for the individual States, etc., were issued in oblong 8° in the same form as the other issues for 1895 and 1896, but the summary was printed in a 4° pamphlet which contained also the statistics for the individual States, etc. Beginning with the issue for Mar. 9, 1897, the oblong 8° sheets were discontinued, and in their stead was issued the 4° pamphlet containing the same information.

None of the earlier issues were numbered, but numbers have appeared on the publications beginning with no. 13, for Apr. 5, 1899. In the list below, the date used is the date for which returns are made.]

T13. 1st COMPTROLLER

[The act of Sept. 2, 1789, which established the Treasury Department, authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to appoint a Comptroller, the duties of whose office were laid down in that act (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 65, 66). The office became known as that of 1st Comptroller in 1817, when by act of Mar. 3 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 366), the office of 2d Comptroller was established.
By act approved July 31, 1894, effective Oct. 1, 1894 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 205, 208), the offices of 2d Comptroller and Commissioner of Customs were abolished and the work which had been carried on in those offices was combined with that of the 1st Comptroller, whose designation then became Comptroller of the Treasury; see T15.]

T18. ENGRAVING AND PRINTING BUREAU

[Engraving and printing for the Treasury Department was done for many years by contractors, but at the time of the Civil War it was found necessary to organize a bureau to attend to the final work on the great number of notes issued. By act approved July 11, 1862 (Stat. L. v. 12, p. 532), the Secretary of the Treasury was empowered by Congress to purchase machinery and employ persons to do the work. In 1863, the bureau was called the National Currency Bureau and a few years afterward it became known as Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Reorganized in 1877. The act approved June 4, 1897 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 18) provides that all business of the Engraving and Printing Bureau shall be under immediate control of the director, subject to order of the Secretary of the Treasury.]

T20. APPRAISERS

[By act of Mar. 1, 1823, the President was authorized to appoint two appraisers in each of the 7 principal ports of entry. Other appraisers, as well as assistant appraisers appointed by the Secretary of Treasury, were provided for by later acts.
The customs administrative act approved June 10, 1890 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 136) provided for 9 general appraisers, appointed by the President, who act upon appeals, either individually or as boards of 3, according to the nature of the case. The 9 general appraisers are also organized for the preparation of joint reports, etc., into a general board, with headquarters at New York. Reports and samples of merchandise are sent by local appraisers to the board at New York.
The decisions of the general appraisers are included in the Treasury decisions; see T1.11 [1,2]:
Certain publications of the appraisers, e. g., Reports of conferences of local appraisers (T20.5:), Reappraisement circulars (T20.4 [1]:), and the earlier issues of Indexes to reappraisements (T20.4 [2]:), appear bearing the name of the Division of Customs, but they are classed here with the other publications of the appraisers.]

T20.4 [1]: Circulars, Reappraisements of merchandise by general appraisers or Reappraisement circulars

(inclusive nos.) 4° [Weekly.]

From Aug. 9, 1890 to Jan. 6, 1898, reports of reappraisements appeared as certain issues in the series of Treasury Department circulars (T1.4:). During 1898 and 1899 they were published in the weekly Treasury decisions (T1.11 [2]:).
Beginning Jan. 1900, the present series of weekly Reappraisement circulars was begun. The matter is transmitted to the Department by the president of the Board of General Appraisers and printed under the supervision of the Customs Division. Each issue includes the matter contained in the daily issues, of which there were from 1 to 6 during that week. The first of this series in the Public Documents Library is the issue of Jan. 8, 1900, designated as Reappraisement circulars 438–443; the last issue during the period covered by this Checklist is that of Dec. 27, 1909, Reappraisement circulars 2052–2053.]

T21. IMMIGRATION BUREAU

[In accordance with act of Mar. 2, 1819 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 489), reports concerning immigrants were made annually to Congress by the Secretary of State, from 1820 to 1870, and statistics were collected by the State Department up to 1874. The reports for 1865 to 1867 were rendered by the commissioner of immigration appointed under act of July 4, 1864 (Stat. L. v. 13, p. 385), but transmitted through the Secretary of State. The last-mentioned act was repealed Mar. 30, 1868, which abolished the first Immigration Bureau (or Commission).

A Statistics Bureau (T37.) was established in the Treasury Department, July 28, 1866, and beginning with 1869 a report on immigration was included in the report on commerce and navigation issued by that bureau, thus duplicating the work of the State Department up to 1874, when by act of May 7, 1874 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 42), it was provided that the report on immigration should be rendered to Congress through the Treasury Department rather than the State Department. The Statistics Bureau continued to issue these reports up to 1895, duplicating the work of the present Immigration Bureau from 1892 to 1895.

The present Immigration Bureau was established July 12, 1891 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 1085). Transferred to Commerce and Labor Department, July 1, 1903; see C7.]

[1820–70 (except 1822), prior to establishment of Immigration Bureau, annual reports on immigration were made by the Secretary of State, but appeared only as Congressional documents. The reports for 1865 to 1867 were transmitted to the Secretary of State by the commissioner of immigration whose office was abolished in 1868; see note under T21.

1869–91, prior to establishment of Immigration Bureau, annual reports on immigration appeared in annual reports on Foreign commerce and navigation made by Statistics Bureau, Treasury Dept. (T37.1:).]

T22.8[1]: Decisions

(v. nos.)

[A compilation containing decisions 1–176, rendered between Oct. 1862, and June 21 1870, appeared in 1871 with title, Decisions published by Office of Internal Revenue to Jan. 1871 (see T22.5:871[2]); four other decisions rendered between 1871 and 1893, bearing nos. 177–180, appeared in other compilations issued by Office of Internal Revenue (see T22.5:882, 893).

The majority of the decisions rendered from Dec. 24, 1864, to Dec. 31, 1897, appeared originally in the form of letters to internal revenue officers, published by contract in the Internal revenue record, a weekly issued in New York City. These appeared later in a digest prepared in the Office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (see T22.8[2]:864–898).

Beginning with 1898, the decisions of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue have been published in the weekly Treasury decisions (T1.11[2]:), being numbered in that series until the end of 1899. Beginning with Jan. 1900, they have been numbered in a series of their own.

From 1898 to 1909, the internal revenue decisions were collected at the end of each calendar year and issued in a separate volume with title as shown below. From 1900 to 1903, there was each year a duplicate of this annual volume issued in style uniform with the bound volume of Treasury decisions; see T1.11[1]:]

T22.17: Regulations [series 7]

(nos.)

[In 1881, the Office of Internal Revenue had bound a small number of copies of all current regulations of this series, with list of contents, and title-page reading, Regulations and instructions, series 7 complete, from no. 1 to no. 14, inclusive, with the respective appendixes and supplements, compiled Feb. 21, 1881. Similar volumes were bound in 1884 and 1893. As these volumes were not reprints, but merely a binding up for official use of the individual regulations previously issued, no further account is taken of them in this Checklist.

The designation "Series 7" was dropped from the publications beginning about Sept. 1900. From 1880 to 1898, most but not all of the issues bore Treasury Department document numbers; since 1898, only a few have been so numbered.

In a few cases a number which had been used for regulations on one subject has been used again for a different set of regulations of a later period. In all such cases brief titles have been given for identification in the list below.

Certain Regulations of series 7 which were current in Feb. 1907 were issued as pt. 4 of Rules and regulations governing Treasury Department in its various branches; see 59th Congress, 2d session, Senate document 399, pt. 4, serial no. 5095.]

T23. LIBRARY

[There was a small library in the Treasury Department from a very early date. From about 1863, its growth was steady until it numbered 25,000 volumes. In 1909, by the transfer of a large number of these to the Life-Saving Service, the Library of Congress, etc., it was reduced to a comparatively small working collection for the official use of the Treasury Department.]

T25. LIGHT-HOUSE BOARD

[Although the Light-House Board was organized under provisions of act approved Aug. 31, 1852, light-houses, beacons, buoys, etc., have been established and maintained by the United States Government since Aug. 15, 1789 (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 53). Previous to that time the work had been carried on by the several States. Various later acts than that of 1789 indicate that the work was under the supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury. The Secretary detailed at various times different officers to superintend this work; for much of the time prior to 1852 the 5th auditor directed the work and was sometimes spoken of as the "general superintendent of the Light-House Establishment."

In accordance with act approved Mar. 3, 1851 (Stat. L. v. 9, p. 629), a temporary Light-House Board was organized to inquire into the condition of the Light-House Establishment. The members of this board with 2 additional members formed, Oct. 9, 1852, the permanent board appointed under provisions of act of Aug. 31, 1852 (Stat. L. v. 10, p. 119).

Several publications relating to the Light-House Establishment issued before the organization of the permanent board in 1852 have been entered under T25. as that has seemed the most logical place for them.

See, for Compilation of public documents and extracts from reports and papers relating to light-houses, light-vessels, etc., 1789–1871, T25.2:C73.

Transferred to Commerce and Labor Department, July 1, 1903; see C9.]

T27. PUBLIC HEALTH AND MARINE-HOSPITAL SERVICE

[The Marine-Hospital Service grew out of the act of July 16, 1798 (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 605) and subsequent acts for the relief of sick and disabled seamen. Reorganized by act of June 29, 1870 (Stat. L. v. 16, p. 169). Name changed by act of July 1, 1902 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 712) to Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service.

From 1879 to 1885 certain duties relating to the public health were transferred by act of June 2, 1879 (Stat. L. v. 21, p. 5-7) to the National Board of Health (T29.).

See, for historical sketches of Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service, T27.1:872, p. 7-27, T27.2:M33, and T27.12:13, 20.]

T27.1: Annual reports of surgeon-general

[1853-61, certain statistics concerning marine hospitals are included in annual reports of Treasury Department (Finance reports, T1.1:). A special report containing statistics for 6 months ending Dec. 31, 1871, was issued as a Congressional document; see [1479-36].

The first of the present series of reports is that for fiscal year 1872. The number of the report does not appear on the title-page, but it is frequently mentioned in the letter of transmittal. This numbering exhibited various inconsistencies prior to 1893. Beginning with report for 1893, the numbering has been on the basis of an individual report for each year beginning with that for 1872, notwithstanding the fact that the report for 1876 was included with that for 1877, and the report for 1878 with that for 1879.

Only a very brief unsigned summary is included in annual reports of Treasury Department (Finance reports, T1.1:).]

T27.3: Hygienic Laboratory, Bulletins

(nos.)

[The laboratory of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service is known as the Hygienic Laboratory. It was established at the marine hospital on Staten Island, N. Y., Aug. 1887. Transferred to Washington, D. C., June 11, 1891.

The series of bulletins listed below includes the most important printed records of the work of the laboratory.

Annual reports are also made each year to the surgeon-general of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service; those for 1891, 1894-1905 are printed in full over the signature of the director of the Hygienic Laboratory in the annual reports of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service (T27.1:); for 1888-90, 1906-09, the work of the laboratory is merely summarized by the surgeon-general of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service in his report; reports for 1892, 1893, if made, were not printed. The only annual report of the Hygienic Laboratory issued separately is that for 1896 which is classed under T27.1a:H99.]

T27.6: (v. nos.) Public health reports (weekly)

[The "Bulletins of the public health," nos. 1–46, published in accordance with the national quarantine act of Apr. 29, 1878, were issued weekly from July 13, 1878, to May 24, 1879. They were originally published on separate sheets by manifold process. In order to preserve them in permanent form, they were reprinted in one volume by the Marine-Hospital Service in 1881, and were later designated as v. 1 of this series. The Public Documents Library has them only in the reprint of 1881.

From July 5, 1879, to July 1, 1882, the series of "Bulletins of the public health" issued by the Marine-Hospital Service was superseded by the series of weekly bulletins issued by the National Board of Health; see T29.3[1]:

In 1887, the publication was resumed by the Marine-Hospital Service under the title Weekly abstract of sanitary reports, and the issues for that year, numbered from 47 to 96, Jan. 20–Dec. 30, constitute v. 2. With v. 3, 1888, the plan of beginning a new series of numbers for each annual volume was adopted. The word "weekly" disappeared from the individual issues with v. 5, no. 3, but was retained on the volume title-pages through v. 10.

With v. 11, 1896, the title was changed to Public health reports, the back title of the bound volumes reading, Weekly public health reports.]

[v. 1] Bulletins of public health [nos. 1–46, July 13, 1878–May 24, 1879], issued by supervising surgeon-general under national quarantine act of Apr. 29, 1878. Reprint 1881. (Treas. Dept. doc. 74.) [Originally published on separate sheets by manifold process. These must not be confused with the series of miscellaneous "Public health bulletins;" see T27.12:]

T27.12: Public health bulletins

(nos.)

[In Jan. 1910, the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service brought together in one series its various miscellaneous publications relating to public health, with the new series title as given above, assigning to those previously issued the numbers 1 to 30, as indicated in their list of publications issued Jan. 1910; no. 31 also appeared without number in 1910. Although this Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909, nos. 30 and 31 are included here in order to give a complete list of the bulletins which appeared without numbers. Beginning with no. 32, the number is printed on the publication.

This series has no connection with the series of Bulletins of public health, nos. 1-46, issued weekly, July 13, 1878–May 24, 1879, which form v. 1 of the series of weekly Public health reports; see T27.6:1.]

T27.13: List of changes of stations and duties of commissioned and other officers of Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service for 7 days ended —— 4°

[Weekly.]

[The wording of the title of this series has varied from time to time. Only the radical changes are shown in the list below. There have also been minor changes. On issues of Mar. 11, 18, Apr. 1, 15, 1908, the words "and noncommissioned" are omitted, though the publication contains the usual information. After the change of title, July 8, 1908, one issue, that for July 22, 1908, reverts to the old form of title, and on issues for July 8, 15, 29, Aug. 5, 12, 1908, the form "station" instead of "stations" is used. Beginning Aug. 19, 1908, the title has uniformly appeared as given in the heading above. In cases where publication on one of the regular dates is omitted, the next issue reads "for 14 days ended ——."]

T28.6: Mineral resources west of Rocky Mountains

[The back-titles and the title-page titles of this set have varied greatly. The words "Mineral resources west of Rocky Mountains," which appeared uniformly as back-titles of the last 6 issues, have been chosen as the series title for the set. The imprint dates and those on the backs of the books differ from the actual dates covered by the reports. Book numbers are assigned by the years covered.]

866[1] [Preliminary] report upon mineral resources of States and Territories west of Rocky Mountains [1866; by J. Ross Browne]. 1867. 321 p. [1289–29]

866[2] Reports upon mineral resources of United States [1866]; by J. Ross Browne and James W. Taylor. 1867. 360 p. [The main part of this volume is the report by Browne entered above (T28.6: 866[1]), in addition to which is included Taylor's report, Gold mining east of Rocky Mountains (39th Congress, 2d session, House executive document 92, serial number 1293) and also Land Office Circular in relation to mining claims, Jan. 14, 1867.]

867 Report on mineral resources of States and Territories west of Rocky Mountains [1867]; [by] J. Ross Browne. 1868. [1342–202] [Bureau edition contains also Report of James W. Taylor on mineral resources of United States east of Rocky Mountains (40th Congress, 2d session, House executive document 273, serial no. 1343).]

868 Mineral resources of States and Territories west of Rocky Mountains [calendar year 1868, 1st annual report]; by Rossiter W. Raymond. 1869. ([40th Cong. 3d sess. H. ex. doc. 54]; serial no. 1374.)

[Another print of this report, with title, Mines of the West, was printed by J. B. Ford and Company, New York, evidently from the plates used by the Government Printing Office, having the document notation in the signature mark. It is not regarded as a public document because there is no proof that it was printed by authority of the Government.]

T29. NATIONAL BOARD OF HEALTH

[Created by act approved Mar. 3, 1879 (Stat. L. v. 20, p. 484) and organized Apr. 2 of that year. The act of June 2, 1879 (Stat. L. v. 21, p. 5) defined the powers and duties of the board, transferring to it certain work relating to quarantine which formerly had been required of the Marine Hospital Service (T27.) by the national quarantine act which was approved Apr. 29, 1878 (Stat. L. v. 20, p. 37). The act of June 2, 1879, also limited the duration of the National Board of Health to 4 years. Hence it virtually expired June 2, 1883, although annual reports for 1884 and 1885 were issued, the work being carried on for those years, after which it came to an end for lack of appropriations.]

Those listed here ran from July 5, 1879, to July 1, 1882, when publication was suspended because the appropriation for printing was exhausted. Some years later, Jan. 20, 1887, the publication was resumed by the Marine Hospital Service as v. 2 of their Public health reports, with title, Weekly abstract of sanitary reports (T27.6:).]

T33. REVENUE-CUTTER SERVICE

[Organized under act of Aug. 4, 1790 (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 175). There being at that time no Navy Department, this service was, as a matter of convenience in the discharge of public business, attached to the Treasury Department, where it has since remained, although the act of Mar. 2, 1799, after the establishment of the Navy Department, provided that "the revenue-cutters shall, whenever the President so directs, cooperate with the Navy." Formerly known also as Revenue-Marine Service.]

[From 1843 to 1848, a report was made annually by the captain of the Revenue Marine Service. As far as is known these appeared in the Congressional set only, as follows:

1843 [441–45]
1844 [463–22]
1845 [482–39]
1846 [499–17]
1847 [516–30]
1848 [543–52]

A summary of the work of the Revenue-Cutter Service is usually included each year in the personal report of the Secretary of the Treasury. Certain signed reports for fiscal year have also been issued by the Revenue-Cutter Service as shown below.]

T35. SPECIAL AGENTS DIVISION

[Special agents of the Treasury Department have been employed and recognized by law almost from the organization of the Department. About 1870, judging from entries in the Official register (I 1.25:) and the Congressional directory (Y4.P93[1]:1), a more definite organization seems to have been effected, as the Division of Special Agents, in the Office of the Secretary, under a supervising special agent.
Although from the beginning, the work in connection with customs has been one of the most important duties of the special agents, the latter have from time to time been assigned to other special lines of work, such as seal and salmon fisheries in Alaska, Chinese exclusion, manufacture of tin and terne plate, etc. The act establishing the Department of Commerce and Labor approved Feb. 14, 1903, effective July 1, 1903, transferred to the new Department all jurisdiction, supervision, and control formerly exercised by the Treasury Department over seal, salmon, and other fisheries of Alaska, and over the exclusion from the United States of the Chinese; see, for later matter relating to these subjects, notes and entries under C2. and C7.]

T37. STATISTICS BUREAU

[By act of Feb. 10, 1820, the Secretary of the Treasury was requested to prepare annually for Congress statistical accounts of commerce of United States with foreign countries. As, prior to 1820, such work had been done by the Register of the Treasury, he was called upon by the Secretary to make the required report, and the following year compiled the statement on commerce and navigation for 1821, which is the first of the long series of statistical reports listed below (T37.1:). The work was continued in the office of the Register for many years and increased in scope and importance until the Statistics Bureau was created by act approved July 28, 1866. The Statistics Bureau was consolidated with Foreign Commerce Bureau of State Department and transferred to Commerce and Labor Department, July 1, 1903; see C14.]

T37.1: (date) Annual reports, Foreign commerce and navigation 8° and 4°

[As the commerce of the country has increased, these statistical reports have grown from octavo to bulky quarto volumes. For 1866–76, a brief annual report of the director with usually some condensed statistical matter is found also in annual reports of Treasury Department (Finance reports, T1.1:).
Until 1850, there is no edition without Congressional document number.
See, for papers relating to commerce and navigation, Apr. 13, 1789–Feb. 25, 1823, American state papers, commerce and navigation, serial nos. 014–015.]

[This 1891 volume on Internal commerce is the last of the series to appear in the annual reports on Foreign commerce and navigation. From 1892 to 1899, because of lack of appropriation, there were no statistics compiled on the subject of internal commerce, except a report by George G. Tunell on lake commerce; see T37.2:L14. During calendar year 1900, commercial monographs dealing with internal and foreign commerce of leading staples were published in the Monthly summary of commerce and finance (T37.8:) as follows:

Jan. 1900. Grain trade of United States.
Feb. 1900. Provision trade of United States.
Mar. 1900. Cotton trade of United States.
Apr. 1900. Coal trade of United States.
Aug. 1900. Iron and steel trades of United States.
Nov. 1900. Lumber trade of United States.
Dec. 1900. Shipping industry of United States.

From May to Dec. 1900, statistics of lake commerce appeared in the Monthly summary of commerce and finance, and beginning with Jan. 1901, statistics of internal commerce, including lake commerce, have appeared regularly in the Monthly summary; see T37.8: and since July, 1903, C14.14: The matter in the Monthly summary which relates to internal commerce has been issued separately also, and such separates are classed under T37.8*a*: up to July, 1903, after which they are classed under C14.14*a*:]

T37.11: (date) List of merchant vessels

[Transferred to Navigation Bureau, Treasury Dept. (T30.5:) by act of July 5, 1884, effective July 1, 1884.
Prior to 1867, earlier lists, not public documents, but authorized by the Treasury Department, were published by Rogers and Black, the only copy in the Public Documents Library being for 1847, the title-page for which reads: Rogers and Black's Marine roll, or list of names of permanently registered and enrolled vessels above 20 tons, comprising mercantile marine, furnished for American semaphoric signal book, by authority of Treasury Department; by Rogers and Black, patentees. Baltimore, published by F. Lucas, jr. [1847].]

[This preliminary list was compiled from returns from collectors of customs reporting vessels belonging to their districts on June 30, 1867.
It includes a letter of the Secretary of Treasury dated Mar. 1868, which required the collectors of customs to "communicate to the director of the Bureau of Statistics, promptly at the close of each fiscal quarter hereafter, a list of the vessels to which numbers have been affixed."
The Public Documents Library assumes that these quarterly returns from collectors of customs are the "1st and 2d supplements" and the "3d-8th supplements" of which mention is made in the letter of transmittal of the 2d and succeeding lists. Supplements 1 and 2 were presumably not printed, but were incorporated in the 1st list (T37.11:867 [1]); supplements 3-8 were incorporated in the 1st supplement to the 2d list (T37.11:868).]

1867 [1st], alphabetical arrangement. [Nov. 28, 1868, published] 1869. [Embraces Preliminary list and 1st and 2d supplements thereto.]

1868, 2d [with 1st supplement to 2d list, up to Apr. 21, 1870, also 2d supplement to unrigged list]. [The 2d list proper embraces contents of the 1st list with revisions to June 30, 1868. The 1st supplement to the 2d list embraces "supplements 3-8"; see note following T37.11:867 [1].]

T38. STEAMBOAT-INSPECTION SERVICE

[As early as July 7, 1838, an act was passed providing for the inspection of steamboats. The Service was reorganized by act approved Aug. 30, 1852. By the provisions of this act, inspectors were appointed and work carried on under the direction of the Treasury Department. The Service was again reorganized by act of Feb. 28, 1871, which act has been merged in Title 52 of Revised statutes, and is substantially the law now in force relating to steamboats. Transferred to Commerce and Labor Department July 1, 1903.
For further history of the Service, see Organization and law of Department of Commerce and Labor, C1.2:Or3.
See, for later publications, C15.]

T39. ARCHITECT, SUPERVISING

[Until 1853, the erection of custom-houses and other public buildings was under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury who employed architects and superintendents as necessary. In 1853, with a view to more efficient management, a practical engineer from the War Department was detailed to take charge of the work subject to the Secretary of the Treasury, general regulations were adopted, and a department of construction organized.

1854–61, the engineer in charge of the office of construction of buildings made annually a report which was included in annual reports of Treasury Department (Finance reports, T1.1:). In 1861, the office was called Construction Bureau.

No report was made for 1862, but the report for that year is included in the report for 1863 which was signed by the supervising architect and appeared in annual report of Treasury Department (Finance report, T1.1:863).

By act approved Mar. 14, 1864 (Stat. L. v. 13, p. 27), the appointment of a superintending architect in the construction branch of the Treasury Department was authorized, "the same to be employed and continued only during the rebellion and for one year after its close."

The act of Mar. 2, 1865 (Stat. L. v. 13, p. 449), made appropriation for a supervising architect for fiscal years 1866–72. After this period the office was recognized as permanent and regular appropriations made. See, for History, organization, and functions of Office of Supervising Architect, T39.2:H62.]

T39.6: Specifications for public buildings

[Contracts for the construction of public buildings under control of Treasury Department have been let according to specifications and plans made in the office of the Supervising Architect since about 1853 when the office was organized as Office of Construction of Buildings. Various methods of advertising for proposals have been used. The Public Documents Library has certain specifications in pamphlet form dating from 1852-56 which are probably the earliest printed. These correlate with a numbered series of large drawings issued with title, Plans of public buildings. The Public Documents Library has but 9 of these books of drawings, ranging in number from 19 to 32 and bearing date either 1855 or 1856. It is believed that at least 35 were issued. The pamphlet specifications are classed as indicated under T39.6[1]:, while the numbered plans are classed under T39.6[2]: See, for later and differently issued specifications, proposals, etc., for construction of public buildings, T39.7: See also T39.9:]

Specifications for public buildings

[Such libraries as have the pamphlet specifications dating from 1852–56, as described above in note under T39.6:, will naturally arrange the pamphlets by assigning book numbers from the Cutter table, using name of place.

Two indexes were issued which assign numbers to the pamphlets, the numbers corresponding usually to the plans accompanying (T39.6[2]:). Complete information as to the extent of the series is not obtainable. The Public Documents Library has only certain separate pamphlets bound together with the 2 indexes; but it is highly probable that this is a special binding of which there was no bona fide edition. Hence the treatment here indicated is that for the separate prints. Not listed here.]

[Publications classed here relate to public buildings in specific cities and towns. Such titles as the following are included: Invitation for proposals; Supplementary specification; Memorandum specification; Addendum to specification. When specification is for some particular improvement at buildings in several different places, book number is assigned by Cutter table, using name of place first mentioned in title, and references should be made from the other cities.

Each publication has with it a blank form for proposal. Drawings to accompany specifications are frequently mentioned, but presumably they are to be had only upon application to the Supervising Architect.

The Public Documents Library has no publications of this class of earlier date than 1908. It is not known in what form specifications, etc., were issued for many years preceding that date. See, for specifications issued during early years of Office of Supervising Architect, T39.6: See also T39.9:]

T41. NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

[May 29, 1830, the Senate adopted a motion directing "the Secretary of the Treasury to cause a comparison to be made of the standards of weight and measure used at the principal custom-houses of the United States, and to report to the Senate at the next session of Congress." Mar. 3, 1831, the Secretary of the Treasury reported that the work of comparing the standards of weight and measure was "commenced under the immediate superintendence of Mr. [Ferdinand Rudolph] Hassler," giving an account of what had been done. Prof. Hassler, speaking of this work, says that he was engaged in the Treasury Department "in comparing the weights and measures used at the custom-houses of the United States, and ascertaining by experiment the proper hydrometer proofs of liquor." Such large discrepancies were found in the standards of weight and measure that the Secretary of the Treasury directed that standards be adopted by the Treasury Department, and that copies be made and distributed to the various custom-houses. Congress, by joint resolution approved June 14, 1836, ordered that the Treasury Department should furnish each State with copies of these standards, and by act approved July 7, 1838, it was provided that the Secretary of the Treasury cause to be made under the superintendence of Mr. Hassler one standard balance for each State. By joint resolution approved July 27, 1865, a set of standard weights and measures of the metric system was ordered to be delivered to the governor of each State. By joint resolution approved Mar. 3, 1881, it was provided that a complete set of all the weights and measures adopted as standards should be delivered by the Secretary of the Treasury to the governor of each State for the use of agricultural colleges in the States, respectively, which have received a grant of land from the United States, and one set of the same to the Smithsonian Institution. In act approved Mar. 3, 1873, an appropriation was made for "standard weights and measures." In act approved June 20, 1878, "Standard Weights and Measures" appears in small capitals at the head of the paragraph making appropriations therefor, and this form was used until act approved Aug. 5, 1882, when the heading was "Office of Construction of Standard Weights and Measures." In 1891, it became the Office of Standard Weights and Measures, and so continued until July 1, 1901, when it became the National Bureau of Standards.

Prior to July 1, 1901, the office was under the Coast and Geodetic Survey; see T11. Transferred to Commerce and Labor Department July 1, 1903, under name of Standards Bureau: see C13.

See, for history of this bureau, report of superintendent of Coast and Geodetic Survey, 1890, p. 735 (T11.1: 890), and Organization and law of Department of Commerce and Labor, p. 413 (C1.2:Or3).]

T41. NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS—Cont'd

(date)

[There seems to be no report on the construction of standards of weights and measures after Prof. Hassler's appointment as superintendent of the Coast Survey, Aug. 9, 1832, except by correspondence, until 1856. In 1834 and 1835 the Coast Survey was under the Navy Department and the construction of standards of weights and measures under the Treasury Department, so it was not possible that there should be any reports of the latter in the reports of the Coast Survey. When the Coast Survey was again placed under the Treasury Department, in 1836, the annual reports of the Coast Survey usually included the operations of the construction of the standards of weights and measures. When the office was separated from the Coast and Geodetic Survey, in 1901, and it became the National Bureau of Standards, it began issuing annual reports.]

T42. MISCELLANEOUS DIVISION

[Established as one of 7 divisions authorized by act approved Mar. 3, 1875 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 396), which became effective July 1, 1875. First known as Division of Mercantile Marine and Internal Revenue. In 1882, known as Division of Captured Property, Claims, and Lands. In 1888, the name was changed to Miscellaneous Division. After 1905, no appropriation was made for the division and it ceased to exist June 30, 1906, the work being transferred to other offices in the Treasury Department by an order signed by the acting Secretary and dated July 27, 1906.]

T44. SOLICITOR OF TREASURY

[By act of May 15, 1820, an officer of the Treasury was designated to direct all proceedings in law or equity for the recovery of money, land, etc., in the name of the United States. These duties were transferred to the Office of Solicitor of Treasury, which was created by act of May 29, 1830. The Office of Solicitor of Treasury was itself transferred, July 1, 1870, to the Justice Department by act of June 22, 1870. See, for later publications, J5.]

T45. GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE †

W. WAR DEPARTMENT

CF 353.6 U58 W25m minor parts

[Created by act approved Aug. 7, 1789, being the second of the Executive Departments to be established. The supervision of naval affairs which was originally assigned to this Department was transferred to the Navy Department at its establishment in 1798; jurisdiction in the matters of public lands, military pensions, and Indian affairs was transferred to the Department of the Interior when that Department was created in 1849.

See, for Establishment of War Department, its interior organization and administration, by William A. De Caindry, p. 31–106 of Reports on International Exhibition of 1876, v. 10 (S6.13:R29[10]), which was also issued separately and classed under S6.13[a]:W19.]

Classification no.
W1.1: (date)	Annual reports

[Various reports made by the Secretary of War, 1789–1837, appear in the volumes of American state papers, military affairs, v. 1–5; see serial nos. 016–022.

Beginning 1823, regular annual reports appear in the Congressional set, as indicated below. Prior to 1866, there was no edition without Congressional document number. For 1866–76, the copies in the Public Documents Library indicate that for certain years there were true Department editions, whereas for other years the reports were printed only as Congressional documents. Since 1876, there have been both Congressional and Department editions.]

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. Since that time the new General Supply Committee created by law has been organized under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, necessitating new classes, the heading and series title for which are as follows:

T45. General Supply Committee

[Reorganized under sec. 4 of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act approved June 17, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 531). The effect of this section was to abolish the former General Supply Committee as organized under Executive order 1071, May 31, 1909; see, for publications of that committee, entries and footnote for GS.

The new committee is composed of one representative from each of the 9 Executive Departments. The Government Printing Office, Interstate Commerce Commission, Smithsonian Institution, and the Superintendent of State, War, and Navy building are no longer represented on the committee and the provisions of sec. 4 of the act of June 17, 1910, are not applicable to the government of the District of Columbia.

The committee is specifically required by the law to make an annual schedule of miscellaneous supplies and to standardize such supplies, eliminating all unnecessary grades and varieties.

The Secretary of the Treasury under the law signs contracts for supplies (exigencies excepted) for all the Executive Departments and independent bureaus, the General Supply Committee acting as his aids. The General Supply Committee is not, strictly speaking, a Treasury Department body. The law authorizes for the committee a superintendent of supplies and 2 other employees, who are carried on the pay rolls of the Treasury Department. But the committee is not under the control of the Treasury Department. While the law does not specifically state that the superintendent of supplies shall be a member of the General Supply Committee, the present incumbent of that office is the representative of the Treasury Department and so becomes a member of the committee.]

Ar5[2] Army. Compilation of official documents illustrative of organization of Army of United States, 1789–1876, for use of board for re-organization of Army. Sept. 1, 1876. f°

[The word "Appendix" appears at the top of the title-page. It is probable that this compilation was intended to form an appendix to the expected report of the Commission for Reform and Reorganization of Army, which was organized under act approved July 24, 1876, and directed by said act to report by Dec. 1, 1876. The term of service of the commission expired before it was possible for them to reach satisfactory conclusions, and the only report submitted was a very brief statement of their proceedings transmitted to Congress, Jan. 29, 1877, and printed as 44th Congress, 2d session, Senate executive document 26, serial no. 1719. The commission had collected much valuable material, which was filed in the War Department.

The question of reorganization was again taken up by Congress in 1878 and referred to the Joint Committee on Reorganization of Army appointed under act approved June 18, 1878. The report of this committee was printed as 45th Congress, 3d session, Senate report 555, pt. 2, serial no. 1837, and included among its accompanying papers the documents which appear in the compilation entered under W1.2:Ar5[2], and others which had been prepared for the 1876 Commission for Reform and Reorganization.

Certain historical sketches prepared for the commission are entered under the compiling offices; see W5.2:H62[1-3], W7.2:H62, W10.2:H62[1,2], and W34.2:H62.

There were also certain letters addressed to the commission which, although ordered printed by the commission, Nov. 13, 1876, are classed as publications of the offices from which the letters emanated; see, for example, W5.2:Ar5[3], W18.2:Ar5, W44.2:Ar5[5].]

Cuba, Provisional governor of.

[On Sept. 14, 1906, the Secretary of War and the assistant Secretary of State were directed by the President to proceed to Cuba to assist in bringing about a peaceful settlement of the controversies which had given rise to an insurrection in Cuba. They arrived in Havana, Sept. 19, 1906, and on Sept. 29 a provisional government was established under the authority of the United States, the first provisional governor being William H. Taft, Secretary of War, who was succeeded by Charles E. Magoon on Oct. 13, 1906, the date when the Secretary of War and the assistant Secretary of State left Havana.

The report of the Secretary of War and the assistant Secretary of State, dated Dec. 11, 1906, appeared in annual reports of War Department, 1906, v. 1 (W1.1:906[1]), and was also issued separately by Insular Affairs Bureau (W6.2:C89[2]).

W2. STAFF CORPS, GENERAL

From 1812 to the period of the Civil War the commanding officer was a major-general. As a result of the Civil War the grades of lieutenant-general and general were revived for Generals Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan, lapsing with the death of General Sheridan in 1888. From 1888 to 1899, the rank of the commanding officer was again that of major-general until the grade of lieutenant-general was revived in 1900.

By act approved Feb. 14, 1903, effective Aug. 15, 1903 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 831), a General Staff Corps was established, with a chief of staff, who, "under the direction of the President or of the Secretary of War * * * shall have supervision of all troops of the line and of the Adjutant-General's, Inspector-General's, Judge-Advocate's, Quartermaster's, Subsistence, Medical, Pay, and Ordnance departments, the Corps of Engineers, and the Signal Corps, and shall perform such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be assigned to him by the President."]

W3. ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT

[During the Revolution there was an adjutant-general of the Army, but after the disbandment of the Army in 1783 there was no regular adjutant-general until the act of Mar. 3, 1791. The act of Mar. 5, 1792, provided for an adjutant who should do duty as inspector. The Adjutant-General's Department was established by act of Mar. 3, 1813.

By authority of act approved Apr. 23, 1904 (Stat. L. v. 33, pt. 1, p. 262), the Secretary of War issued an order, May 11, 1904 (W1.14:904 F), by which the officers of the Adjutant-General's Department (excepting the adjutant-general) and the officers of the Record and Pension Office were consolidated into a department of the Army to be known as the Military Secretary's Department, while the Adjutant-General's Office and the Record and Pension Office (W40.) were consolidated into a bureau to be known as the Military Secretary's Office. By act approved Mar. 2, 1907 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 1158), the Adjutant-General's Department was reestablished.]

W3.11: Army register various sizes

[A compilation popularly known as Heitman's register, covering the period from 1789 to 1903, was issued under act approved Mar. 2, 1903. In the Public Documents Library the 2 volumes of this compilation are arranged so as to precede the regular set of Army registers.]

789–903[1] Historical register and dictionary of United States Army from its organization, Sept. 29, 1789, to Mar. 2, 1903; by Francis B. Heitman. 1903. v. 1, large 8° [4535–446]

789–903[2] Same. v. 2, large 8° [4536–446]

(date) [The regular set of Army registers, as listed below, contains names of officers of Army, with record of service, rank, etc. The earliest registers appeared with slight variations in title, but since 1818 the title has read Official army register. 1813–38, Army registers for almost all years are found in American state papers, class 5, Military affairs, v. 1–7 (016–022). From 1819, for a number of years, there was usually but one issue a year, that being with a few exceptions in January. To supply the need for revised information between the annual issues, private prints, usually somewhat differently arranged, were issued for several years between 1835 and 1844, several by Benjamin Homans being entered in the list below. From 1846 to 1869 there were usually two official editions a year. Since 1870, there has been but one issue a year, but from 1891 this has been supplemented by the Army list and directory (W3.10:).

Prior to 1896, the annual issues of the Army register did not appear in the Congressional set. A report dated Nov. 18, 1818, showing number and grade of officers of Army, where stationed, number on duty, and those on furlough, was printed as 15th Congress, 2d session, House document 3, serial no. 17. From 1848 to 1860, transcripts of the official list, showing pay and allowances for each officer, were prepared by fiscal years, usually from the register issued the preceding January, with necessary corrections for deaths, resignations, etc. These appear in the Congressional set only, as follows:

1849	[577–54]	1856	[897–24]
1850	[679–48]	1857	[955–66]
1851	[679–50]	1858	[1006–58]
1852	[679–58]	1859	[1048–35]
1853	[721–59]	1860	[1100–54]

Up to 1881 the size of the Army register varied, some of the earliest being 16° and later ones 12°, but since 1882 it has been uniformly 8°.]

[The Public Documents Library has no Station lists earlier than Oct. 4, 1895, but it is known that from Mar. 4, 1893, and probably prior to that, the lists were issued monthly or whenever there were changes enough to call for their publication. From Sept. 21, 1899, to May 4, 1905, Stations of Army was considered a weekly publication; since May, 1905, it has been a monthly.]

W6. INSULAR AFFAIRS BUREAU

[Organized under order of acting Secretary of War, Dec. 13, 1898, and called Division of Customs and Insular Affairs. Changed by order of Secretary of War to Division of Insular Affairs, Dec. 10, 1900. By act of July 1, 1902 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 712), the name was again changed to Bureau of Insular Affairs. By this same act, the business assigned to the bureau was designated as all matters pertaining to civil government in island possessions of United States subject to jurisdiction of War Department.

Under act approved Apr. 12, 1900, jurisdiction of this division over civil affairs in Porto Rico ceased Apr. 30, 1900. Beginning with the fiscal year 1909, the governor of Porto Rico reports to the War Department, in accordance with act of July 15, 1909, promulgated by Executive order of same date, the text of which appears under W75. This act provided that the business of the War Department pertaining to civil government in Porto Rico be assigned to Insular Affairs Bureau. Publications of the government of Porto Rico, issued by Insular Affairs Bureau under this act, are entered under W75. See, for historical information, note under W75.]

W7. ENGINEER DEPARTMENT

[In the beginning of the Revolutionary War, though there were chief engineers and assistant engineers attached to the several armies of the United States, there was no organization of engineer corps such as was created later. Mar. 11, 1779, a Corps of Engineers was established which, however, was disbanded in Nov. 1783. By act of May 9, 1794, an additional military force was provided for, and this force was to be incorporated with the Corps of Artillery then in the service, the consolidated forces to be denominated "Corps of Artillerists and Engineers." The acts of Mar. 3, 1795, and of May 30, 1796, provided for the completion of this organization, both of them referring to the original act as that of "May 8, 1794."

The act of Mar. 16, 1802, provided for the organization of a Corps of Engineers, the whole corps at no time to exceed 20 officers and cadets, said corps to be stationed at West Point, N. Y., and to constitute a Military Academy; see W12. For some time afterwards, the Corps of Engineers and Military Academy were identical, the superintendent of the Military Academy being appointed from the Corps of Engineers until the passage of the act of July 13, 1866, providing for the appointment of the superintendent of the Military Academy from any arm of the service.

During the Revolutionary War, 2 officers were styled "Geographers to the United States of America," who were the forerunners of the topographical engineers, 8 of whom were provided for by act approved Mar. 3, 1813. The Corps of Topographical Engineers was reorganized by act of Apr. 24, 1816, and on July 2, 1818, placed under the Engineer Department, remaining there until June 21, 1831, when it became a separate bureau of the War Department. By act of Mar. 3, 1863, it was again consolidated with the Corps of Engineers, or "Engineer Department," as it has usually been called since 1864. The office in the War Department is called "Office of Chief of Engineers."

Publications of certain of the engineering bureaus and commissions are classed elsewhere under War Department, as Mississippi River Commission (W31.), Missouri River Commission (W32.), Northern and Northwestern Lakes Survey (W33.), etc.]

W7.1 [1]: Annual reports

["Department edition" as used below designates those prints in which "Annual reports of War Department" appears in the most prominent position on the title-page, with "chief of engineers" in a subordinate position; all such are classed under W1.1: "Bureau edition" is used for those prints in which "chief of engineers" occupies the most prominent place on the title-page, e. g., "Annual report of chief of engineers to Secretary of War"; these are classed under W7.1 [1]: or W7.1 [1a]: as indicated below.

Class here (W7.1 [1a]: date) all prints of the report without appendixes up to and including that for 1896. During those years the full report, with appendixes, appeared in both Department edition (W1.1:) and in bureau edition (W7.1 [1]:)

For 1897–1905, the full report appeared in Department edition (W1.1:), but the only bureau edition is the one without appendixes, issued in paper. For 1897–1905, therefore, the report without appendixes must be classed under W7.1 [1]:

Class here (W7.1 [1a]:date) the prints of the report without appendixes for 1906–09 which appear with bureau title-page and paper covers. The Department edition for these years is also without appendixes and is like the paper separate except that it has Department title-page and red cloth binding uniform with the Department set (W1.1:). The full report appears in bureau edition; see W7.1 [1]:]

(CT)

[Although for 1897–1905, the full report with appendixes appears only in War Department edition (W1.1:), the miscellaneous separates for these years as well as for earlier and later years (with the exception of certain classes as noted below) are to be classed here under W7.1 [1a]: (CT).

Annual reports issued as appendixes to Engineer Department reports, but classed elsewhere, are as follows:

California Débris Commission. See W50.
Laws affecting Corps of Engineers. See W7.6 [1]:
Mississippi River Commission. See W31.
Missouri River Commission. See W32.
Public Buildings and Grounds Office. See W38.

Annual reports of the Northern and Northwestern Lakes Survey are classed here because sometimes printed with other appendixes, but other publications of that office are classed under W33.]

W8. GEOGRAPHICAL SURVEYS WEST OF 100th MERIDIAN (Wheeler)

[This work was the outgrowth of the topographical reconnaissance made by George M. Wheeler in 1869. Wheeler's plans for geographical surveys west of the 100th meridian, being approved by the Secretary of War, were adopted by Congress and appropriations were made for the work from 1872 to 1879, when the Geological Survey (I 19.) was established, taking up the field work of this and other surveys. Wheeler's office was continued until Feb. 29, 1884, its work being the preparation and publication of the reports. See, for history and publications of Geographical Surveys West of 100th Meridian, Final report, v. 1 (W8.5:1), and for catalogue and index of publications, Geological Survey Bulletin 222 (I 19.3:222). See, for Report upon 3d International Geographical Congress and Exhibition at Venice, Italy, 1881, by Wheeler, W7.5:W56.]

W9. INSPECTOR-GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT

During Revolutionary times and for a long period thereafter, the appointment of inspectors-general of the Army was authorized by Congress. Baron Steuben was one of the first appointed, being made inspector-general in May, 1778.

The Inspector-General's Department was reorganized and made a regular staff department by act approved June 23, 1874 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 244).

The work was carried on in conjunction with that of the Adjutant-General's Department, most of the annual reports of the inspector-general for the Secretary of War being addressed to the adjutant-general, until 1889; see W9.1[1]:]

Inspection of several branches of National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers

[In compliance with the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1893, "that the Secretary of War shall hereafter exercise the same supervision over all receipts and disbursements on account of the volunteer soldiers' homes as he is required by law to apply to the accounts of disbursing officers of the Army," an inspection of 4 branch homes was made Oct.–Nov. 1893, and a brief report submitted to the inspector-general; see W9.1[1]:894, p. 14.

The act of Aug. 18, 1894 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 412) called for a thorough annual inspection of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and a report to Congress thereon by an officer of the Inspector-General's Department.

These reports are not included in the reports of the inspector-general, though addressed to him, but, 1897–1905, are usually included in annual reports of War Department (W1.1:). 1906–09, issued in separate pamphlets only.

W12. MILITARY ACADEMY

[By act approved Mar. 16, 1802 (Stat. L. v. 2, p. 137), the President was authorized to organize a corps of engineers to be stationed at West Point, N. Y., this corps to constitute a Military Academy. The principal engineer, and in his absence, the next in rank, was to be superintendent under the direction of the President of the United States. The academy was formally opened July 4, 1802. The institution was enlarged by act of Apr. 29, 1812 (Stat. L. v. 2, p. 720).

The Military Academy remained under the superintendence of an engineer officer reporting directly to the chief engineer (who was ex officio the inspector of the academy) until July 13, 1866, when by act of that date (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 92) Congress authorized the appointment of a superintendent and other officers of the academy from any branch of the military service, and placed the academy under charge of the Secretary of War.

The Military Academy and the post of West Point were made a separate military department by General orders 15, Mar. 2, 1877, the commander to report directly to the general-in-chief of the Army, and to have supervision of the academy. As department commander he reported directly to the adjutant-general.

W12. MILITARY ACADEMY—Continued

The military Department of West Point was discontinued by General orders 77, 1882, effective Sept. 1, 1882, and the superintendent was given immediate government and military command of the academy, and was made commandant of the military post of West Point.
See, for history of West Point, and for bibliography concerning Military Academy and its graduates, the memorial volumes entitled Centennial of Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., 1802–1902 (W12.2: C33[1,2]). See, for history of the academic departments, 1802–96, annual report of superintendent of Military Academy, 1896 (W12.1[2]:896). See, for historical and other information to Mar. 1, 1837, House report 303, 24th Congress, 2d session, serial no. 306; this report also appears in American state papers, Military affairs, v. 7, p. 1–108, serial no. 022.]

["Provision was made for a board of visitors to the academy in the regulations of 1816, but regular attendance of these visitors was not established until the advent of Major Thayer, 1817. The army regulations of 1821 prescribed that the June examinations should be held in the 'presence of the board of visitors.' The first appropriation for defraying the expenses of the board of visitors was made in Mar. 1828. From 1815 to the present time [1902] boards of visitors have annually visited the academy and reported their observations." This paragraph is quoted from v. 1, p. 235 of Centennial of Military Academy (W12.2:C33[1]).
The board of visitors was, however, abolished, Mar. 1, 1843–Aug. 8, 1846, during which time the Secretary of War appointed certain army officers to visit, to inspect, and to report on the academy. These reports are not found in any printed record, perhaps being submitted and preserved in manuscript only.
For 1860, besides the report of board of visitors, there was also a Report of Commission to Examine Military Academy (Y3.M59:R29).
1825–1907 (except 1843–46, 1862, 1873, 1874, and 1881), in annual reports of War Department (W1.1:). Report for 1833 appears also in Register of officers and cadets (W12.5:833).]

[The 1907 report is the last regular report of the board of visitors appointed under sec. 1327–29, Revised statutes, which provided that the board of visitors should consist of 7 members appointed by the President, 2 Senators appointed by the Vice-President, and 3 Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House. The board was required by law to report to the Secretary of War.
The Military Academy appropriation act for the fiscal year 1909, approved May 28, 1908 (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 436) contained a proviso which substituted a new board of visitors, to be composed of 5 members of the Committee on Military Affairs of the Senate and 7 members of the Committee on Military Affairs of the House, to be appointed by the respective chairmen thereof.
Although the 1907 report is the last regular report of the old board appointed under sec. 1327–29, Revised statutes, the members who had assembled at West Point or were en route, made an unofficial inspection, June 1, 1908, and submitted two reports, that of the presidential appointees, addressed to the President, being found on p. 68–73 of the report of the superintendent of the Military Academy, 1908 (W12.1[2]:908), and that of the members of the House of Representatives, dated Dec. 1908, and submitted to the House, Jan. 4, 1909, being printed only as 60th Congress, 2d session, House document 1262, serial no. 5557.

W17. EAST, DEPARTMENT OF THE

[Established by General orders 25, 1853; discontinued by General orders 7, 1861; reestablished by General orders 2, 1863; made part of the Division of the Atlantic (W64.) by General orders 118, 1865; abolished by General orders 106, 1873, the States included remaining a part of the Division of the Atlantic. The Department of the East was again reestablished by General orders 101, 1877, as part of the Division of the Atlantic, and remained such until by General orders 57, 1891, that division was discontinued. The Department of the East was again placed under the Division of the Atlantic by General orders 65, 1903, War Department, remaining there until that division was abolished June 30, 1907.
The number of States included in this department has greatly varied, sometimes embracing all east of the Mississippi, and sometimes comprising only New England, New York, and New Jersey. By General orders 133, Nov. 9, 1900, the District of Porto Rico was added. On Dec. 31, 1909, the Department of the East embraced the New England States, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, West Virginia, Virginia, and Porto Rico with the islands and keys adjacent thereto.

[The Department of the Gulf was organized by General orders 20, Feb. 23, 1862, and discontinued June 27, 1865, the Division of the Gulf being created at the same time, comprising the departments of Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, and Florida. This Division was discontinued in 1867. The Department of the Gulf was reorganized in 1872, being a department in the Division of the South (W66.). In 1875, it was transferred to the Division of the Missouri (W20.), and the next year to the Division of the Atlantic (W64.), and on June 21, 1878, by General orders 38, was discontinued, its territory being added to the Department of the South (W66.). Mar. 11, 1898, it was reorganized again, and discontinued Aug. 21, 1899. It was reorganized again Dec. 22, 1903, and the next year put under the Atlantic Division, remaining there until that division was again abolished, June 30, 1907. The department, however, continued in existence.
During most of its existence, the Department of the Gulf has embraced the Gulf States, and some of the bordering States. On Dec. 31, 1909, it embraced North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

W21. PHILIPPINES DIVISION

[By General orders 46, May 16, 1898, Gen. Wesley Merritt was given command of the Department of the Pacific with instructions of May 28, 1898, from the President relative to the military occupation of Manila, made possible by the naval battle of May 1. By General orders 73, June 21, 1898, his forces for the Philippine Expedition were constituted the 8th army corps. On Aug. 13, 1898, Manila was taken and the day following, Gen. Merritt proclaimed military occupancy of the islands, assuming the duties of military governor, Aug. 23, and transferring to Gen. Otis the command of the 8th army corps. Aug. 29, 1898, Gen. Otis became military governor of the Philippines and commander of the Department of the Pacific.
By General orders 38, dated Mar. 29, 1900, which however did not go into effect until Apr. 7, the Department of the Pacific was discontinued, and in its place the Division of the Philippines was established, having under it the Departments of Northern and Southern Luzon, of Mindanao and Jolo, and of the Visayas. These 4 departments were all discontinued Nov. 30, 1901, by General orders 148, being supplanted by the Departments of North Philippines and of South Philippines, which were again changed Sept. 30, 1902, by General orders 98, to the present arrangement, the Departments of Luzon (W56.), of Mindanao (W72.), and of the Visayas.
The government of the Philippines was wholly military until Sept. 1, 1900, and partially so until July 4, 1902, when the office of military governor was abolished, the president of the Philippine Commission being declared chief executive of the Philippine Islands.
Publications of the Department of the Pacific (for the Philippines) and of the Philippines Division are classed here.

W24. TEXAS, DEPARTMENT OF

[The Department of Texas was organized in 1854, by General orders 25, 1853, to embrace that part of Texas below 33° N. latitude; in 1857 it embraced the whole of the State. On Feb. 18, 1861, Gen. D. E. Twiggs then in command, surrendered to the Texan authorities, and the Department was evacuated by the Federal troops. On June 27, 1865, by General orders 118, the Department was reestablished, and on Aug. 6, 1866, it was merged into the Department of the Gulf (W18.). On Mar. 2, 1867, Texas and Louisiana became the 5th Military District. The new Department of Texas was created Mar. 31, 1870, by General orders 35, as a part of the Division of the South (W66.). The Department was abolished Mar. 11, 1898, by General orders 7, and again merged into the Department of the Gulf; it was reestablished May 26, 1899, by General orders 102; by General orders 65, 1903, War Department, it was attached to the Southwestern Division (W69.), remaining a part thereof until the abolishing of that Division, June 30, 1907. By General orders 65, 1903, War Department, the Department of Texas embraced Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Indian Territory. Missouri was added for a brief time. Changes have taken place since, leaving the Department to consist of Texas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma.

W25. CUBA, DIVISION OF, and CUBA, DEPARTMENT OF

[By General orders 184, Dec. 13, 1898, the Division of Cuba was created, the commanding general being authorized to act as military governor of the island, and under him a military governor was appointed for the city of Havana (W25.2:H29).
By General orders 191 and 193, Dec. 30, 31, 1898, and General orders 12, Jan. 17, 1899, 7 departments, namely, Havana, Province of Havana, Pinar del Rio, Matanzas, Santa Clara, Puerto Principe, and Santiago, were placed under the Division of Cuba.
The 5 departments first mentioned, after being variously grouped, were all united by General orders 98, July 23, 1900, to form the Department of Western Cuba (see note under W60.). The 2 remaining departments became at the same time the Department of Eastern Cuba.
By General orders 131, taking effect Nov. 15, 1900, the Departments of Eastern and Western Cuba, and the Division of Cuba, were all abolished, the Department of Cuba being established in their stead for the whole island, lasting until May 20, 1902, when Cuba became independent.
The publications of both the Division of Cuba, and the Department of Cuba are classed here.

(date) [Beginning Jan. 5, 1899, all the laws and regulations affecting the government of the people of Cuba, were promulgated from the headquarters of the Division (later Department) of Cuba by Civil orders issued in English and Spanish. The Civil orders of the 1st series were issued by Brooke, military governor, and ended with no. 248, Dec. 20, 1899. Those of the 2d series were issued by Wood, military governor, and began with no. 1, Jan. 1, 1900, ending with no. 526. Those of the 3d and 4th series were also issued under Wood, numbering 1–261 for the year 1901, and 1–180 for the year 1902, ending with the transfer of the island to the Cuban Republic, at midday May 20, 1902.

The text of most of the Civil orders issued by Gen. Brooke is found in his Civil report (W25.8:899), while those of his successor, Gen. Wood, form a volume in each set of his reports (W25.8:900[2], 901[2], 901[17], 902[2]). Separate issues are classed here.]

W27. MILITARY PRISON, FORT LEAVENWORTH

[By act approved Mar. 3, 1873 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 582), provision was made for the establishment of a Military Prison at Rock Island, Ill., to be governed by a board under the Secretary of War. By the amendment of May 21, 1874 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 48) the location of the proposed prison was changed to Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Abolished July 1, 1895, under act approved Mar. 3, 1895 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 957). The property was used by the Penitentiary under the Justice Department (J6.) until Feb. 1, 1906, when the property was restored to the War Department. Congress authorized the reconstruction and reestablishment of the Military Prison at Fort Leavenworth.

The sundry civil act of Mar. 4, 1909 (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 1004) carried with the appropriation for the continuance of the reconstruction of the prison the proviso that "hereafter the government and control of the United States Military Prison shall, under the Secretary of War, be vested in the Board of Commissioners of the United States Soldiers' Home * * *."

W28. ARMY SERVICE SCHOOLS

[The military schools now called Army Service Schools are situated at Fort Leavenworth, Kans. The first such school there was founded by General orders 42, 1881, and opened by General orders 8, 1882, under the name of School of Application for Cavalry and Infantry, the name being changed by General orders 39, 1886, to United States Infantry and Cavalry School. During the war with Spain, the work of the school was discontinued, but preparations were going on to reopen it on a larger scale and in coordination with other schools to be established at Fort Leavenworth. General orders 155, 1901, called it General Service and Staff College, and on further reorganization by General orders 115, 1904, it was divided into two schools called Infantry and Cavalry School and Staff College, provisions being also made for a Signal School. These three, retaining their own names, were, together, called the Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth. By General orders 211, 1907, the artillery was represented in the Infantry and Cavalry School, and thereupon the name of that school was again changed, being since known as the Army School of the Line. By this same order the other schools were designated as Army Signal School and Army Staff College. As the commandant of the Army School of the Line is ex officio commandant of the other Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth, and all are coordinated, one report being required for all, the publications of all are classed here.†

† By General orders 69, Apr. 20, 1910, there is to be added to the Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth an Army Field Engineer School, while the annual report for 1910 promises the establishment of an Army Field Service School for Medical Officers.

W29.5: Journal of United States Artillery (bimonthly)

(v. nos.) [The status of this magazine, which was founded in Jan. 1892, and printed, first quarterly and later bimonthly, at the Artillery School Press (now, Dec. 1909, the Coast Artillery School Press) at Fort Monroe, Va., has been clearly defined as a private publication and not a public document. The magazine is printed at a Government press and published under supervision of a Government board, these facts appearing in plain print on its title-page, and this supervision having been directed by the War Department in General order 181, issued Oct. 20, 1906.

The chief of coast artillery in a typewritten statement of Dec. 1, 1909, concerning the establishment, progress, and present status of the Journal, shows the history of the publication and states his reasons for the following conclusion "Hence, it can not be said with accuracy, that the Journal is printed at Government cost and directly by authority of a Government official or board; at the same time it is under the supervision of Government officials. This is believed to be necessary and wise, leading to its increased efficiency as a medium of technical information."

The Journal is therefore not listed here, because of the fact that it is a private publication.]

[This school was authorized under act of Jan. 29, 1887 (Stat. L. v. 24, p. 372), although the order for its organization under the name of Cavalry and Light Artillery School was not issued until Mar. 14, 1892 (General orders 17), and it was not fairly organized and established until Jan. 1, 1893. The name was changed to Cavalry and Field Artillery School by General orders 60, Apr. 30, 1901, and in General orders 40, Apr. 30, 1902, it was called School of Application for Cavalry and Field Artillery. This form of name was first used by Congress in the act of Mar. 3, 1903 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 928), and it was not used in the annual reports until 1903.
By General orders 191, Sept. 13, 1907, the name was again changed to Mounted Service School, and it was reorganized to include a training school for officers and noncommissioned officers, for farriers and horseshoers, and for bakers and cooks.
The school is located at Fort Riley, Kans.]

W31. MISSISSIPPI RIVER COMMISSION

[The Mississippi River Commission was created by act approved June 28, 1879 (Stat. L. v. 21, p. 37), having for its ultimate object the improvement of the Mississippi River for purposes of navigation and for the prevention of floods. The commission is composed of 3 members from the Engineer Corps of the Army, one from the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and 3 from civil life, the President of the United States appointing the president of the commission from among the 3 Army engineers. The reports are made to the Secretary of War.]

W31.1: Annual reports

(date) [The preliminary reports and the first full report for 1880, with appendices, are printed together as Appendix SS of Engineer Department reports (W7.1:881[3]), and issued separately only as Congressional documents as follows:

W33. NORTHERN AND NORTHWESTERN LAKES SURVEY

[As early as 1816, local surveys of the Great Lakes were made by engineer officers. On Mar. 3, 1841 (Stat. L. v. 5, p. 431), the first regular appropriation was made for the Survey of the Northern and Northwestern Lakes, and systematic work was carried on from that date until the completion of the survey in 1882. Between 1882 and 1889, operations were limited to the publication and issue of charts. Mar. 2, 1889 (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 970), an appropriation was made for "surveys, additions to, and correcting engraved plates," and since then the work of the survey has been provided for each year. The work was under the Corps of Topographical Engineers until Mar. 3, 1863, when that body was consolidated with the Corps of Engineers. See, for information regarding the survey, 1841–82, Comstock's final report which is issued as Professional papers, Corps of Engineers, 24 (W7.10:24).]

W33.6[2]: (nos.) Charts, St. Marys River (numbered)

W33.7[1]: (date) General chart of northern and northwestern lakes [and rivers] (unnumbered)

W33.7[2]: (letters) or (letters and nos.) Charts of Great Lakes (general charts of each lake and of certain large portions thereof; unnumbered with exception of Lake Superior)

[Class here the general charts in which each lake appears as a whole on one sheet, using as book number, written with a capital, the initial letter of the lake; i. e., E=Lake Erie, H=Lake Huron, M=Lake Michigan, O=Lake Ontario, S=Lake Superior.

Besides these charts covering the whole of each lake separately are classed here charts covering certain large portions of the 5 Great Lakes; for some of these the book numbers have two or more letters, namely, the initial written with a capital, followed by a distinctive letter or letters, written lower case. Book numbers in these instances are:

Mn =North end of Lake Michigan, including Green Bay
Mnb=North end of Lake Michigan, including Beaver Island Group
Mnt=Northeast end of Lake Michigan, including Grand and Little Traverse Bays
Ms =South end of Lake Michigan
S1 =Chart 1 of Lake Superior
S2 =Chart 2 of Lake Superior [Not Coast charts.]
S3 =Chart 3 of Lake Superior

The arrangement for all charts under this class is in 1, not 2, alphabets.

The numbered Coast charts of each lake are classed elsewhere, that is, under W33.7[3]:, and harbor charts and charts of special localities are classed under W33.8:]

W33.7[3]: (letters and Coast chart nos.) Coast charts of Great Lakes (numbered)

[This class includes only those charts which bear the words "Coast charts." To such charts the book numbers are assigned as follows:

E1–E7 =Coast charts 1–7 of Lake Erie
Gr1–Gr2=North end of Green Bay and South end of Green Bay
H1–H8 =Coast charts 1–8 of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay
M1–M9 =Coast charts 1–9 of Lake Michigan
O1–O5 =Coast charts 1–5 of Lake Ontario
S1–S8 =Coast charts 1–8 of Lake Superior.

The Coast chart numbers are arabic numerals on the line. Different editions are distinguished by using a superior number following the book number.]

W33.8: (CT by names of places) Harbor charts and charts of special localities (unnumbered with exception of Apostle Islands)

[This class includes all charts which are not classed under W33.6[1,2]:, nor W33.7[1-3].

To the charts of the Apostle Islands (the only numbered charts under W33.8:, the bulk being unnumbered) book numbers are assigned as follows:

Ap4 =entire group of Apostle Islands
Ap4–1=Chart 1 of Apostle Islands
Ap4–2=Chart 2 of Apostle Islands.

W34. ORDNANCE DEPARTMENT

[An organization equivalent to the Ordnance Department existed from the beginning of the Revolutionary War, but the Ordnance Department, as such, was established by act of May 14, 1812 (Stat. L. v. 2, p. 732) and reorganized by act of Feb. 8, 1815 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 203). Its continuance was not specifically provided for by act of Mar. 3, 1815 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 224), fixing military peace establishment of United States, but the President and acting Secretary of War considered the Ordnance Department to be preserved in that it did not form a constituent part of the Army, and their view was confirmed by act of Apr. 24, 1816 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 299). It was merged in the artillery by act of Mar. 2, 1821 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 615), although its duties remained unaltered, and so continued, until, by act of Apr. 5, 1832 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 504), it was reestablished as an independent bureau under its present designation.]

W34.1[1]: (date) Annual reports

These bureau editions are classed under W34.1[1]: or W34.1[1a]: See also note under W34.1[1a]:]

1822–63 (except 1824, 1854, and 1861, the latter not issued), in Collection of ordnance reports and other important papers relating to Ordnance Department (W34.17:1–4).

1826–1909 (except 1861, none issued, and 1862), in annual reports of War Department (W1.1:), forming a separate volume of those reports 1873, 1875–1909; and for 1872–1909, issued separately also. Up to and including 1896, the Department edition (W1.1:) and the bureau edition (W34.1[1]:) have different title-pages and bindings. For 1897–1902, the Department edition (W1.1:) is bound in black cloth with the proper volume number of the War Department set on the back; the bureau edition (W34.1[1]:) contains same matter and has same title-page but is distinguished by the red binding which is like the earlier Ordnance Department editions and which does not have the War Department volume number on the back. For 1903–07, the bureau edition contains only the report of the chief of ordnance, without the appendixes which accompany it in the Department edition (W1.1:). Reports for 1908 and 1909 have no appendixes in either Department or bureau editions.

W34.1[1a]: Annual reports (separates; report without appendixes, except 1903–09)

[Class here the report without appendixes up to and including 1902. For 1903–09, the only bureau edition is the one without appendixes, which is therefore classed under W34.1[1]:
See also note under W34.1[1]:]

W34.1[1a]: Annual reports (separates; appendixes)

(CT)

[Although for 1903–07, the full report with appendixes appeared only in Department edition (W1.1:), the separately issued appendixes for those years, as well as for the earlier years, are classed here under W34.1[1a]: (CT). Reports for 1908 and 1909 are without appendixes in both Department and bureau editions.]

W34.5: Instructions, Descriptions, Handbooks

[The assigning of book numbers under W34.5 is difficult owing to the fact that under certain subheads, e. g., Rapid-fire guns, there are several different publications, each with more than one edition. In such cases a modification of the usual Cutter number is necessary in order to group publications of a similar nature, and at the same time differentiate between successive editions of the same publication. In some cases the Cutter number has been followed by a slanting line and the caliber of the gun or the weight of the projectile, e. g., Ar5/6 or R18/15; in a few cases the Cutter number has been followed by a slanting line and the Ordnance Department form number, e. g., T61/1988; in other cases it has been followed by a lower-case letter, e. g., P84r, R16fw. In distinguishing editions, the usual superior numbers $^{1, 2, 3, \text{etc.}}$ have been used where there were no complications, e. g., B23/6 ^{1,2}; in cases where there were models of different years, it has sometimes been necessary to use the date of the model as a superior number, followed by a dash and the figures $^{1, 2, 3, \text{etc.}}$, e. g., B23/5 $^{896-1}$; in a few cases it has been necessary to use both figures and letters, e. g., D63/10 $^{896a-3}$.]

W39.7: Roll of honor

[With the exception of nos. 2 and 3, "Roll of honor" appears on each. The only general index is that giving places of interment specified in nos. 1-13, which is classed as W39.7:1-13. Beginning with no. 14, each number, except 22 and 24, includes a table of contents. Nos. 1-21 appeared as General orders of Quartermaster's Department (W39.6:).]

[1] Names of soldiers who died in defence of American Union interred in national cemeteries at Washington, D. C., Aug. 3, 1861-June 30, 1865. [1st edition.] 1865. viii+9-194 p.+p. 294a-c. ([General orders 35, 1865.]) [The last three pages numbered 294a-c are presumably incorrect for 194a-c.]

W40. RECORD AND PENSION OFFICE

[In July, 1889, the branch of the Surgeon-General's Office containing the hospital records of the Army, and 13 divisions of the Adjutant-General's Office containing muster rolls and other military records of volunteers were consolidated by the Secretary of War, the whole being designated the Record and Pension Division. This division was legally established as the Record and Pension Office by act approved May 9, 1892 (Stat. L. v. 27, p. 27). On July 1, 1899, the War Records Office was merged into the Record and Pension Office. The latter was consolidated, May 11, 1904, by order of the Secretary of War, with the Adjutant-General's Department as the Military Secretary's Department. The change of the Military Secretary's Department to the Adjutant-General's Department, by act of Mar. 2, 1907 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 1158), did not reestablish the Record and Pension Office.]

W40.3: Bulletins

W40.4: Circulars

(nos.) [Four unnumbered circulars concerning the Official records of the Union and Confederate armies were issued by the Record and Pension Office after the War Records Office was merged into it on July 1, 1899. These circulars are entered with similar ones issued by the War Records Office previous to that date under W45.4:899–902. They are entered under W45.4: rather than W40.4: because they relate to the Rebellion record series (W45.5:) which was entered as a whole under the War Records Office on account of the importance of keeping the series together and because so few volumes were issued by the Record and Pension office.]

War of Rebellion, compilation of official records of Union and Confederate armies [or Rebellion records]. See W45.5:

[The War Records Office (W45.) was merged into the Record and Pension Office, July 1, 1899. Previous to that time, of the total number of volumes of the Rebellion records, 116 volumes, viz., serial numbers 1 to 118, had been published by the War Records Office. The remaining 11 volumes and the general index were issued by the Record and Pension Office. It has seemed wise not to divide the few last volumes from the remainder of the set, hence, they are all entered under W45.5:]

War of Rebellion, compilation of official records of Union and Confederate armies [or Rebellion records], additions and corrections

[In 1902, the additions and corrections to the Official records which had been already printed as a part of the General index, serial no. 130 (W45.5:130), were issued by the Record and Pension Office in 71 separate leaflets, one for each volume and one each for the Atlas and General index, with such additional corrections as had been discovered subsequent to the issuance of the 1st edition. These were printed and plainly labeled "to be inserted in the volume" to which each belonged, consequently no separate class is made for them as they are included with the volumes entered under W45.5:, W45.7:, and W45.8: Since only one leaflet was issued for each volume, the additions and corrections for all parts of a particular volume are inserted in the first part.]

W41. REFUGEES, FREEDMEN, AND ABANDONED LANDS BUREAU

[A Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands, commonly known as the "Freedmen's Bureau," was created by Congress, Mar. 3, 1865, and Major-General Oliver Otis Howard was appointed commissioner. The Bureau was to continue during the War of the Rebellion and one year thereafter. The period of its continuance was extended by Congress from time to time, until it was abolished, June 30, 1872, and its work turned over to the Secretary of War, who placed it under control of the Adjutant-General of the Army. Publications of the Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands Bureau, and of the Freedmen's Branch, Adjutant-General's Office, are all classed here.

See, for investigation of this bureau by Howard Court of Inquiry, W10.6:H83.

See, for list of publications by Freedmen's Bureau, Bibliography of negro education, Education Bureau report, 1894, v. 1 (I 16.1 1:894 1), p. 1040.

W42. SIGNAL OFFICE

[A Signal Officer of the Army was authorized by act approved June 20, 1860 (Stat. L. v. 12, p. 66). The Signal Corps was organized under act approved Mar. 3, 1863 (Stat. L. v. 12, p. 753). By joint resolution 12, of Feb. 9, 1870 (Stat. L. v. 16, p. 369), the work of the Signal Corps was extended to embrace the taking of meteorological observations at military stations and other points in the country. By act approved Oct. 1, 1890 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 653), the Weather Bureau was created under Agriculture Department and the meteorological work of the Signal Office transferred thereto, the change taking effect July 1, 1891.
See, for list of publications of Signal Office, 1861–July 1, 1891, compiled by Oliver L. Fassig, librarian, p. 389–409 of annual report of Signal Office, 1891 (W42.1:891).
See, for later publications relating to meteorology issued by the Weather Bureau, A29.]

W43. SOLDIERS' HOME, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

[The Soldiers' Home was established by act of Mar. 3, 1851, under name of Military Asylum, the board of commissioners was organized Mar. 12, 1851, and the first regulations approved June 16, 1851; see Senate executive document 27, 32d Congress, 1st session, serial no. 614.

Name was changed July 1, 1859, from Military Asylum to Soldiers' Home by act making appropriations for Army, 1860, approved Mar. 3, 1859.

The sundry civil appropriation act of Mar. 4, 1909, provided "That hereafter the government and control of the United States Military Prison shall, under the Secretary of War, be vested in the Board of Commissioners of the United States Soldiers' Home, which board shall consist as at present of the surgeon-general, the commissary-general, the adjutant-general, the quartermaster-general, the chief of engineers, the judge-advocate-general, and the governor of the Home" (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 1004). See, for information concerning Military Prison, Fort Leavenworth, prior to 1909, W27.

This home is for soldiers of the regular Army. Disabled soldiers who served in the Volunteer Army are cared for at the different branches of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers; see NH.]

[The reports listed below relate only to the Soldiers' Home. Although article 1 of the rules and regulations approved June 16, 1851, requires of the board "an annual report of their proceedings to the Secretary of War for the information of Congress," the reports are irregular until 1876. Since 1883 (Stat. L. v. 22, p. 564) they are published with the report of the inspecting officer and distributed to each garrison and post library.

Act approved Mar. 4, 1909 (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 1004), provides that the president of the Board of Commissioners of the United States Soldiers' Home "shall submit annually to the Secretary of War, for transmission to Congress, a full statement of the financial and other affairs of both the home and the [Military] Prison for the preceding fiscal year." The first report on the Military Prison issued under this act is for 1909 and appears as House document 255, 61st Congress, 2d session, serial no. 5834. See, for earlier reports on Military Prison, W27.1:]

W44. MEDICAL DEPARTMENT, ARMY

[According to the Journals of the Continental Congress, the establishment of an army hospital was agreed upon July 27, 1775, the chief to be called director general and chief physician. The work was carried on with very inadequate support during the Revolution and for many subsequent years. An act to regulate the medical establishment and providing for a physician general and an apothecary general, was passed Mar. 2, 1799 (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 721). By act approved Apr. 14, 1818 (Stat. L. v. 3, p. 426), the law creating these offices was repealed and the office of surgeon-general created, giving the Medical Department a permanent chief.]

W44.6: Army Medical School

[Established at Washington, D. C., under General orders 51, June 24, 1893, and 78, Sept. 22, 1893. School opened Nov. 1, 1893. Under these orders the session lasted for 4 months beginning in November of each year, but by General order 115, June 27, 1904, the length of the school year was increased to 8 months beginning Oct. 1.

No formal session held for school year 1894–95, although some instruction was given to certain officers; school closed from end of session for school year 1897–98 to beginning of school year 1901–02.

Taking into consideration the fact that there was no formal session for 1894–95, the numbers of the sessions as stated in the annual reports of the War Department run regularly up to the 6th session, 1902–03; the next session, for 1903–04, is, however, called the 8th session, and from that point the numbers are again consecutive.]

W45. WAR RECORDS OFFICE

[The Publication Office, War Records, afterwards known as War Records Office, received its first definite organization in Jan. 1878, under Capt. Robert N. Scott, who was detailed to take charge of this work, Dec. 14, 1877. Merged into Record and Pension Office, July 1, 1899. Although a few publications listed under W45. were issued after the merger with the Record and Pension Office, they have been included under the War Records Office in order to keep together the complete set of Rebellion records and the circulars and additions and corrections relating thereto.]

W45.5: War of Rebellion, compilation of official records of Union and Confederate armies [or Rebellion records]

(serial nos.)

[The matter of publishing the official records of the Civil War seems to have been considered by Congress as early as May 19, 1864 (Stat. L. v. 13, p. 406). Other acts followed from time to time, and the work was carried on in a more or less desultory fashion until Dec. 14, 1877, when Capt. Robert N. Scott, later lieutenant-colonel, was detailed to take charge of the work. At that time, 47 of the 79 volumes, later known as "preliminary prints" (W45.9:) had been compiled and 30 copies of each had been printed.

†Published by Record and Pension Office. See note under W40.4:

‡A copy of this circular containing manuscript corrections was sent out by the Record and Pension Office.

W45. WAR RECORDS OFFICE—Continued

W45.5: (serial nos.)

War of Rebellion, compilation of official records of Union and Confederate armies [or Rebellion records]—Continued

Under Colonel Scott, the work was systematized and the plan finally adopted which has been carried on throughout the entire set known as the Official records. According to this plan, 4 series were issued as follows:

Series 1, Formal reports, both Union and Confederate, of the first seizures of United States property in the Southern States, and of all military operations in the field, with the correspondence, orders, and returns relating especially thereto.

Series 2, Correspondence, orders, reports and returns, Union and Confederate, relating to prisoners of war and, so far as the military authorities were concerned, to state or political prisoners.

Series 3, Correspondence, orders, reports and returns of the Union authorities, embracing their correspondence with the Confederate officials, not relating especially to the subjects of the 1st and 2d series. It embraces the annual and special reports of the Secretary of War, of the General-in-Chief, and of the chiefs of the several staff corps and departments; the calls for troops and the correspondence between the national and the several State authorities.

Series 4, Correspondence, orders, reports and returns of the Confederate authorities, similar to that indicated for the Union officials, as of the 3d series, but excluding the correspondence between the Union and Confederate authorities given in that series.

After the death of Colonel Scott, Col. H. M. Lazelle was placed in charge, and later a Board of Publication carried on the work under direction of the Secretary of War. The name most closely associated with the work from its inception to its completion is that of Joseph W. Kirkley, the compiler under whose personal examination each volume passed.

An atlas (W45.7: and W45.8:), to accompany the work, was issued, and in 1902, a revised edition of the additions and corrections, already printed with the general index (W45.5:130), was issued, a separate pamphlet for each volume, for insertion in the volumes of the set.

The War Records Office (W45.) was merged into the Record and Pension Office, July 1, 1899. Previous to that time, of the total number of volumes of the Rebellion records, 116 volumes, that is, serial numbers 1 to 118, had been published by the War Records Office. The remaining 11 volumes and the general index were issued by the Record and Pension Office. It has seemed wise not to divide the few last volumes from the remainder of the set, hence, they are all entered under W45.5:

The serial numbers as given below are the numbers assigned to the set by the issuing office as found in circular issued July 1, 1902, and also in preceding circulars. Most of the sets issued were bound in black cloth and, after series 1, v. 23 (serial no. 35), had the serial number stamped on the back, consequently, in the following list the serial numbers beginning with 36 are not bracketed.]

These additions and corrections were reissued in separate form in 1902. See heading and note immediately following.]

War of Rebellion, compilation of official records of Union and Confederate armies [or Rebellion records], additions and corrections

[In 1902, the additions and corrections to the Official records which had been already printed as a part of the General index, serial no. 130 (W45.5:130), were issued by the Record and Pension Office in 71 separate leaflets, one for each volume and one each for the Atlas and General index, with such additional corrections as had been discovered subsequent to the issuance of the 1st edition. These were printed and plainly labeled "to be inserted in the volume" to which each belonged, consequently no separate class is made for them as they are included with the volumes entered under W45.5:, W45.7:, and W45.8: Since only one leaflet was issued for each volume, the additions and corrections for all parts of a particular volume are inserted in the first part.]

W45.7: Atlas to accompany [War of Rebellion], official records of Union and Confederate armies [or Rebellion records] (atlas in parts) large 4°

(pt. nos.)

[The atlas of the Official records consists of maps of battlefields, cities and their defenses, and parts of the country traversed by the armies. Pts. 1, 25, and 26 contain views of besieged cities, forts, etc., and pt. 35 gives the uniforms and flags of the two armies, and other information. The location of Confederate troops or defenses is shown in red and that of the Union troops in blue. This compilation was the work of Calvin D. Cowles. A sheet of additions and corrections was issued in 1902 to be inserted in the part containing the title-page, index, etc.]

[Although the first act leading to the compilation of the Rebellion records was enacted May 19, 1864 (Stat. L. v. 13, p. 406), the first act which specifically provided for their publication was that of June 23, 1874 (Stat. L. v. 18, p. 222). In accordance with this and following acts, and previous to the adoption of the systematic plan proposed by Col. Robert N. Scott for the publication of the Rebellion records, a compilation which proved very unsatisfactory was issued under the above title and is now known by the name of "preliminary prints." The matter in these volumes was arranged chronologically but otherwise very unsystematically. Thirty copies of each volume were issued but no use has ever been made of them except as printer's copy in the compilation of the later and regular official publication.

A complete set of this preliminary and obsolete edition in 79 v. is in the library of the War Department. The Public Documents Library has only v. 9 and 11 of the set.]

W46. GETTYSBURG NATIONAL MILITARY PARK COMMISSION

[This commission was appointed by the Secretary of War, May 25, 1893. In the report of the Secretary of War for 1893, he suggested that the general Government take charge of the Gettysburg battlefield, and in his report for 1894 he renewed the suggestion, which was approved by Congress when, Feb. 11, 1895, an act was passed providing for the reception by the United States of the lands belonging to the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association, and declaring that they should constitute, with other lands the Government had acquired there, the "Gettysburg National Park," and placing it in charge of the commission, under the superintendence of the Secretary of War.]

W49. PHILIPPINE COMMISSION, 1900- (Taft Commission)

[The Taft Philippine Commission was appointed by the President in Mar. 1900. The Commission was directed by the President to report to the Secretary of War, and all its actions to be subject to his approval and control. The Commission arrived in Manila, June 3, 1900, but did not perform any functions in the military government until Sept. 1, 1900. In Sept. 1900, the central government of the islands was established under instructions of the President, with a military governor as chief executive and the Commission as the legislative body with certain executive functions in addition. This continued until July 4, 1901, when the civil executive authority theretofore reposed in the military governor and in the Commission was transferred to a Civil Governor (W49.35:). See, for reports of civil officers made to the military governor, W21.1:

Congress approved and ratified the President's action by passing on July 1, 1902, an act temporarily to provide for administration of affairs of civil government in Philippine Islands, etc. (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 691).

The Philippine Commission passed a general election law, Jan. 9, 1907, in conformity with the organic act of Congress of July 1, 1902, for members of the Philippine Assembly and for officers for the different provinces and municipalities. The election for members of the Philippine Assembly was held July 30, 1907, and the Assembly was opened by the Secretary of War, Oct. 16, 1907. The election for the municipal and provincial officers was held on the 1st Tuesday after the 1st Monday of Nov. 1907.

The Philippine Legislature (W49.39:) which has since Oct. 16, 1907, exercised the legislative function for the islands is composed of 2 bodies, the Philippine Commission (W49.40:) forming the upper house, and the Philippine Assembly (W49.41:) the lower house.

Most of the articles belonging to the Museum were sent to the St. Louis Exposition. Act 827, enacted Aug. 5, 1903, provided for the return of the exhibits loaned by the Museum and also those owned by the Philippine government, that they might be used in a permanent museum. The plan for a permanent museum was not carried out owing to lack of funds. See, for an account of the condition of the museums, annual report, 1905, of Ethnological Survey in W49.1:905[2], p. 422, or W1.1:905[11], p. 422, and for the Commercial museum, see also annual report, 1905, of Secretary of Interior, P. W51. PACIFIC DIVISION

[Department no. 10, the first designation of the command on the Pacific Coast, was established in Feb. 1847, pursuant to General orders 49, Nov. 3, 1846. By General orders 49, 1848, Department no. 10 was limited to the Territory of California, and the same order organized Department no. 11, to consist of the Territory of Oregon. By General orders 54, dated Oct. 10, 1848, the Pacific Division was established, including departments 10 and 11. These departments were merged into the Pacific Division by General orders 27, 1851, and in 1853, by General orders 25, the name of the command was changed to Department of the Pacific, and it was made to include all the territory of the United States west of the Rocky Mountains, except the Territory of Utah and the Department of New Mexico. In 1858, by General orders 10, the Department of the Pacific was divided into 2 parts called the Department of California (W13.) and the Department of Oregon.
The Pacific Division was reorganized June 27, 1865, by General orders 118, to embrace the Department of California (W13.) and the Department of the Columbia (W15.). The geographical limits of the division have varied. The Pacific Division was discontinued July 2, 1891, by General orders 57.
On Jan. 15, 1904, the Pacific Division was reorganized, including the Department of California (W13.) and the Department of the Columbia (W15.). The Pacific Division was abolished with the other divisions, June 30, 1907, by General orders 95.

[The Department of Havana was established by General orders 191, Dec. 30, 1898, comprising that part of the Province of Havana surrounding the city and harbor of that name. The Department of the Province of Havana was established by the same order, to comprise the remainder of the province, to which, by General orders 193, the Isle of Pines was added the following day. The order of Dec. 31, 1898, also established the Department of Pinar del Rio.

On Apr. 17, 1899, by General orders 74, the Department of the Province of Havana was consolidated with the Department of Pinar del Rio, under the name Department of the Province of Havana and Pinar del Rio, and to this new department the Department of Havana was added, May 1, 1900, by General orders 47, thus creating the Department of Havana and Pinar del Rio.

On July 23, 1900, by General orders 98, the Department of Matanzas and Santa Clara (W58.) was consolidated with the Department of Havana and Pinar del Rio, under the name of Department of Western Cuba; and this in turn by General orders 131 was united with the Department of Eastern Cuba Nov. 15, 1900, to form the Department of Cuba (W25.).]

W59. SANTIAGO AND PUERTO PRINCIPE, DEPARTMENT OF

[The Department of Santiago was established by General orders 118, A. G. O., Aug. 10, 1898, to include that part of the island of Cuba and adjacent keys which were at that time in possession of the United States, and the portion which might afterwards come into their possession. This order was modified by General orders 12, Jan. 17, 1899, which restricted the Department to the Province of Santiago.
The Department of Puerto Principe was established by General orders 193, Dec. 31, 1898, and consolidated with the Department of Santiago by General orders 120, July 1, 1899, and the name changed to Department of Santiago and Puerto Principe. The name was again changed by General orders 98, July 23, 1900, to Department of Eastern Cuba. The Department was merged in the Department of Cuba (W25.) which was established Nov. 15, 1900, to embrace the whole island of Cuba.]

W60. CUBA, WESTERN, DEPARTMENT OF

[Organized by General orders 98, July 23, 1900, by the union of the Department of Havana and Pinar del Rio (W57.), with the Department of Matanzas and Santa Clara (W58.). After an existence of less than 4 months, by General orders 131, the Department of Western Cuba was consolidated, Nov. 15, 1900, with the Department of Eastern Cuba to form the Department of Cuba (W25.) which embraced the whole island.

The publication entitled Annual report of Fitzhugh Lee commanding Department of Western Cuba Aug. 23, 1900, is chiefly the report of that officer as head of the Department of Havana and Pinar del Rio, and is accordingly classed under W57.1:900. This report contains a copy of Circular letter 1, Aug. 10, 1900, and General orders 1, July 24, 1900, both issued by the Department of Western Cuba, but as the Public Documents Library has no separate issue of these nor of the Final report of Department of Western Cuba, July 1–Nov. 15, 1900, which appears in annual reports of War Department, 1901 (W1.1:901 [3]), no classes are assigned under W60.

[From May 17, 1815, to May 17, 1821, the United States was divided into two military divisions, called the Division of the North and the Division of the South.

By General orders 17, Jan. 12, 1864, a Northern Department was formed of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, and this was reorganized into the Department of the Ohio, by General orders 118, June 27, 1865. On Oct. 30 of the same year, by General orders 157, Wisconsin was added to the Department of the Ohio. The Department of the Ohio became the Department of the Lakes (W19.) by General orders 59, Aug. 6, 1866.

The Northern Division, which issued the publications listed here, was established Jan. 15, 1904, by General orders 65, 1903, War Department, comprising the Department of the Lakes (W19.), the Department of the Missouri (W20.), and the Department of Dakota (W16.). The division was abolished June 30, 1907, by General orders 95, A. G. O.]

W64. ATLANTIC DIVISION

[Established by General orders 118, June 27, 1865, to comprise 5 departments, namely, the East, Middle, Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. The division and its departments (except the Department of the East) were all discontinued Aug. 6, 1866, by General orders 59.

The Division of the Atlantic was reorganized by General orders 10, Feb. 12, 1868, comprising 3 departments, the East (W17.), Washington (W52.), and the Lakes (W19.). In 1869, by General orders 18, the Department of Washington was merged in the Department of the East. The Department of Virginia (W67.) by General orders 11, 1870, was reestablished Jan. 29, 1870, as part of the Atlantic Division, and on June 1 of the same year, by General orders 41, was merged in the Department of the East.

In 1873 the Department of the East and the Department of the Lakes were abolished. In 1876, by General orders 50, the Department of the South (W66.), and in 1877, by General orders 42, the Department of the Gulf were added to the Atlantic Division. In 1877, by General orders 101, the Department of the East was reestablished as part of this division. The Department of the Gulf was merged in the Department of the South by General orders 38, 1878, and that in turn was merged in the Department of the East by General orders 71, 1883.

The Atlantic Division was abolished in 1891 by General orders 57, and reestablished Jan. 15, 1904, by General orders 65, 1903, War Department, comprising the Department of the East and the Department of the Gulf, and was finally abolished June 30, 1907, by General orders 95.

W65. ARIZONA, DEPARTMENT OF

[Established Apr. 15, 1870, by General orders 41, comprising the Territory of Arizona and part of California; by the same order it was placed under the Pacific Division (W51.) where it remained until that division was abolished in 1891. Previous to Apr. 15, 1870, this territory was part of the Department of California (W13.).

The District of New Mexico was transferred to the Department of Arizona by General orders 121, Nov. 30, 1885, and 25, May 4, 1886; by General orders 84, 1890, to take effect Sept. 1 of that year, the District of New Mexico was discontinued, the military posts in that Territory reporting thereafter direct to the Department of Arizona.

By General orders 54, June 30, 1893, the Department of Arizona was merged into the Department of the Colorado (W14.), which consisted of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and Utah, that part of California which belonged to the Department of Arizona being transferred to the Department of California.

W66. SOUTH, DEPARTMENT OF THE, and SOUTH, DIVISION OF THE

[In 1815, the United States was divided into two military divisions, North and South. These divisions were discontinued May 17, 1821.

By General orders 26, Mar. 15, 1862, the States of South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida, with the forces under Gen. Sherman, were constituted the Department of the South, the troops of this command being formed on Sept. 3, 1862, by General orders 123, into the 10th Army Corps. From Jan. 12 to 31, 1865, this department included North Carolina, which then became a separate department (W67.).

On Mar. 2, 1867, by act of Congress, the 10 Southern States not yet represented in Congress, were divided into 5 military districts, in which the commanding general was to exercise certain civil as well as military powers. During this reconstruction period the Carolinas formed the 2d, and Georgia, Florida, and Alabama formed the 3d military district. The 5 States embraced in the 2d and 3d military districts having resumed civil power about July 28, 1868, they then, by General orders 55, were together formed into the new Department of the South, which by General orders 18, Mar. 16, 1869, was placed under the Division of the South. The Division of the South was finally discontinued June 26, 1876, by General orders 50, and the Department of the South was placed under the Atlantic Division (W64.). By General orders 71, effective Nov. 1, 1883, the department was merged into the Department of the East (W17.).

Publications of the Department of the South and the Division of the South are classed here.

The two departments were consolidated July 15, 1863, by General orders 217, and separated Jan. 31, 1865, by General orders 12. By General orders 71, Apr. 19, 1865, these departments with the Army of the Potomac were constituted the Division of the James. The Division of the James was abolished by General orders 118, June 27, 1865, the two departments of Virginia and North Carolina being retained.
The Department of North Carolina was discontinued May 19, 1866, by General orders 32, which provided for a new department embracing North and South Carolina, to be known as the Department of the Carolinas, and later by General orders 59, Aug. 6, 1866, North and South Carolina formed the Department of the South (W66.).
The Department of Virginia was discontinued Aug. 6, 1866, by General orders 59; by General orders 11 and 20, 1870, a new Department of Virginia, comprising 4 States and the District of Columbia, was established, and merged into the Department of the East (W17.) June 1, 1870, by General orders 41.

W73.6: Sanitation Department

[On Aug. 28, 1904, at the 42d meeting of the Isthmian Canal Commission, a Department of Health was organized as a branch of the government of the Canal Zone, although from May 4, 1904, the health and sanitation of the Isthmus had been in charge of a chief sanitary officer. By Executive order of Nov. 17, 1906, the Health Department was separated from the department of government of which it was a division, and created a new department under the commission which has since been called the Sanitation Department.]

W73.6[3]: Sanitation Department, Bulletins [of] laboratory of board of health

[The board of health was established by action of the Isthmian Canal Commission at the 42d meeting held Aug. 28, 1904, to administer the affairs of the Health (later Sanitation) Department. The board was appointed by the commission and consisted of the chief sanitary officer, chairman, director of hospitals, chief quarantine officer, and chief sanitary inspector.

The laboratory of the board of health was established by the executive committee of the Isthmian Canal Commission at its 16th meeting held June 14, 1905. The chief of the laboratory was then directed to report to the board of health through the chief sanitary officer. An order issued by the chief sanitary officer, Oct. 20, 1906, directed that the laboratory should become a division of Ancon Hospital. This laboratory, while directly under the board of health, compiled the bulletins listed here.]

W75. PORTO RICO

[Prior to May 1, 1900, jurisdiction over governmental affairs of Porto Rico was exercised through Insular Affairs Bureau (W6.).

The organic act temporarily to provide revenues and civil government for Porto Rico was approved Apr. 12, 1900, and became effective May 1, 1900. Under this act annual reports were submitted to the heads of certain of the Executive Departments of the United States Government. Of these reports and other publications covering the period between May 1, 1900, and June 30, 1908, those which have appeared separately were classed as follows:

Porto Rico, Attorney-General, under U. S. Justice Department (J7.).
Porto Rico, Auditor, under U. S. Treasury Department (T43.).
Porto Rico, Education Department, under U. S. Interior Department (I 1.39:).
Porto Rico, Governor, under U. S. State Department (S10.).
Porto Rico, Interior Department, under U. S. Interior Department (I 1.40:).

The treasurer and certain other officials of Porto Rico who made reports to various Executive Departments of the United States Government for the period between May 1, 1900, and June 30, 1908, have no classifications under those Departments, because their annual reports did not appear separately.

By act of July 15, 1909, jurisdiction over governmental affairs in Porto Rico was again vested in War Department and the administrative duties in Washington were again assigned to Insular Affairs Bureau by the following Executive order 1110, dated July 15, 1909:

>
> AN ACT to amend an Act entitled "An Act temporarily to provide revenues and a civil government for Porto Rico, and for other purposes," approved April twelfth, nineteen hundred.
>
> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Act entitled "An Act temporarily to provide revenues and a civil government for Porto Rico, and for other purposes," approved April twelfth, nineteen hundred, is hereby amended by inserting at the end of section thirty-one of said Act the following additional proviso:
>
> "And provided further, That if at the termination of any fiscal year the appropriations necessary for the support of government for the ensuing fiscal year shall not have been made an amount equal to the sums appropriated in the last appropriation bills for such purpose shall be deemed to be appropriated; and until the legislature shall act in such behalf the treasurer may, with the advice of the governor, make the payments necessary for the purposes aforesaid."
>
> SEC. 2. That all reports required by law to be made by the governor or members of the executive council of Porto Rico to any official in the United States shall hereafter be made to an executive department of the Government of the United States to be designated by the President; and the President is hereby authorized to place all matters pertaining to the government of Porto Rico in the jurisdiction of such department.
>
> Under the provisions of Section 2 of this Act hereafter all reports required by law to be made by the governor or members of the executive council of Porto Rico to any official in the United States will be made to the War Department, and all matters pertaining to the government of Porto Rico are placed in the jurisdiction of that department.
>
> The business of the department pertaining to civil government in Porto Rico is, pursuant to Section 87 of the Act of July 1, 1902, assigned to the Bureau of Insular Affairs.
>
> WM H TAFT

[In accordance with the act of July 15, 1909, promulgated by the above Executive order of same date, the 1909 report of the governor is submitted to the Secretary of War. In future the governor's report and the reports of subordinate officials made to the governor and by him submitted to the Secretary o War are to be classed under W75., though published by the Insular Affairs Bureau.]

X. PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS

[Printed records or reports of the debates and other proceedings of the 2 branches composing the Congress of the United States are extant for the whole period of its existence, from Mar. 4, 1789, to the present time. Though these records have been issued under various titles and auspices, they form a continuous and connected documentary chronicle, and the different series of which it is composed have had the sanction of Congress as official and have been distributed as Government publications. The series containing the proceedings are as follows: Annals of Congress, 1st Congress, 1st session, to 18th Congress, 1st session, 1789–1824; Register of debates, 18th Congress, 2d session, to 25th Congress, 1st session, 1824–37; Congressional globe, 23d Congress, 1st session, to 42d Congress, 3d session, 1833–73; Congressional record, 43d Congress, 1st session, to 61st Congress, 1st session, 1873–1909. The Register of debates and the Globe overlap each other, the proceedings of the 23d and 24th Congresses and the 1st session of the 25th Congress being in both. The proceedings of Congress do not appear in the Congressional set.

The methods of publication of the Register, Globe, and Record are somewhat peculiar. There is a numbered volume for each session of Congress, but each volume is divided into as many parts as the quantity of material may make necessary. Each of these parts is a distinct book, usually of about 1,000 p. Thus, while the Globe purports to be in 46 v., it is really in 109 quarto books, and the Record, to the close of the 61st Congress, 1st session, though filling 258 great books, is published in only 44 v. The Annals and the Register are large 8° volumes, while the Globe and Record have been issued in 4° size. All of the volumes of the 4 series are indexed, an index for each volume; that is, for each session. In the Annals, Register, and Globe the indexes are found in the volumes of proceedings, but in the Record series in all but one case, v. 37, 58th Congress, 1st session, the index for each volume is in a separate book.

See, for Tables showing contents of volumes comprising Annals of Congress, Congressional debates, Congressional globe, Congressional record, Statutes at large, Supreme Court reports, and succession of Supreme Court justices, arranged by years and Congresses, compiled by Alonzo W. Church and Henry H. Smith, Y1.1:An7.

ANNALS OF CONGRESS

[The period of Congressional activity covered by these 42 v. is that of the first 17 Congresses and the 1st session of the 18th Congress, being the years 1789–1824. There is no contemporaneous record of the debates for this period, verbatim reporting not having been attempted till later and not having been officially provided for till 1874. As indicated by the title-page, these volumes record "Debates and proceedings in the Congress of the United States; with an Appendix, containing important state papers and public documents, and all laws of a public nature; with a copious index, compiled from authentic materials."

Of v. 1 and 2 there were 2 prints. The one with back-title "Debates in Congress, old series" and running page-title "Gales & Seaton's history of debates in Congress" has been placed under Y1.1:D35 1/2 since it does not belong to the regular set under X. The other, with back-title "Annals of Congress" and running page-title "History of Congress," uniform with the set, has been entered as X1,2. Other differences between the 2 prints of v. 1 and 2 have been noted in the entries under Y1.1:

The Annals do not contain a full report of Congressional proceedings, but sketches of the more important debates prepared by the compilers from contemporaneous records. Of the Senate proceedings, until 1794, only meager record is found, as the Senate sat with closed doors up to the 2d session of the 3d Congress. The proceedings of the two Houses are arranged separately by sessions, and not by days, as in the Congressional globe and Record, so that the record of each House is consecutive through the session. The pages are in double-column, and each column is numbered as if it were a page. In the Appendix incorporated in the last volume for each Congress are found executive and other documents, and laws of a public character passed by that Congress. By joint resolution of Mar. 3, 1849 (Stat. L. v. 9, p. 419), and by act of Sept. 30, 1850 (Stat. L. v. 9, p. 524), the Secretary of the Senate and Clerk of the House were authorized to subscribe for 2,000 sets of Annals of Congress, the appropriation for the same being made by acts of Sept. 30, 1850, and Mar. 3, 1851 (Stat. L. v. 9, p. 543, 599). The Annals were compiled as well as published by Gales & Seaton.]

REGISTER OF DEBATES

The second series of the proceedings, and the first to be contemporaneously reported and published, bears the title "Register of debates in Congress" on the title-page, the back-title being "Congressional debates." It began with the 2d session of the 18th Congress, Dec. 6, 1824, and continued to the end of the 1st session of the 25th Congress, Oct. 16, 1837, making in all 14 v. in 29 books.

No part of the proceedings is given which does not involve debate or some incident novel or important in character. The debates are not in all cases literally reported, but their substantial accuracy may be relied upon. Each page has 2 page numbers, one for each column. The record of each House is arranged by sessions, as in the Annals, excepting in the first volume, which is by days, as in the Globe and the Record.

In the Appendix attached to the last volume of each session are printed the messages of the President, the most important reports from departments of the Government and committees of Congress, and all acts passed during the session. The Register was compiled and published by Gales & Seaton, the first volume issued in 1825, the last in 1837. Provision for the purchase of copies for the use of Congress was made from time to time. Duff Green published in Washington, 1834, 2 v. of a "Register of debates" (Y1.1:D35 3,4) giving a report of the proceedings of the 23d Congress, Dec. 2, 1833–May 31, 1834, and for that period duplicating Gales & Seaton's Register.]

CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE

[The Congressional globe began with the 1st session of the 23d Congress, Dec. 2, 1833, duplicating the Register of debates in Congress for the 23d and 24th Congresses and the 1st session of the 25th Congress, and continued until the end of the 42d Congress, Mar. 3, 1873, being complete in 109 quarto books. This series, to the close of the 31st Congress, as indicated on the title-page, contains "Sketches of debates and proceedings." The title is then changed by omission of the words "sketches of," implying thereafter a fuller report.

The appendixes, in addition to speeches of Senators and Representatives withheld for revision and not printed in the body of the Globe, contain also, to the close of the 39th Congress, messages of the President and reports of Cabinet officers, and from the 2d session of the 32d Congress the text of the laws. Also to the 1st session of the 37th Congress, a detailed statement of the appropriations made during each session. An index, covering the session to which it belongs, is found in most volumes excepting for the 2d session, 42d Congress, when the index is in a separate volume. Each of the appendixes has its own index.

The Globe was edited and published as follows: By Blair & Rives to the close of the 30th Congress; by John C. Rives to the close of the 1st session of the 38th Congress; by F. & J. Rives to the close of the 39th Congress; by F. & J. Rives and George A. Bailey to the close of the series. The work was supplied to Congress under resolutions providing for its purchase. The first volume was published in 1834; the last in 1873.

A portion of the first 37 v. in the Public Documents Library bear volume numbers on the title-pages, after which the volumes are unnumbered. It seems, however, that different sets differ in this numbering, consequently, after v. 14 the numbers on the title-pages are disregarded and the Public Documents Library has assigned a volume number for each session of Congress in accordance with the plan which had been adopted by the publishers of the Congressional record.]

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

[This was the first series of the proceedings to be officially reported, printed, and published directly by the Government, under act of Mar. 3, 1873 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 510). It began with the 43d Congress, has been continued to the present time, and up to the end of the 61st Congress, 1st session, Aug. 5, 1909, comprises 258 quarto books. It is printed at the Government Printing Office from stenographic reports supplied by the official reporters of the Senate and the House. All extraneous matter has been excluded from this series, the contents of the several volumes being strictly limited to the proceedings of Congress. The appendixes contain only speeches which, for one reason or another, usually because withheld for revision by the authors, were not inserted in their proper places in the Record.

X^a. CONGRESSIONAL RECORD (separates)

For a number of years past, it has been the custom to bind up every 2 weeks a small edition of the daily Congressional records for that period, with the index thereto. These fortnightly volumes, which were bound for the convenience of members of Congress and other officials, differ in paging from the permanent bound edition of the Record classed under X (see preceding table), as in the latter, the text is rearranged and printed continuously without break. The two bound sets must not be confused. The fortnightly indexes do not give correct references to the permanent bound volumes under X, nor does the volume index give correct references to the daily edition under X^a.

The daily unbound issues of the Congressional record are not retained in the Public Documents Library, but the fortnightly bound volumes of the daily Record and indexes thereto, mentioned in the preceding paragraph, are kept and classified under X^a. Cong. sess: Following the colon, the Public Documents Library uses as booknumber the number of the fortnightly issue, that is, the number which appears on the fortnightly index bound at the beginning of each book. For example, the classification for the first fortnightly bound Congressional record, 59th Congress, 2d session, is X^a.59^2:1.]

Y1. MISCELLANEOUS PUBLICATIONS OF CONGRESS

[In the list of miscellaneous publications of Congress given below the arrangement is as follows: under Y1.Cong.sess: are placed the confidential Senate executive documents, etc., concerning the arrangement of which further information will be found in the note preceding those entries; under Y1.1: are the miscellaneous unclassified publications of both Houses of Congress issued jointly; while the miscellaneous publications of the House of Representatives are arranged under Y1.2: and those of the Senate, under Y1.3:]

Y1.Cong.sess: Confidential; Senate executive documents, reports, etc.

[This class is made up of those publications which were printed at first as Senate confidential documents or reports, but from which the injunction of secrecy has been removed. During and since the 57th Congress, the date when the document was made public has been stamped upon the publication before its distribution. Although in appearance somewhat like the numbered documents, they do not appear in the Congressional set unless a new number in the regular set of Congressional document numbers was assigned. Nearly all of these confidential documents are treaties and conventions which are usually prepared by the State Department and sent to the Senate for their ratification.

Such confidential documents as are in the Public Documents Library are listed on p. 1476-91, but the library does not claim that its set is complete, only a few issues prior to the 55th Congress having been secured. However, some documents with asterisks (*) affixed to show that they are not in the Public Documents Library are included in the list, with incomplete entries taken from certain lists of treaties and conventions classed under Y1.3:T71$^{1-3}$.

The list is arranged by Congress and session and subarranged under the number or letter by which known.]

† Heavy type used in the 6th column indicates the dates of beginning and ending of each session of Congress. In accordance with the usage of the Congressional record, and its predecessors—the Annals of Congress, the Register of debates, and the Congressional globe—this Checklist uses the legislative day for the termination of the sessions of the first 56 Congresses and the calendar day, beginning with the 57th Congress. In2 Indian treaties. Compilation of all treaties between United States and Indian tribes now in force as laws; prepared [by Thomas J. Durant] under provisions of act approved Mar. 3, 1873. 1873. large 8°

[This collection of Indian treaties is not a compilation of the Indian Affairs Office, nor of either of the Indian Affairs Committees of Senate or House. The authority for its publication is found in sec. 2 of the act of Mar. 3, 1873, providing for a revision of the laws of the United States, the consolidation of laws relating to post-roads, a code relating to military offenses, and the revision of treaties with Indian tribes now in force (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 579). The volume is, without doubt, the revision of Indian treaties by Thomas J. Durant, mentioned in sec. 10 of the act of June 20, 1874, providing for publication of Revised statutes and laws of United States (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 114).]

Executive proceedings of Senate (note).

[The Executive journals are, of course, the journals of the executive sessions of the Senate, which are held in secret. These journals are not printed in ordinary course, but only by special order of the Senate. The first order for this purpose was made Apr. 4, 1828, and provided for the publication of the secret journals of the first 19 Congresses. As a matter of fact the journals of the 20th Congress were also included, and the period of time covered was from May 25, 1789, when the first executive session was held, to Feb. 23, 1829. This issue was in 3 v., printed in Washington by Duff Green, the imprint date in each volume being 1828. The edition was 700 copies.

Fifty-eight years elapsed before another order for printing the Executive journals was passed. Its date was June 28, 1886, and it provided for publishing the journals from the close of the 20th Congress to the close of the 40th Congress, a period of 40 years, ending Mar. 3, 1869. One hundred copies only were ordered printed, but later the secretary of the Senate reported that he had taken the liberty of printing 125 copies. The injunction of secrecy was not removed from this print until June 14, 1888, and at the same time a distribution was ordered which took up 107 sets, each of the then 76 Senators getting 1, the Senate library 5, the House library 2, the Library of Congress 2, and sundry officials the others, 18 sets only remaining to be held in reserve by the Senate. These facts account for the great difficulties which the representative libraries of the country have found in completing their sets of the Executive journals, especially for the 40 years from 1829 to 1869. The issue for this period, 20th to 40th Congresses, was from the Government Printing Office, imprinted 1887, and in 13 v., numbered 4–16, but in 15 books, v. 14 and 15 being each in 2 pts.

The Senate next took up the matter of publishing the Executive journals, Jan. 21, 1901, and then provided that the journals from Mar. 3, 1869, to the end of the 51st Congress, Mar. 1891, should be printed in an edition of 250 copies. They were so printed at the Government Printing Office, imprinted 1901, filling 11 v., numbered 17–27.

The 4th issue, covering the 52d–58th Congresses, 1891–1905, is also of 250 copies, and will fill at least 7 v., numbered 28–34,† and perhaps one or two more. None of the volumes of the Executive journals or of the reprints of the public journals is found in the series of numbered Congressional documents.]

Y2. BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS OF SENATE AND HOUSE

[Bills and resolutions of the 2 Houses of Congress are not sent to libraries. The only provision of law requiring their preservation is sec. 82 of the general printing act of Jan. 12, 1895, which provides that 4 sets shall be bound, of which 2 are deposited in the Senate document room and 2 in the House document room at the Capitol. Many large libraries, however, consider them of historic interest and value, and therefore attempt to preserve bills and resolutions in their libraries.

The files of Senate and House bills and resolutions in the Public Documents Library are very incomplete and no attempt is made here to list them. The few that it does have are arranged by the number of the Congress and session.

All bills and resolutions are printed in bill form, and, unless specially ordered by either House, are printed only when referred to a committee, when favorably reported back, and after their passage by either House. The number of bills and resolutions presented to each Congress is enormous. Since the period covered by this Checklist the practice has been changed so that there are fewer prints of bills and resolutions. The present practice (1911) is to print the bill or resolution 4, or in some cases, 5 times (instead of 6). These prints are, 1st, at the time of introduction and reference to the committee of the House in which the bill originates; 2d, when reported by that committee; 3d, when introduced and referred to the corresponding committee in the other House; 4th, when reported by that committee, the 5th print being only in case of appropriation bills, where the amendments are very numerous. A Senate bill has now rarely more than 4 prints. When a bill has passed both Houses it is prepared on parchment for the President's signature.

A bill is a "bill" as long as it remains in the House in which it originates; it becomes an "act," when it has passed that House of Congress and been referred to the other House; it does not, however, become an "act" or "statute" in the legal sense of the term until it has passed both Houses and been approved and signed by the President. For further information concerning the stages of the progress of a bill, the reader is referred to p. 487–492 of the 1909 edition of the House Manual (Y4.R86/1:909), and to later House manuals. Bills are either of a public or private nature. The term "private bill" is construed by law to mean "all bills for the relief of private parties, bills granting pensions, bills removing political disabilities, and bills for the survey of rivers and harbors."

Bills and joint resolutions are presented to the President for signature and become law on his approval. If the President disapproves, he returns the bill, with his objections, to that House in which it originates, and if both Houses on reconsideration pass the bill by a two-thirds vote, the bill becomes a law over the President's veto. If any bill is not returned by the President within 10 days (Sundays excepted) after it is presented to him, the same becomes a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevents its return, in which case it does not become a law.

Resolutions are of 3 kinds, namely, simple, joint, and concurrent. The enacting clause of a simple resolution of either House is the one word "Resolved." Resolutions of inquiry addressed to the heads of Executive Departments are usually simple rather than concurrent in form and are never joint resolutions. A simple resolution becomes operative on its passage by the House in which it originates. It does not go to the other House, nor does it go the President for signature. Simple resolutions can apply only to subjects which are in the jurisdiction of the one House of Congress involved.

Joint resolutions have as their resolving clause the words "Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled." Amendments to the Constitution are proposed in the form of joint resolutions, which have their several readings and are enrolled and signed by the presiding officers of the 2 Houses. With the exception of joint resolutions of that nature, all joint resolutions are sent to the President for approval and have the full force of law. They are used for what may be called the incidental, unusual, or inferior purposes of legislating, as, for example, extending the national thanks to individuals, notice to a foreign government of the abrogation of a treaty, declaration of intervention in Cuba, correction of an error in an existing act of legislation, special appropriations for minor and incidental purposes, etc. At one time they were used for purposes of general legislation; but the 2 Houses finally concluded that a bill was the proper instrumentality for this purpose. A joint resolution may be changed to a bill by amendment. The only difference between the enacting clause of a bill and the resolving clause of a joint resolution is that the bill reads "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled," whereas the joint resolution substitutes in the foregoing phrase the word "Resolved" for "Be it enacted."

The resolving clause of a House concurrent resolution is "Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring)," and in the case of a Senate concurrent resolution "Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring)." In the modern practice concurrent resolutions have been developed as a means of expressing fact, principles, opinions, and purposes of the 2 Houses. For example, joint committees are authorized by resolutions of this form. A concurrent resolution is binding on neither House until agreed to by both. It is not sent to the President for approval unless it contain a proposition of legislation, which is not within the scope of the modern form of concurrent resolution.

Money can not be appropriated by simple or concurrent resolutions.

Bills and simple, joint, and concurrent resolutions which are introduced in one session of a Congress may be considered at a later session of the same Congress; but the bill or resolution dies with the expiration of that Congress. The same bill may of course be reintroduced with a new number in a later Congress.

Readers who are desirous of tracing the legislative history of any particular bill or resolution are referred to the history of such bill or resolution as listed in the numerical arrangements incorporated in the indexes to the Congressional record, and in the Senate or House journals. See also entries under Y1.3:B49 Cong. sess..]

Y3. COMMISSIONS AND BOARDS

[The Public Documents Library classes here commissions and boards appointed directly by Congress or by the President. Those commissions and boards which were appointed by any of the Executive Departments or independent branches of the Government will be found under each Department. Mixed commissions to settle international disputes are classed under S3.; all other international commissions are classed under S5.

Under Y3. are classed also a few committees which were authorized by the President; see, for committees of Congress, Y4.]

Y3.Al1: Alabama Claims, Court of Commissioners of, 1st and 2d, 1874-76 and 1882-85

[The legal name of this court is Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims, but the popular name is Alabam a Claims Commission.

Created under act approved June 23, 1874. The court was organized July 22, 1874, and its duration was extended from time to time to Jan. 1, 1877. The 1st court finally adjourned Dec. 29, 1876. The powers of the clerk of the court were extended for an additional period of 2 months.

Reestablished under act approved June 5, 1882. This 2d court was organized July 13, 1882, and its time was extended to Dec. 31, 1885, the date of its final adjournment. The powers of the clerk of the court were extended for an additional period of 6 months.

The records of the 1st court were distributed to such an extent that only 3 sets could be gathered for binding at the close of the court. The set in the State Department library comprises 12 v. of Petitions, arranged by docket numbers; 38 v. of Records, arranged by alphabetically listing the ships captured, and grouping the cases under each; a volume of Opinions; a List of claims by docket number; and an Index by claimants' names.

The Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims passed upon individual claims presented as a result of the award under the Treaty of Washington; see, for publications of the Geneva arbitration under that treaty, S3.13[1]:, and for Receipt and investment of Geneva award money, T1.2:G28.]

Y3.C52: Claims Commissioners

[The 10 general reports issued as numbered documents are brief. They were followed by a set of reports identical in numbers and subject matter, but much amplified. These were issued in 4 quarto v., 1876–81. They are not in any numbered document series, and but 50 copies were printed. They are consequently very rare and are much sought after by claimants and attorneys. The reports were followed by a "consolidated index," making a large quarto volume, issued in 1892.

2d general report, 1872. [1571–12]	7th general report, 1877. [1815–4]
3d general report, 1873. [1617–23]	8th general report, 1878. [1861–6]
4th general report, 1874. [1653–18]	9th general report, 1879. [1928–10]
5th general report, 1875. [1698–30]	10th general report, 1880. [1929–30].]

Y3.L44: Laws of United States, Commission to Revise

[Act approved June 4, 1897 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 58), provided "that the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint three commissioners, whose duty it shall be, under the direction of the Attorney-General, to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States." The duties of this commission were extended, by act approved Mar. 3, 1899 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 1116), to include the revision of laws concerning the jurisdiction and practice of the United States courts. By act approved Mar. 3, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 1181), Congress further extended the duties of the commission to include the revision of all laws of a permanent and general nature. Congress, by act approved June 30, 1906 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 754), directed that the commission should complete its work and make a final report to Congress on or before Dec. 16, 1906.

The commission was at first known as Commission to Revise and Codify Criminal and Penal Laws, later, when its duties were enlarged, as Commission to Revise Laws of United States.

Although by law the commission made annual reports to the Attorney-General, its final report was to be made directly to Congress, therefore the publications of the commission are classed under Y3., Commissions and boards, rather than J., Justice Department.

L. v. 21, p. 245), was directed by law to codify the land laws and submit a plan for the classification of the public lands, the work to be finished by Jan. 1, 1881. The commissioners were James A. Williamson, commissioner of General Land Office, Clarence King, geologist, Alexander T. Britton, John W. Powell, and Thomas Donaldson. Their publications are said to exhibit the entire legislation of Congress, up to and through the 2d session of the 46th Congress, upon which public land titles in the States and Territories have depended, with a digest of all Indian treaties affecting titles, and tables of judicial and executive decisions. After the commission ceased to exist, later editions were issued which embraced the laws passed up to the end of the 47th Congress, 1st session, but as the later editions are only continuations of the publications of the commission, brought down to date by the original compiler where possible, in other cases the work being done by the General Land Office, they are classed here with the publications of the commission.]

Y3.R32: Revision of Statutes Commission

See, for Revised statutes, S7.10:, and for Commission to Revise Laws of United States, appointed under act approved June 4, 1897, Y3.L44:

[As early as 1848 the bulk of the Statutes at large, then filling 9 volumes, led to a desire for a revision, excluding private and obsolete enactments and including the whole body of permanent general laws of the United States in one volume. In 1848 there was a strong report from the House Judiciary Committee in favor of such a revision, and other similar reports followed, with the result that an act approved June 27, 1866 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 74), was passed by Congress. The commissioners appointed under this act were Caleb Cushing, Charles P. James, and William Johnson. The first appropriation to carry out this law was in an act approved Mar. 2, 1867 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 455, 456), and it is not probable that the commissioners began work before the appropriation became available. Cushing was sent to Bogota in 1868 to adjust a diplomatic dispute, and it does not appear that he acted further with the commission. The Official register of 1869 contains only the names of James and Johnson as commissioners. By act approved May 4, 1870 (Stat. L. v. 16, p. 96), the law of June 1866, was extended three years longer, and the names of the commissioners given in the Official register were Charles P. James, Benj. Vaughan Abbott, and Victor C. Barringer. Several reports were made by the commissioners in which it appeared that they had made many minor changes in the wording of the statutes, though such changes were noted in the margins. Their work was not acceptable for the reason that it was regarded as impossible to enact a revision of the statutes proposing so many changes. An act approved Mar. 3, 1873 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 579), was passed putting the work under the control of a joint committee of the House and Senate, composed of Members and Senators appointed from the Committees on the Revision of the Laws of the Senate and House respectively, which was authorized to receive from the commissioners whatever reports they should make, and discharge them when their term of service expired, which was May 4, 1873. The joint committee was also authorized to contract with some person or persons, learned in the law, to complete the work of revising the statutes of the United States, and Thomas Jefferson Durant was selected to continue and finish the work. Durant revised the commissioners' work, and his revision was introduced in the House as a bill of the 43d Congress, 1st session, Dec. 10, 1873, by Benjamin F. Butler, being given the number H. 1215. The copy of this bill in the Public Documents Library is without title-page, bill number, or heading, the lines being numbered by sections as bills usually are, bound in leather, with back title: Proposed revision of laws, 1873 (see Y3.R32:P94). This bill was referred to the Committee on Revision of the Laws, and copies sent to many distinguished lawyers throughout the United States, that it might be examined and made as perfect as possible when reported to the House. its 2d reading in the House was Bill to revise and consolidate statutes of United States in force on 1st day of December, 1873. It passed the House, was engrossed, and sent to the Senate, where it also passed. The copy of the act in the Public Documents Library (Y3.R32:Ac8) bears the autograph signatures of James G. Blaine, Speaker of the House, Matthew H. Carpenter, President of the Senate, and the approval of the act signed by U. S. Grant, President of the United States. This copy was presented by Luke P. Poland to Dr. Wm. K. Mehaffey, at that time a reading clerk of the House. The act was approved June 22, 1874, and published in 1875, the volume containing also, as an appendix, an act to correct errors and supply omissions, approved Feb. 18, 1875 (S7.9:18[1]).

A report by Durant, made to the joint committee and embodying a statement of the changes he had made in the work of the commissioners, is referred to by Mr. Poland in the debates on the bill before the House of Representatives, for which see Congressional record, Jan. 21, 1874 (X182, p. 819). This report is supposed to have been published, though diligent inquiry has failed to locate a copy.

Durant also revised the laws relating to the District of Columbia, and compiled the Indian treaties, the post-road bill, and the bill regulating the punishment for military offenses.

In 1877, George S. Boutwell was appointed a commissioner for the purpose of preparing and publishing a new edition of the 1st volume of the Revised statutes. This edition was published in 1878, and is the legal standard; see S7.10:1.]

Y3.Sp2: Spanish Treaty Claims Commission

[Organized Apr. 8, 1901, under act approved Mar. 2, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 877). This act provided that the commission should consist of 5 members to be appointed by the President, and that their power and jurisdiction should end 2 years from date of act. The President was given power to grant 6 months extensions from time to time. The commission finally became extinct May 2, 1910. By the Treaty of Paris, Dec. 1898, the United States and Spain mutually agreed to relinquish all claims for indemnity against each other, individual as well as national, the United States at the same time agreeing to adjudicate and settle the claims of its citizens against Spain. It was for the examination of these claims that the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission was created. During the 9 years of its existence it examined 542 claims, involving $64,931,694. It awarded altogether only $1,387,845.

Although this Checklist is intended to end with the calendar year 1909, an exception has been made for the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission, and the final publications issued by it in 1910 have been added in order to make the list of its publications complete.]

Y4. COMMITTEES OF CONGRESS

[The greater number of the publications issued by Congressional committees consists of their reports on bills and resolutions. These reports usually appear only in the numbered series of House or Senate reports listed in the Congressional tables on p. 1–169 of this Checklist.

The Public Documents Library file of hearings before Congressional committees is by no means complete, because of the impossibility of collecting all the material which has been published. For recent years, the file is more nearly complete, and such as are in the Public Documents Library are here listed.

Since many of the publications of the committees of the Senate and House of Representatives have been issued in separate signatures and in incomplete editions, it has been decided to list in this Checklist only the completed editions so far as known. The signatures and incomplete copies have been discarded from the Public Documents Library, it having been considered wise not to treat them even as separates.]

Y4.Ac2: Accounts Committee (House)

[Recommendations for a compilation of the committee reports of the House and Senate were made by the Printing Committee in 1884, in House reports 2157 and 2158, 48th Congress, 1st session, and again in 1886, in House report 3362, 49th Congress, 1st session. The origin of the proposed compilation dates back to the 46th Congress, at which time a number of persons connected with both branches of Congress suggested the utility of such a work. It was finally provided for by public resolution 27, 49th Congress, 1st session, approved July 29, 1886 (Stat. L. v. 24, p. 345), which authorized the preparation under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing of a compilation of the reports of the Senate and House of Representatives from the 14th to the 48th Congress, 1815–84. A concurrent resolution of Mar. 3, 1887, provided that the work should be brought down to 1887. The compilation and indexing were done by Thomas Hudson McKee, resulting in 515 v. of reports. A number of these volumes were issued in several parts so that the actual number of books exceeded 515. Of the 515 v., 179 v. were for the Senate committees and 336 v. for the House committees, furnished with 94 indexes, 36 to Senate reports and 58 to House reports, making a distinct index for each standing committee and a combined index in each House for the select and special committees for which individual volumes had not been issued. Each index was bound with the volume or volumes which it indexed. The 515 v. were not issued as a set, but each committee was supplied with a complete collection of its own reports. A duplicate set of the compilation was provided for by public resolution 36, approved Aug. 8, 1888, 50th Congress, 1st session (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 628), in order that each House might have a complete set. Capt. McKee published an edition of the 94 indexes, separately from the reports, for sale to libraries and collectors, these separates not being entered in this Checklist. The collections extended from the date of organization of each committee to the close of the 49th Congress, 1887, in no case, however, beginning at an earlier date than the opening of the 14th Congress, 1815.

These reports and indexes are entered with the individual committees to which the volumes belong, under the following call numbers:

Margry, Pierre. Early French discoveries in the Northwest and on the Mississippi, v. 1–6 (note).

[By act approved Mar. 3, 1873 (42d Cong. 3d sess., Stat. L. v. 17, p. 513), appropriation was made "To enable the Joint Committee on the Library to purchase and print a series of unpublished historical documents relating to the early French discoveries in the Northwest and on the Mississippi, $10,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, the printing of the same to be under the direction of said committee." The Library Committee never published a report concerning the work which it was thus authorized to issue, but it is identified by references in the annual reports of the Librarian of Congress for 1874–77, 1881, and 1882. The reference in the report for 1875 (44th Cong. 1st sess., S. misc. doc. 31) follows: "The publication of the large and valuable selection of original French documents relating to the discoveries and explorations made in the northwestern portion of the United States and on the Mississippi, under the auspices of the French Government, from 1614 to 1752, was authorized by act of Congress of Mar. 3, 1873, under the direction of the Joint Committee on the Library. After some delays, the printing of these documents was commenced a few months since under the superintendence of Mr. Pierre Margry, a highly competent historical writer and archiviste of the department of the navy at Paris. The collection will form 6 octavo volumes, of about 600 pages each, and will embrace a great mass of hitherto unpublished papers, comprising letters and journals of early missionaries and other explorers, the first 3 volumes being devoted to the discoveries of Cavelier de La Salle and his companions. These documents, the first volume of which is nearly ready," etc. In his Report for 1876 (44th Cong. 2d sess., S. misc. doc. 27) the Librarian says that "the whole work will be embraced in 6 octavo volumes, with an atlas of maps in quarto. * * * The edition of these historical volumes being small, only 500 copies, it is recommended that, instead of a gratuitous distribution, the Librarian be authorized to exchange copies of the work with historical societies and other libraries for any books deemed equivalent in value." A letter from the Librarian of Congress, Apr. 15, 1901, states, "Mons. Margry died pending the completion of the atlas, and no atlas was issued in connection with the governmental edition. Dr. Spofford informs me that later one did appear in Paris in connection with a commercial edition." The work was printed in Paris, entirely in French, and there is nothing on it or in it to indicate that any branch of the Government of the United States was in any way engaged in its publication.]

	[Though the Congressional directory does not appear among the numbered Congressional documents until 1881, a manual under that name has been issued from an early period in Congressional history and perhaps from the beginning. The earliest copy about which the Public Documents Library has information is for the 11th Congress (1809), although the first in its possession is for the 17th Congress (1821). The Directory was compiled and printed as a private venture till 1847, and the names of compilers and printers are many. In the 30th Congress (1848), the Directory assumed an official air by bearing on its title-page the words "compiled and published for the use of Congress by the postmaster of the House of Representatives." This style was continued until the 39th Congress (1865), when by joint resolution approved Feb. 14, the publication was put under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing and required to be printed at the Government Printing Office. From that date down to the 55th Congress, the Directory was edited by the clerk of the Senate Committee on Printing, but from the 2d edition of the Directory for the 55th Congress, 2d session, through the 61st Congress it was compiled by A. J. Halford, who died in Apr. 1910. The early directories are queer little pamphlets, the 17th Congress copy being 3¾ by 5¼ inches in size and 47 pages thick, contrasting strongly with the 400 or 500 page octavo of today. In assigning book numbers under Y4.P93 [1] 1, the Congress and session are used as superior numbers with a dash between; a period is used to separate what precedes from the number of the edition following. In the book number, "sp" when used stands for special session of the Senate, and "ex" for extra session of Congress.]

Y4.R24: Reconstruction Joint Committee

[The joint committee was composed of very prominent men, and the details of its action, as shown by the Journal of its proceedings, were thought by the Senate of the 48th Congress to be worth printing. An order was passed Feb. 26, 1884, more than 17 years after the committee had dissolved, for printing 6000 copies of its Journal. As printed, the Journal makes a pamphlet of 49 p., without cover, title-page, imprint date, or place of publication. It has a half title, reading thus: "39th Congress, 1st session, Joint Committee on Reconstruction, Journal." Another half title, like the first, except that "2d session" is substituted for "1st session," is found at p. 43. The only conclusion to be drawn from these half titles is that the document was printed during the 39th Congress (1865-67), and not the slightest clue is given by the document itself to the fact that it was not printed till the 48th Congress, 1st session (1884). Why it was not also printed as a numbered document, as required by law (R. S. sec. 3792), is not now known. This Journal, though the number of copies printed was comparatively large, has already become very rare. The only copy concerning which the Public Documents Library has any information is the one in its own file.]

Y4.R86[2]: Rules Committee (Senate)

Y4.R86[2]: Rules Committee (Senate), Senate manual

[Miss Adelaide R. Hasse is our authority for the following statement as to Senate and House manuals: They are "an outgrowth of Jefferson's manual, first published in 1800, republished in two variations in 1801, and of which the 2d edition was printed in 1812. From time to time as ordered by the Senate, not for each session, new editions were issued. Gradually the form was changed and Jefferson's manual was subordinated and the Senate rules were given precedence. In the early years, there may be found copies of the Senate rules and of Jefferson's manual in separate pamphlets for the same year. In general, these remarks apply also to the House manual. It is certain that for many years the same publication contained both House and Senate rules, and therefore being used in both Houses, it is not likely that there was, strictly speaking, a House manual and a Senate manual."

Jefferson's manual was prepared by Thomas Jefferson for his own guidance as President of the Senate in the years of his Vice-Presidency, 1797–1801.

The Public Documents Library is unable to give any further information concerning the editions prior to 1812, and it is probable that there are also later editions of which it has no information.]

[An edition was ordered printed by concurrent resolution of Apr. 30, 1898 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 1798) which would have continued the work of Furber and covered all Senate election cases up to July 8, 1898, but, presumably, this edition was never issued and the so-called 3d edition of Taft's compilation, printed as serial no. 4558, took the place of it.]

Y5.2: Contested elections (miscellaneous cases)

(CT) [The classification Y5.2: is used in Public Documents Library for the printed testimony, etc., in individual contested election cases before the Elections Committees, House (Y4.E12 [2]:) and the Privileges and Elections Committee, Senate (Y4.P93 [6]:). Individual contested election cases are not, however, listed in this Checklist.

For a long period of time prior to and including the 48th Congress, which adjourned Mar. 3, 1885, the testimony, etc., in contested election cases were printed as numbered Congressional documents, and were consequently bound and preserved in the Congressional set. In the Public Documents Library there are no editions without Congressional document numbers down to and including the 48th Congress, and probably the Congressional edition was the only form in which up to 1885 such testimony was printed as public documents.

Beginning with the 49th Congress, the testimony in individual cases no longer appears in the Congressional set. Such portions of the testimony as both parties agree to have printed, or in case of disagreements between them, such portions as may be determined upon by the clerk of the House of Representatives are printed under the direction of said clerk, with a suitable index and accompanied by the notice of contest and the answer of the sitting member.

The testimony, etc., mentioned above, with the briefs of the contestant and contestee (these briefs are not Government publications), form the basis upon which the Elections Committees, House, and the Privileges and Elections Committee, Senate, make their reports to the House and Senate. These reports are included now, as heretofore, among the numbered House or Senate reports, and as such are included in the Congressional set. See, for other publications of interest in connection with contested elections, entries under Y4.E12 [2]: and Y4.P93 [6]:

The existing law relating to contested elections is embraced in Revised statutes, sec. 105–130, as amended or modified by acts of Mar. 2, 1875, Mar. 3, 1879, and Mar. 2, 1887 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 338; v. 20, p. 400; v. 24, p. 445).

Y6. IMPEACHMENTS

Y6.1: Impeachments (proceedings in trials, etc.)

[Up to Dec. 31, 1909, 8 cases of impeachment have been tried before the Senate of the United States, the body designated by the Constitution as having sole power to try impeachments. The names of those tried and the dates of their trials are as follows: William Blount (1797–99), John Pickering (1803–04), Samuel Chase (1804–05), James H. Peck (1830–31), West H. Humphreys (1862), Andrew Johnson (1868), William W. Belknap (1876), and Charles Swayne (1904–05). In some instances the proceedings were printed by firms other than those authorized by the Government, in which case they would not be entered in this Checklist. Such Government editions as are in the Public Documents Library are listed below, while references are given to those volumes of the proceedings of Congress which contain the trials not issued in separate form.]

Y8. MESSAGE AND DOCUMENTS

[The set known as "Message and documents" is not listed in this Checklist. The set had no value, because it was merely a duplication (except for binding) of some of the volumes which appeared in the Congressional set; yet it was published for nearly half a century, beginning about 1842–43, or possibly a little earlier, and ending with the Message and documents communicated to Congress at the beginning of the 2d session of the 54th Congress, being the issues for 1896–97. The double dates are those of the beginning and ending of the session of Congress to which the documents were transmitted. The annual reports contained are for the year corresponding to the first of the double dates. There seems to have been no definite provision of law which justified the existence or the termination of the set.

The series consisted in the early days of the Message of the President and the annual reports, with their accompanying papers, of such of the Executive Departments as were required by law to present their reports to Congress through the President; but beginning with the Message to the 1st session of the 48th Congress, for 1883–84, the "Message" no longer appeared in the set, and the name "Message and documents," by which it was still known to the end of its existence, became a misnomer.

The annual reports of Executive Departments contained in the set have varied considerably; but the annual reports of the Treasury Department and its subordinate bureaus, which were submitted directly to Congress and not through the President, were never included in the Message and documents series. It seems absurd that an "Abridgment" should contain important matter not found in the volumes abridged; still it is true that the Abridgments of message and documents (a series which began in 1858 and is still in 1911 compiled by law under the direction of the Printing Joint Committee; see Y4.P93[1]:2) contained the Treasury reports not found in the Message and documents set, and contained also the Message of the President, which as noted above was omitted from the Message and documents set beginning with the 1883–84 issue.

The number of books for each year in the Message and documents series varied from 1 to 19. For several of the early years the individual books carried a general part number for the year, but later the general part number no longer was used and thereafter the individual books carried either no part or volume number at all or else only the volume or part number of the particular annual report itself. This fact makes the set difficult to arrange on library shelves.

The Public Documents Library classifies its Message and documents set under Y8., followed between the period and the colon by the number of the Congress and session, the number of the session appearing as a superior figure; for example, Y8.53[3]: Two styles of book numbers are required after the colon, but of course only one style is necessary in the same year. First, for those early years which have a general part number, this becomes the book number. Second, for the later issues where there is no general part or volume number covering all the books for any individual year, the Public Documents Library uses as book number a capital letter indicating the initial of the Executive Department concerned (or 2 or more initials separated by commas, in case a book contains reports from 2 or more Executive Departments); in cases where the report of one Department fills several volumes, these are distinguished by adding superior numbers after the initial of the Department. Following are examples:

Y8.37[3]:5=Message and documents, 37th Congress, 3d session, 1862–63, pt. 5
Y8.38[1]:P, A=Message and documents, 38th Congress, 1st session, 1863–64, Post-Office Dept., Commissioner of Agriculture, etc.
Y8.38[1]:S[1]=Message and documents, 38th Congress, 1st session, 1863–64, State Dept., pt. 1
Y8.38[1]:W=Message and documents, 38th Congress, 1st session, 1863–64, War Dept.
Y8.54[2]:I[4]=Message and documents, 54th Congress, 2d session, 1896–97, Interior Dept., v. 4, pt. 1
Y8.54[2]:I[5]=Message and documents, 54th Congress, 2d session, 1896–97, Interior Dept., v. 4, pt. 2.]

Y9. SPEECHES

[Sec. 37 of the general printing act of Jan. 12, 1895 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 606), provides that "it shall be lawful for the Public Printer to print and deliver, upon the order of any Senator, Representative, or Delegate, extracts from the Congressional record, the person ordering the same paying the cost thereof." This section is merely a reenactment, with slightly different wording, of a provision in the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act approved Mar. 3, 1875 (Stat. L. v. 18, pt. 3, p. 347).

Although the printing of speeches of Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in separate pamphlets is therefore paid for out of private funds, the Public Printer is authorized to furnish without cost to Senators, Members, and Delegates franked envelopes in which these speeches may be franked through the mails like other public documents.

Speeches are classed in the Public Documents Library under Y9., but they are not listed in this Checklist. The Public Documents Library arranges its file alphabetically by the names of the speakers, assigning book numbers from the Cutter order table. Different speeches by the same man are distinguished by using a superior figure following the Cutter number. Included in the same alphabet are a few other extracts from the Congressional record containing debates in Congress; these debates are Cutterized under the subject word.]

Z1.1: American archives

[By act of Mar. 2, 1833, the Secretary of State was authorized to contract with Matthew St. Clair Clarke and Peter Force for the publication of a work entitled "Documentary history of American Revolution." This work is known as American archives, and as originally projected was to comprise 6 series, consisting of a collection of authentic records, state papers, debates, and letters, and other notices of public affairs, the whole forming a documentary history of the origin and progress of the North American colonies, of the causes and accomplishment of the American Revolution, and of the Constitution of Government for the United States to the final ratification thereof, covering the period from the discovery and settlement of North America to the ratification of the Constitution of the United States. The contents of the 6 series were planned as follows:

2d series, from Revolution in England, 1688, to cession of Canada to Great Britain by Treaty at Paris, 1763.

3d series, from cession of Canada, 1763, to King's message to Parliament, Mar. 7, 1774, on proceedings in North America.

4th series, from King's message, Mar. 7, 1774, to Declaration of Independence by United States, 1776.

5th series, from Declaration of Independence, 1776, to definitive treaty of peace with Great Britain, 1783.

6th series, from treaty of peace, 1783, to final ratification of Constitution for United States, 1787.

Of this work, only the 4th series, consisting of 6 volumes, and 3 volumes of the 5th series were published owing to the failure of Congress to make sufficient appropriations for the work, and also owing to the lack of interest of Secretary of State Marcy who failed to approve of the last volume submitted to him by Peter Force. The period covered by the published portion is from Mar. 7, 1774, to Dec. 31, 1776.

The vast quantity of unused material which Peter Force had been collecting for 40 years was bought by Congress in 1864 for $100,000 and deposited in the Library of Congress where it still remains unpublished and on account of its incomplete and confused condition little hope is held for its reproduction.

The 9 folio volumes of American archives were not published as numbered Congressional documents but 1500 sets were supplied to Congress for distribution.]

Se2 Secret proceedings and debates of [Federal] Convention at Philadelphia, 1787, for purpose of forming Constitution of United States, from notes taken by late Robert Yates, chief justice of New York, and copied by John Lansing, jun., late chancellor of that State, members of that convention, including "genuine information," laid before Legislature of Maryland by Luther Martin, then attorney general of that State, and member of same convention, also other historical documents relative to Federal compact of North American Union. Washington, printed for G. Templeman, 1836. [An earlier edition, Albany, printed by Websters and Skinners, 1821, is not in Public Documents Library. It was reprinted as 60th Congress, 2d session, Senate document 728, serial no. 5402.]

Z2.2: Diplomatic correspondence of American Revolution, 1776-83 (Sparks)

[Mar. 27, 1818, Congress ordered the publication, under direction of the President, of sundry historical documents, among them "the foreign correspondence of the Congress of the United States, from the first meeting thereof down to the date of the ratification of the definitive treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States in the year 1783," except such parts as the President might choose to withhold. The work of editing was entrusted to Jared Sparks, and he brought out, from the press of N. Hale, Boston, 1829–30, "The diplomatic correspondence of the American Revolution," in 12 volumes (see Z2.2:1 1-12). The edition ordered by Congress was 1000 sets. John C. Rives printed in Washington, 1857, an edition in 6 volumes (see Z2.2:2 1-6), of which 500 sets were taken by the State Department.

May 5, 1832, Congress appropriated $12,000 "to enable the Secretary of State to cause to be printed, under his direction, a selection from the diplomatic correspondence of the United States, between the peace of 1783 and the 4th of March, 1789, remaining unpublished in the Department of State." Under this authority appeared, Washington, printed by Francis Preston Blair, 1833–34, in 7 volumes, "The diplomatic correspondence of the United States, from the signing of the definitive treaty of peace, Sept. 10, 1783, to the adoption of the Constitution, Mar. 4, 1789" (see Z2.3:1 1-7). accepted as accurate, for though the Government created under the Constitution went into operation Mar. 4, 1789 (or would have done so if a Congressional quorum had assembled promptly), that is not the date of the adoption of the Constitution. A 2d edition of the diplomatic correspondence, 1783-89, was published in Washington, 1837, by Blair and Rives (see Z2.3:2[1-7]), and this was reprinted, 1855, in 3 volumes, by John C Rives (see Z2.3:31[-3]). None of these early collections is found in the numbered series of Congressional documents.

A new collection, edited by Francis Wharton, covering approximately the same period as Sparks, and entitled "The Revolutionary diplomatic correspondence of the United States," was issued by the Government Printing Office, 1889, in 6 volumes (see Z2.4:1-6). Wharton restores the integrity of the text, with which Sparks had taken undue liberties, and adds much new matter. Of this collection 7000 sets were printed in addition to the Congressional edition.]

Z2.5: Journals of Continental Congress, 1774-88

[The earliest printed volume of the Journal of the Continental Congress was for the session held at Philadelphia, Sept. 5, 1774; it was printed at Philadelphia by William and Thomas Bradford, 1774. An edition for the same session was immediately issued by Hugh Gaine, New York, 1774. Two later Journals were printed in Philadelphia by William and Thomas Bradford in 1775 and 1776, respectively. This ended the publication of the Journals by the Bradfords, and as their work had become unsatisfactory on account of their delay in printing, another printer was employed who could execute the work more expeditiously. Robert Aitken then printed the Journals for a time, beginning where the Bradfords left off. Under the sanction of a committee of Congress, but not by Congress itself, Aitken published the Journal in monthly subdivisions from Jan. to May, 1776. This was completed in Oct. 1776.

Meantme on Sept. 26, 1776, the Continental Congress ordered that Aitken be employed to reprint the Journals from the beginning, with all possible expedition, and to continue to print the same. Aitken was further directed to purchase from the Bradfords such parts of the Journals as they had printed, but not yet published, to be paid for by the Congress. Under this order and by direction of the printing committee, Aitken issued in 2 v. his new edition of the Journals. With these volumes began the authorized edition listed below under Z2.5: No further mention is made in this Checklist of the various editions issued prior to the authorized prints of Aitken. See, for further information, and for a minute account of the manuscript and printed Journals and papers of the Continental Congress, the article by Herbert Friedenwald in v. 1 of the 1896 report of the American Historical Association (SI 4.1:896[1]). The list under Z2.5: is compiled from Friedenwald's bibliography.

The Journals, containing the public proceedings, 1774–88, were reprinted by Richard Folwell, Philadelphia, 1800–01, in 13 v. (Z2.6:1–13). They were again reprinted by Way and Gideon, Washington, 1823, in 4 v. (Z2.7:1–4). The more complete edition, edited by Worthington Chauncey Ford from the original manuscript and published by the Manuscripts Division, Library of Congress (LC4.5:) was begun in 1904. At the end of the period covered by this Checklist (Dec. 31, 1909) the Library of Congress had published 15 v. of the Journals of the Continental Congress, covering the period from 1774 to Dec. 31, 1779. The later volumes of this set have been edited by Gaillard Hunt, and the work is still in process of completion. None of these editions is included in the set of numbered Congressional documents.

The Journals which appeared in daily, weekly, or monthly form are not entered in this Checklist. The aforementioned article by Friedenwald in the 1896 American Historical Association report includes bibliographical information concerning many such prints.

See, for papers of the period of the Continental Congress other than the Journals, the Bibliographical notes included in the Journals of the Continental Congress, issued by the Manuscripts Division, Library of Congress (LC4.5:). These Bibliographical notes were also issued separately and classed under LC4.5[a]:]

Z3.2: Wait's state papers

J 33 S8

[Though only one document, and that unimportant, relating to Wait's collection of state papers and public documents has been found in the Congressional series, it is well known that Congress bought numerous copies of the several editions, of which there were three, the first in 8 v., the second in 10 v., and the third in 12 v. The first issue, in 1814, began with Jefferson's administration. After 5 v. had been issued, bringing the record and date of printing down to 1815, a return was made to the beginning, and 3 v. of the papers of the administrations of Washington and John Adams were issued in 1815. These were made v. 1-3 of the 1st edition, the volumes previously issued becoming v. 4-8, with an index to the series in v. 8. The 2d edition, issued 1817, carried the chronological record one volume farther and added a 10th volume made up of confidential documents, 1790-1813, not previously printed, this volume having its own index. The 3d edition, printed in 1819, brings the record down to 1818. Only v. 11 and 12, with index in v. 12, are new matter. That this series is much less known and less used than Gales & Seaton's later and larger one under the name American state papers is no doubt due to the several facts that Wait covers but one subject, foreign relations, that its arrangement is chronological, with no classification, under countries or otherwise, and that it is insufficiently indexed. None of Wait's 30 volumes is included in the numbered Congressional series.]

Z3.4: Journals of Senate (Gales & Seaton's reprint)

[On May 1, 1820, the Senate passed the following order: "Resolved that there be printed . . . that part of the journal thereof of which the Senate are not in possession of any printed copy; and there be printed 300 copies thereof." Under this order the public journals of the Senate for all the sessions of the first 13 Congresses were reprinted in 5 volumes, 1820–21, at Washington, by Gales & Seaton.

The title-pages, one for each session, resemble the original prints, but do not reproduce all their variations, and Gales & Seaton's Washington imprint, with the date of reprinting, is in each case substituted for the original imprint, while the volume number is inserted in the first title-page of each volume except v. 1. There are no volume or series title-pages. There is an index for each session, but all those belonging to one volume are bound together at the end of that volume.

Z3.5: Journals of House of Representatives (Gales & Seaton's reprint)

[On May 18, 1826, the House of Representatives ordered that 400 copies of the journals of the House for each of the sessions of the 1st to 13th Congresses be printed under direction of the clerk of the House. Under this order, Gales & Seaton reprinted the journals of the House for the first 13 Congresses in 9 volumes, each bearing the imprint date 1826.

There is a title-page for each session, as in the original prints, but they are uniform in style, not following the variations of the originals, while Gales & Seaton's Washington imprint, with the date of reprinting, is substituted in each case for the original imprint, and the volume number is inserted in the first title of each volume. There are no volume or series title-pages. There is a general index for each volume.]
